Moving Picture News

Shirley Mason, who takes the lead as plucky working girl, summer beauty and hotel kitchen maid in "The Final Close-Up," today's new feature at the Columbia theater.

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES.

- Columbia—Shirley Mason, "The Final Close-Up."
Peoples—Helen Jerome Eddy, "The Turn in the Road."
Majestic—Lesh Baird, "As a Man Thinks"; Fay Tincher, "Rowdy Ann."
Liberty—Charles Ray, "The Bush-er"; Floyd Sterling and Louise Fazenda, "Hearts and Flowers."

SHIRLEY MASON as Nora Nolan, lit-tle Irish clerk in the basement of a huge New York department store, has more than her share of thrills and adventures in "The Final Close-Up," which last night was reviewed and will be shown to the public today at the Columbia theater.

Nora is gifted with an imagination that leads to her feigning sickness to avoid further work on an oppressive summer day.

adds it to his story. Anonymously he sends Nora money for a vacation and then fate sends them both to the same summer resort. That same fate leads Nora through a bewildering career as dainty society maid, alleged sneak thief, kitchen girl and finally fiancée of the erstwhile reporter, who becomes reconciled to his father and parental wealth.

The picture calls not only for emotional ability, but the skill of a good comedienne. Miss Mason supplies both well in an unusually unpretentious but effective manner.

Pauline Frederick's choice of leading men seems to have settled on Milton Sills, who is to appear opposite her in her next picture. He has just finished with her in "The Fear Woman."

First of the productions made by the allied producers and distributed as Paramount-Artcraft pictures, which will be released under the new plan of distribution which will commence September 1, is George Loane Tucker's personally directed picture, "The Miracle Man."

No piece of theatrical property in the past decade has been more eagerly sought for motion picture purposes than J. Hartley Manners' unusual play, "Peg o' My Heart."

Prisma announces that it has added to its list of subjects for immediate release the following four natural color films: "Hawaii," "Glacier Park," "Old Faithful," "The Apache Trail."

"A Star Over Night," the first of a series of 12 two-reel motion pictures made by the stage women's organization of America, is announced for release at an early date.

Ernest K. Backlund, a watchmaker, 45 years of age, journeyed 7000 miles from Sweden to Los Angeles to propose marriage to Mary Pickford, only to find that the little star is already wed.

Mack Sennett started in New York many years ago with no money worth bothering about. He and his company used to go to Fort Lee on the ferry, carrying their props and scenery under their arms.

Those were the good old days when Chaplin, Arbuckle and practically all the famous comedy stars of today were learning their trade under Sennett's direction.

Gullen Landis, one of the most gifted juveniles in motion pictures, is to play opposite Mabel Normand in her forthcoming production. He has just finished an important role in the Rex Beach play, "Star of the North," and a part is being written especially for him into the coming Will Rogers production.
