EALT LAKE CITY. June 16.—The Rotary victory convention, which title has been given to the tenth annual convention of the International Asso-ciation of Rotary clubs, opened in the famous Mormon tabernacle here today, famous Mormon tabernacle here today, close to 5000 Rotarians being present at the opening session. Arrival of other thousands through the day, it was ex-pected, would increase the attendance to 10,000 before the actual business of to 10,000 before the actual business of the convention is well started. Many special trains from the east and one from the northwest were due this morning, all bringing hundreds of dele-gates, several carrying boosters from the three cities which are contending for next year's convention—Atlantic

City, Cleveland and New Orleeans.

A business session was to be held this afternoon and the Salt Lake Rotary club will be host this evening to Convention Contenders Busy. Already the contenders Busy.

Already the contenders for next year's convention have begun to exploit their respective cities. Cleveland has a band that will do nothing but "boost for Cleveland" during the convention week, New Orleans promises a Mardi Gras feature to advertise it as a convention city, while Atlantic City delegates promise a surprise sometime today in the form of about 20 electric-propelled chairs, which have made the

The appeal case from justice court of the state versus Ed Newton, on the charge of illegal possession of intexicating liquors, was brought for hearing before Judge Anderson of the circuit court here this morning. #### CLOTHING DEMAND GROWS Expert Sees Opportunity for World Market for America.

Market for America.

NEW YORK—American clothing soon will be worn all over the world. Ralph Breed, fashion expert, who has just returned from a 5000-mile trip through Europe, told members of the Associated Press Industries of America at that organization's luncheon meeting at the Hotel McAlphi.

He sketched the opportunities in foreign trade awaiting American garment manufacturers. "Everywhere I went th Europe." he said, "I met British and Japanese traders on their way to vantage points from which they could go into countries newly opened to trade by the lifting of war restrictions. America must wake up to the commercial war that is coming.

Before the war, he said, Germany sent $25,000.000 worth of ready-made clothing to England every year. "This field is now open to us," he asserted. The labor unrost in France, England and Italy is exparent, and shows clearly that those countries will be a long time getting back to their old stride. The world is dressing more and more alike. American styles are as fashionable as those coming from Paris, and, furthermore. Paris is not in a position to supply the world with original models. American apparel manufacturers need world-wide markets for their overproduction."

Mr. Breed said that American motion pictures were fostering a desire for American goods in foreign lands and that the American fashion magazines were wedliy read about. These media, he believes, will bring about a demand for American merchandise.

He commended one Boston retailer who has signified his intention of opening an apparel factory along American lines in Europe. "It is such practical dreamers who blaze the trail," he said. Charles Lefcourt, of Lefcourt & Brenner, first vice-president of the Associated Dress industries of America, said the time was coming when all industries in the country would be highly organized and when the government would bring pressure upon business men to join the representative organizations in their particular industries.

A plea for organization and po-oper-

A plea for organization and co-operation among the business men was made by Rev. David Hughes, of Baltimore. "The lessons of co-operation and unity learned through the war will persist and suppliant the old idea of cut throat competition," he said. "The only way to conquer bolshevism. I. W. W.ism and labor unrest is through loyalt yto our flag, our country and industries."

He urged the dress manufacturer He urged the dress manufacturers to take strong measures to stamp out industrial unrest in their industry. "I believe in labor," he said, "and in labor's getting a just return for its work, but I think in many cases labor has got more than its right. Our boys at the front did not suffer, bleed and die to make the world safe for bol-shevists and angrehists." shevists and anarchists."

Director-General to Speak.

John Barrett, director-general of the Pan-American Union, credited with establishing the first league of nations, will be the principal speaker Wednesday. He will speak on "What Rotary Means to the Every-Day Average Business Man of Affairs."

Dr. Henry Suzzalo, president of the University of Washington, will be the principal speaker Friday, June 20. He will discuss "Capital, Management, Labor and the Public."

An elaborate programme of entertainment has been prepared for the canyon sourrounding this city and Ogden; an entire day at Saltair, famous bathing resort on Great Sait Lake; two days of wild-west shows, including Indian dancing, and a trip to Bingham, where are located the workings of the Utah Copp. r company, which is gradually cutting away an eutire mountain in its mining operations. Organ recitals by famous organists of the Mornon church and visiting musicians will precede each day's session in the tabornacle.

Officers of the association will be elected Friday, June 20. Nominees include, for president: William D. Biggers Detroit; B. F. Harris, Champaign, Ill., and Albert S. Adams, Atlanta; for vice-president: Estes Snedecor, Portland, Or., and Jacob S. Perkins, Fort Madison, Ia.

According to the testimony of Sheriff Anderson, the liquor had been placed in a cell set apart for that purpose in the courthouse, without being counted. In March it was discovered that the padiock to the cell had been tampered with and a key broken off in it, and as a precantionary measure, according to the sheriff, two quarits which were introduced today as evidence were placed in the safe in the district attorney's office. March 25 a new padiock was placed on the cell, and during the next three weeks the liquor in alleged to have disappeared.

When asked by attorneys for the defense if he had suspicion as to who had obtained the missing liquor, the shoriff stated that he thought. Newton did it for had it done. The evaporation theory was then advanced by the attorney, but the witness stated that he did not believe that such was the case.

The stofy of the finding of the liquor in Newton's barn in the northwest section of town was told by several witnesses for the state and this, together with the choeshing of the liquor in the story of the finding of the liquor in the story of the state and this, together with the choeshing of the liquor in the story of the finding of the liquor in the story of the state and this, together with the choeshing of the liquor in the story of the story of the liquor in the story of the state and this, together with the choeshing of the liquor in the story of the story of the liquor in the story of the
