

PHAROAH'S DUEL WITH PEER ATTRACTS

Egypt's Way of Answering British Is Something New.

HISTORY'S CHANGES MANY

Final Outcome Not Yet in Sight but Since It Affects Great Question, World Gets Facts.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS. (Copyright, 1919, by the New York Herald Company—All Rights Reserved.)

CAIRO.—Pharaoh, who is Egypt, has been fighting a strange and deadly duel with a British peer, who represents parliament and the government.

Practically every Egyptian of the government in all departments, from street sweepers and letter carriers to heads of bureaus and departments, quit on Wednesday.

Had the delegation gone to Paris when it desired it would have been only one of dozens of similar bodies seeking opportunity to get the ear of some commission or commissioner.

Causes for Revolt Many.—Causes for the revolt were many, the occasion was one, Egyptian nationalists wanted to send a delegate to Paris to present their claims to the peace conference.

The nationalist movement, fed by the utterances of President Wilson, and by a formal declaration by Great Britain and France of their altruistic war aims in Turkey and Syria, had for its leader Saad Zaglul.

There we have broadly stated, the conditions that lie back of the duel, Lord Curzon, who was acting foreign secretary in the absence of Mr. Balfour in Paris, was called upon to answer questions in parliament concerning the deportations of the four nationalists.

Ignorance Is Confessed.—Now, the ways of governments are inscrutable, and it is even conceivable that the dignified and urbane peer, who is an aristocrat of the old school, a famous one-time viceroy of India and an intrepid imperialist, really did not possess all the facts.

Lord Curzon does know the near east, still, he may not have been informed of the gravity of the Egyptian situation.

who had been deported were merely irresponsible agitators, with no popular support. Had it not been for the censorship, the Egyptian nationalists would have sent to London and the world fervid denials and eloquent statements of their case.

And they did. Undoubtedly intimidation was used at first, until subsequent events cemented the Egyptian sentiment by blood. The cabinet had already quit or gone on a strike as a protest against the refusal of the British to allow the deputation to proceed abroad.

Grabbing Limelight Noted.—British and foreign residents of Egypt had clearly seen and frankly said that London had blundered egregiously in refusing the nationalist deputation permission to go abroad.

Had the delegation gone to Paris when it desired it would have been only one of dozens of similar bodies seeking opportunity to get the ear of some commission or commissioner.

Instead, thanks to Lord Curzon and other inept officials, what might have been done in a corner now is a focus of the world's spotlights.

I do not write here of the effect of Egyptian developments upon Oriental and Moslem peoples. More of that later.

Grave Consequences Certain.—Egypt could properly raise a substantial pyramid to build a little pyramid to Lord Curzon, for by defeating him in this extraordinary long-range duel they advanced their case by years.

There will be many embarrassing questions asked in parliament and elsewhere about the land of the Pharaohs, as a result of the noble peer's rather inartistic effort to carry the spirit and methods of the censorship into the ancient and honorable law-making body of the British empire.

Trouble is easier to start than to stop. What began only as a protest against the Curzon speech soon assumed more sinister aspects. Once out on strike, and conscious of their power, the government employees remained out.

As I close this article there are ominous rumors of the employment of still stronger measures by the military— which means more killings—and the end of what began so unsuspectingly in parliament is not yet in sight.

Dr. Ellis is believed yet to be a prisoner of British authorities in Cairo.

ILWACO MAYOR IS MISSING

WALTER SEABORG BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN DROWNED.

Well-Known Resident of North Beach Peninsula Fails to Return From Fishing Expedition.

ILWACO, Wash., June 16.—(Special.)—Walter Seaborg, mayor of Ilwaco, and one of the best-known of the older residents of the North Beach peninsula, is believed to have been drowned in the ocean, off The Rocks, a short distance from this city.

Mr. Seaborg left for The Rocks Friday morning to fish and dig clams and has not been seen since his arrival at the beach. Searching parties found his hat and fishing gear on the fishing rocks, and as the breakers at this place are extremely treacherous it is believed that he fell between the rocks and was unable to climb back again.

The missing man was about 50 years of age and except for a short residence in Portland had always made his home here. He was regarded as the apostle of republicanism on the North Beach peninsula and was generally credited with being one of the best-posted political students in this part of the state.

As the car swung around a curve the headlights flashed directly on the animals. Both seemed dazed by the lights and stood motionless within 50 feet of the car. The party watched the animals for five minutes before they plunged off into the forest.

TWO REGIMENTS OF WESTERN MEN LAND

Many Oregon Troops Among Latest Arrivals.

BOYS ACCORDED WELCOME

Idaho and Oregon Delegations on Piers to Meet Returning Soldiers. Fighters Have War Record.

NEW YORK, June 16.—(Special.)—Two regiments, the 14th and the 148th field artillery, arrived yesterday aboard the transports Alaskan and Peerless. There are many Oregon men in these regiments who were on the front from June, 1917, until the signing of the armistice and who are a part of the 6th field artillery brigade, which holds the record, according to Colonel F. H. Weyland, of firing 53 per cent of the 155-millimeter ammunition used by the entire army.

The troops, which are all western, and principally Idaho, men, with Oregon leading the others, were met by the welcome party, bearing Governor Davis, Representative Burton L. French and Addison Smith, ex-Governor Frank R. Gooding, Mrs. William E. Borah of Idaho. On the piers they were welcomed by Oregon representatives and by the Idaho delegation.

The 14th is at Camp Mills and the 148th went to Camp Merritt. The regiments were through the St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, Chateau-Thierry, Champagne-Marne and Aisne-Marne offensives and have been with the army of occupation in Germany near Coblenz.

Germany Hatred as Ever.—According to the men they are as bitter as ever against the Germans. "Everyone liked us," said an Oregon lad, "but the Germans, and they didn't even take a shine to us when we were on the Rhine. I tell you, we ought never to consider them a minute. They are an amolitious, though whipped, and as hateful as ever."

During the entire time over only 15 were killed in battle. Ninety-two were wounded. They have no accurate information regarding casualties, as many of their sick and wounded have been sent home as convalescents. A few of their troops are still in replacement work in Germany.

Arriving on the Alaskan were headquarters, 4th army corps, Glen C. Hoover, Fossil; Company D, 215th engineers, Charles T. Cody, Portland; company F, Andy F. Magee, Portland; casual company, St. Aignon, 5401, Harry Woods, Portland; William Lee, Portland.

Oregon Men on Peerless.—On the Peerless were: Sergeant-Major Leonard A. Wallin, Portland; headquarters detachment, 6th field artillery brigade, Raymond Van Atta, Lawrence Lavagetto, Albert Fortier, Delbert R. Evans, Sylvester S. Stevens, Albert G. Moreland, Portland; Ivan G. Morrill, Newberg; Charles R. Rowland, 148th field artillery headquarters company, Blake Bartlett, Pendleton; supply company, Darrel W. Low, Union; battery A, Ralph Dallas, Dallas; battery B, Fred H. Bell, Hood River; battery C, Charles C. Owens, Adams; Earl A. Riddings, Portland; battery D, Ray Barger, Brownsville; Leonard A. Sample, Milton; Ross L. McMahon, Pendleton; Thomas F. Martin, Oswego; Ermal A. Teller, Cottage Grove; Stanley Hatch, Berdman; Fred Jennings, Ferrysville; Oscar F. Munn, John S. McCracken, Barton; Ivan W. Carr, Pendleton; Joe W. Bowersox, Corvallis; John E. Kelly, Freewater; battery E, Guido M. Luettemann, Portland.

BUGLER TO SOUND "TAPS" AS CASKET LOWERED TO GRAVE.

Full Military Honors to Be Accorded Late Governor at Tacoma Cemetery.

TACOMA, June 16.—With a bugler playing "Taps" as the casket is lowered into the grave, following the firing of three volleys by a company of 3d Washington Infantry, Governor Ernest Lister, who after the interment of the late Governor, will be laid to rest in Tacoma cemetery tomorrow afternoon, after services at the First Methodist church.

As commander in chief of the national guard of Washington, full military honors will be accorded the governor. Six hundred men, from the six companies in the western part of the state, marching as part of the funeral cortege to the cemetery, will render him the homage due the commanding officer.

The body will lie in state at the First Methodist church from 10 A. M. tomorrow morning until 1 o'clock P. M. The body is now at a chapel where an honor guard of two privates, two corporals and one officer, changed hourly, is on duty.

Rev. R. H. Schuett, pastor of the First Methodist church, will have charge of the services and will be assisted by Rev. B. F. Brooks of Sedro-Woolley, Wash., who joined the late governor and Mrs. Lister in marriage.

President Henry Suzzallo of the University of Washington, will represent the state at the services, speaking for a few minutes, while Bishop Frederic W. Kenor will deliver the eulogy.

Close personal friends of the late governor will act as pallbearers. They are Julius A. Zittel of Spokane, State Highway Commissioner James Allen of Olympia, Industrial Insurance Commissioner James W. Bristlaw of Olympia, Public Printer Frank M. Lamborn of Olympia, State Fish Commissioner L. H. Darwin of Bellingham and former Chief Justice Overton G. Ellis of Tacoma.
