

DOUGHNUT BRIGADE STILL MAKING GOOD

War Front Scenes Recalled in Salvation Army Drive.

COIN RESPONSE IS COMING

Well-Known Courage and Culinary Skill of Lassies Prove Factor in Crusade for Service Funds.

Doughnuts, just plain doughnuts, won a place in history through the high courage and culinary skill of the Salvation Army lassies on the fields of France.

And it is the Salvation Army lassie, beyond doubt, or the vision of her devotion to the American troops under fire, that is the actuating spirit of the present drive for home service funds.

The second day of the state-wide drive for $250,000 every dollar of which will be devoted to Salvation Army rescue work in Oregon, brought a tide of responsive currency into campaign headquarters yesterday.

Owing to the telegraphers' strike, coin-state reports are slow in reaching the city, said campaign leaders last night.

Mayor Issues an Appeal. The Salvation Army did not hesitate in giving everything at its command to the 3,000,000 or more men in the service during the war.

Messages received yesterday from Pendleton, Hood River and La Grande announce the determination of local committees to complete their quotas within the next day or the drive another message, one of triple gratification, bears word that Deschutes, Jefferson and Crook counties all exceeded their quotas on the opening day of the drive.

Warrior Is Going Strong. "Salem and Marion county going strong," reads another outer-state telegram.

The Elks, as sponsors of the campaign, opened their bag of surprises yesterday and went privateering about town, sailing into stores and business places, where they took what their fancy dictated and carried the loot out to auction.

Governor Will Assist. Governor Olcott, elected a member of the flying squadron arrived in the city yesterday and informed General Julius Berg, of the city campaign committee, that he would be ready for active service today.

Workers to Meet Tonight. All the colonels, captains and workers in the Elks' Salvation Army drive have been called to a meeting to be held at 8:15 o'clock tonight in the lodgerooms of the Elks temple, Broadway and Stark street.

GOOS DAIRYMEN COMBINE

MUTUAL CONCERN WILL OPERATE RIVER FACTORY.

$50,000 Incorporation Formed to Handle Milk and Cheese in Bay Districts.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 24.—(Special.)—Dairymen of the Coos bay and tributary districts have formed the Coos Bay Mutual Ice and Cheese company, for the purpose of continuing the business of the concern which suspended when the Coos river creamery burned.

The new company will purchase the ice and cold storage plant formerly belonging principally to Charles E. Nicholson, on North Front street, comprising a cheese and milk factory with icing facilities.

This property has an excellent water front, adapted to water transportation of milk, which is the sole method of delivery in this section. The purchase price is $50,000 cash, and the new company will be financed at $50,000.

The incorporators are Charles Mahaffy, Julius Larson and A. O. Rogers. Fifteen thousand dollars was subscribed the first afternoon. The plant will operate three cheese vats, two curd mills and four presses, with modern accessories, and employ ten men. It is hoped to start at least 2000 cows.

NOVICES FACE HOT SANDS

AL KADER TEMPLE PREPARES TO RECEIVE CANDIDATES.

Parade With "Plain Clothes" Nobles in Line Promising Feature of Big Ceremonial.

It will not be a day in lonesome land for the candidates who are to be initiated into the mysteries of shrinism Saturday. They will be taken in hand by the preparation committee for instructions early in the day and assembled at a proper station for their section in the parade to the public auditorium.

It is promised that the class will miss none of the enlivening features of enjoyment to which they are entitled in the journey over the hot sands. This mid-year ceremonial of Al Kader Temple will be also a celebration of success of the delegates to the imperial council in securing the victory session of the imperial council for Portland in 1920.

The "informal" section of the big Shriners' parade Saturday night is expected to develop to abnormal proportions. It will be the place where the fellows in business dress will march and will have the spot of honor at the end of the column. Officers of Al Kader temple of the myotic shrine are discovering hundreds of shriners in Portland who are members of other temples. All of them are keen about the imperial council session next year. Most of them helped to win it for Portland and are to be featured in the march from the Masonic temple to the auditorium via the downtown district.

Frank E. Smith, marshal, proposes to make the "informal" section one of the big features of the parade. The nobles in "soup and fish" dress will lead the line, following the band and patrol; then he will herd the candidates along; then will come the hundreds of fellows with a red stick atop their more or less hairy heads.

The parade marshal yesterday appointed the following aides: Dr. E. A. Pierce, H. R. Ailbee, George W. Herndon, F. A. Freeman, E. J. Jaeger and Arthur Callan.

Navy Recruits at Aberdeen. ABERDEEN, Wash., June 24.—(Special.)—Chief Boatswain's Mate F. W. Suggs of the United States navy is in the city to open a naval recruiting office. The new station which will be permanent, it is said, will replace the present station at Wematchee, which will be closed June 30.

Predatory Animal Data Sought. CHEHALIS, Wash., June 24.—(Special.)—Data regarding predatory animals are being secured for Lewis county and adjoining counties by W. B. Gunnoe, a government trapper. Wildcats, cougars and coyotes are receiving special attention. County Agent Nysstrom will co-operate with Mr. Gunnoe, whose district includes Lewis, Gray's Harbor and Thurston counties. He will stage an exhibit at the Southwestern Washington fair. Shortly Mr. Gunnoe will bring two or three experienced trappers into this section to wage a systematic campaign against the animals.

Dr. Lauman U. S. Reserve Major. CHEHALIS, Wash., June 24.—(Special.)—Dr. U. M. Lauman of Randle has been placed on the U. S. army reserve list with the rank of major. Dr. Lauman served during the recent war in the medical department of the army, stationed in the south.

WILD WEST SHOW BANNED

Washington State Law Prohibits Worrying Animals for Fun.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 24.—Protests against issuance of a license to a wild west show to exhibit in Seattle have been filed with the city controller by the State Humane society and the King County Humane society.

Refusal of the license is asked on the ground that the proposed exhibition would be a violation of the state law which makes it a misdemeanor to chase, worry or injure any animal for amusement.
