Three flingers took turns for William K. Redgers and the efficiency of each one of them leaked like a lobster pot. In fact, Manager Rodgers was so put out over the exhibitions of Pete Melenry and Southpaw Bert Cole that he released the pair right after the matinet. Five errors assisted Bill's pitching corps to fall like the unseen blight of a smiling day.

But a sprinkling of fans braved the threatening weather which held up the start of the exhibition for ten minutes. Gardner was jerked in the third, when Siglin and Waiker singled following Bine's circuit punch. ARTHUR TUCK LOOMS BIG BOSTON, June 9.—The method of dividing the players' share of the world series profits undoubtedly will be changed again, according to a statement by President Ban Johnson of the American league. He said the subject would be considered at a meeting of the national commission to be held at Cincinnati Thursday.

Johnson said that a change was desirable, and he said the new plan probably would allow the first two teams in each league to share in the receipts. Five-Mile Event, Slated as Big Race of Day, Lures Many Long-Distance Runners.
