

MESSAGE TO EUROPE IS SEEN IN RUSSIA

American Ambassador Francis Sounds Warning.

VANDERLIP'S WORDS STIR

Immense Resources and Man Power of Disorganized Nation, Utilized by Germany, to Be Feared.

RYE BEACH, N. H., June 10.—Warning that if a stable government is not established in Russia, Germany will utilize Russian resources and man power and again become a great menace to the peace of Europe was given today by David R. Francis, American ambassador to Russia.

Mr. Francis was prompted to make the statement by the recent speeches of Frank A. Vanderlip, who recently resigned the presidency of the National City Bank of New York, in which Mr. Vanderlip gave his views of the industrial situation in Europe and warned America that she must be prepared to extend her credit to put European business on its feet.

"I have read with great interest," said the ambassador, "Mr. Vanderlip's note of warning delivered before the Economic Club in New York several days ago. Mr. Vanderlip had unequalled facilities for studying conditions in Europe during his four or five months' visit and his address, coming as it does from the recently resigned president of the largest financial institution in America, imparts most valuable information. He is not in the diplomatic service; if he were he would have thought a second time concerning his utterance about labor unionism in England. Those conditions are more or less serious in every European country and merit attention even in the United States.

"The bolshevik spirit which is now manifesting itself in the Canadian strikes, I am glad to see is frowned upon by the labor unions in that country as well as in our own. If that spirit should dominate in the new world or even if it should permeate labor circles to the extent it did in Russia in the beginning of the bolshevik revolution, it would be a disaster there, attempt to appropriate the lands and that would be very deplorable for the labor unions of America.

"Here the public domain is taken as it has practically all been taken up by settlers who won the soil they till and would not listen with patience to the bolshevik doctrine of nationalizing the land.

"Lenine has realized this as, before I left Russia, he about labor unionism has caused to fear the league land owners or feudal barons as he called them, but the small holders among the peasantry were the most powerful enemies of bolshevism.

"Russia could feed all Europe. It did not intend to digress, however, even to this extent, but he wished to say concerning Mr. Vanderlip's address. While he visited almost every accessible country in Europe, bolshevism and neutral he did not mention to Russia nor mention the resources of that afflicted country in his comprehensive statement. He did not even make into account the productive capacity in Russia when he stated that the population of Europe had grown from 110 million to 440 million and without increasing its productivity nearly in the same ratio.

"The annual average grain production of Russia, 2,254,449,000 bushels, 300,000 bushels as against the United States, 2,254,449,000 bushels.

"It will be seen from these figures that Russia, notwithstanding her population of 180,000,000 people, can furnish enough surplus to feed all of the remainder of Europe. These figures show only the capacity of Russia for growing those grains which sustain European life. Europe has not yet learned to eat cornmeal.

"I shall not tire your readers on this occasion to mention other immeasurable resources of Russia except to say that that country has boundless forests of timber, enormous deposits of coal, copper and lead, to say nothing of her deposits of the precious ores, gold, silver and platinum.

"German Influence in Russia Strong. Germany has not only been studying the immense resources of Russia for a half century, but during the past several decades has given careful attention to the Russian character going so far as to place German teachers in Russian schools. As I said in my testimony before the Oberman committee of the senate and on various other occasions, if Germany had deferred the war a decade or five years even, she would have had such a strong foothold in Russia that it would have been impossible to dislodge her. I have also expressed the view many times that it would be difficult, if possible, to establish peace in Europe with chaos prevailing in Russia or even with bolshevik rule dominating Russia.

"It is also my conviction that a stable government is not established in Russia that Germany will utilize the resources of that country, organize its man-power as Germany knows so well how to do and become as powerful and as great a menace to the people of Europe at the end of one or two decades as she was at the beginning of the world war. Lloyd George said to one of his colleagues at the Paris conference 'any peace which we negotiate here with Russia left out would be a travesty, for Russia comprises half of the dryland of Europe and half of Asia also—and he might have added over one-seventh of the dry land of the earth.'
