

ROSE SHOW DISPLAY DELIGHTS VISITORS

Auditorium Is Bower of Soft
Tints and Fragrance.

ORANGE SHADES PREVAIL

Exhibit Said to Be Equal of Any
Held, Due to Superb Condition of Blooms This Year.

The rose, in its full beauty of form, coloring and fragrance, such as only the Portland climate and soil can produce, is holding the admiration of thousands of Portlanders and visitors this week at the annual exhibition of the Portland Rose society, held at the auditorium.

The rose show opened yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock with hundreds of the choicest blooms ever seen here on exhibition. The climatic conditions this year have been unusually favorable for rose culture, and the time for the rose exhibition could scarcely have been chosen with better results. The warm weather of a short time ago gave the bushes a strong growth and the mild and slightly damp conditions of the past few days brought out a wealth of substance to the blooms.

Testout Display Large.
Portland's old favorite, the Madame Caroline Testout, was in preponderance at the rose show and some wonderful baskets of this great outdoor grower were on display. Hundreds of the newer varieties were on exhibition as single blooms and attracted wide attention because of their rich yellow, burnt orange and terra cotta colorings. The orange colorings with gold glowing at the base of the petals have been unusually popular among amateur and professional growers, and such varieties as the new Los Angeles, Harry Kirk, Duchess of Wellington, Ophelia and Madame Eduard Herriot were studied with interest by hundreds of rosarians.

Some wonderful blooms of Melanie Souper were on exhibition, some of these measuring over two feet in stem and possessed of unusually brilliant leathery foliage.

The judging took place yesterday afternoon just prior to the opening of the show, and the ribbons were already attached to the winning exhibits when the doors were thrown open to the public. At 1 o'clock the exhibit was opened especially for the Portland Rosarians and their friends, and at 1:30 the goddess of victory of the festival and her court visited the beauties of roseland.

The exhibit occupied the north and south halls of the auditorium, half of the display being in the south hall under the direction of J. A. Curry and the other half in the north hall under Mrs. W. C. Seachrest. The stage and other parts of the building were beautifully decorated with roses, ferns, iris and peonies, making the auditorium a veritable fairland of flowers. During the afternoon yesterday music was furnished by an orchestra under the direction of George Jeffrey, and this afternoon the captures will be organ selections by Fred Goodrich and W. R. Boone. Mrs. J. Curtis Simmons, secretary of the Portland Rose society, has charge of the musical arrangements for the occasion.

Amateur Division.

Section A. Best individual bloom from any one garden.
First prize, by Mayor George L. Baker, to Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street.
Second prize, by Portland Rose society, to G. A. Albert, 530 Vaughn street. Rose, Mrs. Joseph Welch.

Section B. Composed of separate named rose blooms in groups of six, 12, 18 and 24. The winning roses in this group were as follows: In the bouquet of six, Madame Melanie Souper, Madame Ravary, Harry Kirk, Jonkers Monk, Souvenir de Pie Nott and Lyon. The 24 best roses in bouquet, J. B. Sunburn, Juliet, Constance, Rhea Reid, Mrs. Herbert Stevens, Duchess of Sutherland, Mrs. E. Rosland, Mrs. Charles Lutan, Los Angeles, General MacArthur, Jonkers Monk, Melanie Souper, Harry Kirk, Andre Gammond, Prince de Bulgarie, Knight Carol, Mrs. Charles Russell, Coronation, Wellington. The winners were:

Class 1, six best roses separate named varieties—First prize, Mrs. William McManis, to Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to T. E. Wallace, 261 North Twenty-sixth street.

Class 2, 12 best roses, separate named varieties—First prize, by Mrs. Thomas Kerr, to J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to C. B. Frasier, 530 Multnomah street.

Class 3, 18 best roses, separate named varieties—First prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. D. M. McLachlan, 498 Twenty-first street North; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street.

Class 4, 24 best roses, separate named varieties—First prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. D. M. McLachlan, 498 Twenty-first street North; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to T. E. Wallace, 261 North Twenty-sixth street, Glorie Lyonsale.

Class 5, basket of yellow roses—First prize, by Mrs. Gordon Voorhes, to Mrs. M. Goodman, 1110 Thurman street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to A. H. Ainsworth, Portland Heights, Helaine Souper.

Class 6, basket of best roses, mixed colors—First prize, by Mrs. William M. Ladd, to Mrs. M. E. K. East, 46th street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. W. C. Seachrest, 231 East Fifty-third street North.

Class 7, pink roses, other than Caroline Testout—First prize, by Mrs. W. B. Ager, to Mrs. S. S. Montague, Hillside, Mrs. A. G. Hill, second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street, rose, Madame Abel Chastney.

Class 8, basket of white roses—First prize, Mrs. Henry Ladd Cobbett, to Mrs. J. Curtis Simmons, 377 East Fifty-second street North, rose, Frau Karl Druske; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to T. E. Wallace, 261 North Twenty-sixth street, Glorie Lyonsale.

Class 9, basket of yellow roses—First prize, by Mrs. Gordon Voorhes, to Mrs. M. Goodman, 1110 Thurman street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to A. H. Ainsworth, Portland Heights, Helaine Souper.

FESTIVAL ROYALTY AND PORTLAND ROSES HONORED

1—Mrs. Guy R. Porter, goddess of victory, smiles at her welcoming subjects. 2—President Ira L. Riggs (left) of the Rose Festival association and Prime Minister Frank E. Smith of the Royal Rosarians escort the fair goddess down a lane of Rosarians. 3—Ladies in waiting to the goddess, prodigal in smiles. 4—Admiral Fullam of the cruiser Minneapolis, on whose good ship royalty arrived. 5—Madame Ravary roses, pronounced by the judges at the rose show in auditorium as the finest display of yellow blooms, awarded first prize, section C, class 4, grown by Mrs. M. Goodman, 1110 Thurman street. 6—Prize winner in section A, finest amateur-grown individual rose, Mme. Melanie Souper, grown by Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street. 7—Basket of wonderful single rose, Irish Elegance, winner of first prize, section E, class 2, best display of single-flowered roses, grown by Mrs. W. C. Seachrest, 231 East Fifty-third street North.

Portland Rose society, to A. H. Ainsworth, Portland Heights.
Class 2, best display baby or Polyantha roses of any variety—First prize, by Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street.
Class 3, best display of not less than three separate named varieties of roses not registered with the American Rose society or the National Rose society of England or 1917—First prize, by American Rose society, to J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street; with new roses, Columbia, Victory, May Martin and Double Opelia. No second award.
Section 1—Exhibited in vases.
Class 1, best seven hybrid tea or Persian roses of any one named variety—First prize, by Mrs. E. L. Thompson, to J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. Charles Devitt, 430 Terrace drive.
Class 2, best seven hybrid perpetual roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Ed. W. Goodrich, to Mrs. E. L. Thompson, 231 East Fifty-third street North; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street.
Class 3, best seven tea roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Alma D. Katz, to Mrs. M. E. K. East, 46th street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street.
Class 4, best seven hybrid tea roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Ed. W. Goodrich, to Mrs. E. L. Thompson, 231 East Fifty-third street North; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street.
Class 5, best seven hybrid perpetual roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Ed. W. Goodrich, to Mrs. E. L. Thompson, 231 East Fifty-third street North; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street.
Class 6, best seven tea roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Alma D. Katz, to Mrs. M. E. K. East, 46th street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street.
Class 7, best seven hybrid tea roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Ed. W. Goodrich, to Mrs. E. L. Thompson, 231 East Fifty-third street North; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street.
Class 8, best seven hybrid perpetual roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Ed. W. Goodrich, to Mrs. E. L. Thompson, 231 East Fifty-third street North; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. J. A. Curry, 320 Spring street.
Class 9, best seven tea roses of any one variety—First prize, by Mrs. Alma D. Katz, to Mrs. M. E. K. East, 46th street; second prize, by Portland Rose society, to Mrs. Edwin Caswell, 791 Overton street.

CIVILIANS RECEIVE THRILLS IN AIRSHIPS

Ten Bold Citizens Take to the Clouds With Aviators.

WOMEN REFUSE TO FEAR

Passengers Express Delight Over
Experience—Hotel Man in Loop-the-loop Stunt.

Ten residents of Portland received air thrills yesterday.

They were passengers in Curtiss army planes that soared high into the clouds from the aviation field at the East-morland municipal golf course, and experienced some of the sensations encountered by America's heroes who played such an important part in the winning of the war. There was no expression of disappointment from those who went aloft. All admitted that the airship route was a most enjoyable one to travel, and were prompt in denying the statement of someone who has been quoted as saying that there were no new sensations due to those who fly.

Ouida Herlihy, representing the Oregon Woman's Magazine, received a larger portion of thrills yesterday than three of her sister newspaper women who accompanied the ace. She was a passenger with Colonel Watson, whose maneuvers included nose dives, tail spins, looping the loop and various other hair-raising drops and slides known technically only to those who are as much at home in the air as on the ground.

Following the flight with passengers, members of the army squadron spent nearly an hour showing festival visitors squadron maneuvers, which were in vogue during the war. Six of the planes were in the air at one time, five of them participating in a giant "Y" which made its way higher and thither above the city.

Weather Not Favorable.

Weather conditions were not altogether favorable for aviation, and low temperature caused some discomfort to the passengers. In spite of heavy clouds that threatened rain, several of the flyers reached a height of 3200 feet or more.

Two exhibitions of fancy flying were given by naval aviators who arrived with the Flagship Minneapolis, the first during the forenoon and the second late in the afternoon. Ensigns McMurray and Lee were the pilots, making a pretty race from the river near Municipal Dock No. 1 and circling until they had reached a height that made their planes look like hawks in the sky. The afternoon flight caused a general blockade on street corners, where pedestrians stopped to watch the maneuvers.

The two planes from the Minneapolis, while equipped to start and stop on the water, are taken far inland on the calculation that the average 1000 feet attained in height, the planes may be taken one mile from the river, with assurance of again reaching the water in case of motor trouble.

Naval aviators were unaccompanied, owing to regulations against the taking of civilian passengers, as is done with the army flyers.

Those who were taken for flights yesterday follow: Joseph A. Bourke of Multnomah hotel; Miss E. Pillsbury, Portland News; Miss Meta McElroy of city attorney's office; E. C. Brownlee, Oregon Journal; Eva Olivetti, Alcanair; J. E. Barry, Portland Rose Festival; May A. Norton, Portland Telegram; Miss Carlotta Reed; Ouida Herlihy, Oregon Woman's Magazine; Edith Knight Holmes, The Oregonian.

Impressions of Passengers.

That the air voyage created somewhat of an impression is indicated by the remarks made by passengers upon landing:

E. C. Brownlee, representing Oregon Journal: "The person who said there was no new sensation in flying is a boob. If that isn't a new sensation, I never experienced one."

Miss May Norton, representing Portland Telegram: "It was glorious going up, but it felt like everything was coming up while we were coming down."

Miss Carlotta Reed: "It was wonderful. We looped the loop, but there was no sensation of sea-sickness. Miss Joseph Bourke, representing Multnomah hotel: "It was the most wonderful thing I ever experienced. I would not have missed it for a faro game."

Eva Olivetti of Alcanair players: "I thought I never was so relaxed in all my life. I just sat back and enjoyed it. The only time I was startled was when it began to tip sideways and I thought, 'My gosh, where are we going next?' I enjoyed every minute of the flight."

Miss Meta McElroy, law clerk of city attorney's office: "Yes, it was a new sensation, but one that carried no fright with it. I enjoyed it thoroughly."

Miss E. Pillsbury, representing Portland News: "I haven't had time yet to analyze my feelings. I'll tell you all about it in tonight's paper."

Those who are destined to go up today with the army men are: Mrs. Winnie Braden, Mrs. Ira L. Riggs, George Schaik, James L. Eldridge, Miss Mildred Simpson, H. J. Blasing, Miss Zola Lee, Sam C. Jagger, Charles Rudeen, Charles P. Keyser.

CANADIAN VETERANS IN LINE

Men Who Served Under British Flag Will March.

Canadian veterans will take part in the military parade to be held today. All men who served under the British flag in the great war are requested to report at the clubrooms at 402 Oregon building before 1:30 P. M. in uniform, if possible.

The veterans will be commanded by Lieutenant R. A. Blythe, a veteran of four wars. He will be assisted by Lieutenants J. A. Gallagher and A. E. Mackenzie, the latter an officer of the famous Seaforth Highlanders. The veterans will hold a reunion dinner at "Jack's restaurant," 875 Fifth street at 8 P. M. today. A number of prominent local men, including Acting Mayor Bigelow, have been invited to attend.

"The Canadian veterans' association is composed of men from all parts of the British empire and the United States, a very high percentage being American citizens who enlisted before the United States entered the war," said L. C. de Bellevue, president. "The association boasts that its members have taken part in all battles from Mons, 1914, to Mons, 1918, while there are represented men who served on the Italian, Balkan, Palestine and Siberian fronts."

United States Consul George K. Stiles, Tenerife, Canary Islands, reports that these islands used at once 12,000 tons of fertilizer. Farmers are willing to pay for the goods aboard ship at any American port and the consul will be glad to get in touch with manufacturers.

LIQUOR QUARREL IS FATAL

Twenty-Five Cents Worth of "Moonshine" Cause of Negro Murder.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—A row late Saturday night over 25 cents' worth of moonshine resulted in the killing of one negro and another being lodged in the Duval county jail. The dead negro is Robert Lee Sanders, 1209 Kings road, and the negro in jail is Dan Harris, who lives near Grand Crossing.

Sanders and Harris were trying to effect a settlement of the sale of a quantity of moonshine, according to information secured by Chief Deputy Sheriff Edithall. When they counted up there was a difference of a quarter in their figures, and Harris resorted to a knife to get action.

Miss E. Pillsbury, representing Portland News: "I haven't had time yet to analyze my feelings. I'll tell you all about it in tonight's paper."

Those who are destined to go up today with the army men are: Mrs. Winnie Braden, Mrs. Ira L. Riggs, George Schaik, James L. Eldridge, Miss Mildred Simpson, H. J. Blasing, Miss Zola Lee, Sam C. Jagger, Charles Rudeen, Charles P. Keyser.

HOTEL AT BAKER IS SOLD

B. F. Leach of Portland Buys Property from F. T. Mittauer.

BAKER, Or., June 11.—(Special.)—Geiser Grand hotel has been purchased by B. F. Leach of Portland, well known in western hotel circles. He will assume charge on Monday next. F. T. Mittauer, the retiring owner, has been in charge of the hotel for 12 years.

Accompanied by his wife and two sons Mr. Mittauer will leave next week for an extended automobile trip east. He expects to return to Baker later.

Hoquiam Comes to Festival.

HOQUIAM, Wash., June 11.—(Special.)—So heavy was the travel from Hoquiam to the Portland Rose Festival that the railroad company was compelled last night to add an extra coach to its night train. It was said that the large crowd leaving the Harbor at other points was also such that another coach had to be picked up at Elma. The Rose Festival has always been an annual show feature with citizens of the Harbor, but the added features this year are proving an irresistible magnet.

China Protests Invasion.

CHICAGO.—Indignation is expressed by the press of China at the reported decision of American brewers to export their country. A special cablegram to the Chicago Tribune says: "We have no desire to drive out the opium fiend only to usher in the drunken stupor."

Von Jagow Makes Parting Prediction

BERLIN.—Berlin's former police president, Von Jagow, who tried to bring peace to the world before the German language during the war with humorous results, has retired with this parting prediction: "I depart with the conviction that the German people will soon have its socialistic kaiser."