

WIND DIRIGIBLE IN ATLANTIC FLIGHT

British Airship Averages More Than Mile a Minute.

SWIFT TRIP IS EXPECTED

If All Continues to Go Well Big Gasbag Is Due to Arrive at Destination About Saturday.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Aided by a westerly wind that sometimes reached a velocity of nearly 40 miles an hour, the British dirigible R-34 tonight was well out over the Atlantic on the return trip to East Fortune, Scotland, after a stay of 18 hours in the air. The last message from the airship, received late today by the navy department, gave her position at that time as 400 miles due east of Cape Cod, and more than 1000 miles from Minneapolis, Long Island, from which she started last midnight.

The dirigible, according to wireless dispatches, averaged more than 60 miles an hour for the first 15 hours of the return flight and at times the speed reached between 75 and 80 miles an hour. The dirigible thus was making better time than at any period of the flight to this side of the Atlantic and if weather conditions remain favorable naval officers here believe the R-34 will see British shores early Saturday.

Airship Sends Message. The first word heard from the R-34 after the big dirigible left American shores this morning was a radio message sent at 4 A. M. giving the ship's position and the direction of the wind. Direct communication was maintained with the navy department thereafter. At 10 A. M. a message said the dirigible was then making a good 55 knots an hour, equivalent to about 64 miles an hour. Later the R-34 signalled that the wind was coming stronger and that the dirigible's speed had reached 80 miles an hour at times.

Weather Reports Wanted. A request was sent to the weather bureau today that weather reports be sent to the R-34 regularly during the trip to England. Another radio message asked all reports from vessels along the coast being followed by the R-34 be wirelessly.

GIRL FORGER IS ARRESTED

RUBY MCKENNEY, AGED 17, SENT TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

John Innes of Eugene Denies Giving Authority for Drawing Money or Using Name. CORVALLIS, Or., July 10.—(Special.)—Ruby McKenney and a girl companion were arrested here today by Sheriff Stickle of Lane county, charged with forgery. The McKenney girl is charged with having obtained $200 on a check to which she had forged the name of John Innes of Eugene.

The girls had been in Corvallis several days, and because of their sporty style of dress and highly painted physiognomy, had been closely watched by the officials. A man was also here from Newport yesterday looking for a couple of girls who he associated with cashed forged checks in that locality.

The girls are about 21 years of age and when arrested last night could offer no satisfactory explanation of their stay here other than that they liked the town and were on their way to Seattle.

They denied all knowledge of the checks. EUGENE, Or., July 10.—(Special.)—Miss Ruby McKenney, accused of passing a number of bad checks in Eugene the first of this week, was this afternoon committed to the state industrial school at Salem in the country with two men. As Mrs. Morse was accused of being implicated in the check case, both were brought to Eugene and locked up in jail.

FOOD KILLS BOLSHEVISM

ARRIVAL OF AMERICAN SUPPLIES STOPS RED PERIL.

Correspondent Asserts Worst Danger Has Passed—Huns Need Raw Material, Is the Report.

By Cyril Brown. (Copyright by the New York World. Published by arrangement.) BERLIN, July 10.—(Special cable.)—Just as the timely arrival of American supplies stopped the war into victory, so the unobtainable but timely arrival of American food has beaten bolshevism in Germany. The peril is past.

Despite the prospect of continuing strikes and internal disorders, Germany has passed the important turning point and at least a foundation of reconstruction is being laid in better food conditions, which are slowly but steadily improving. These conditions and prospects today are better than at any time in the past four years. Food, indeed, has proved a sure cure for German bolshevism.

The coming harvest promises to be better than any war crop. With a brighter future outlook the German masses are expected to take heart and settle down to hard work. Germany's principal worries now are the low exchange value of the mark and the danger of the war-stripped German market being swamped with allied manufactures instead of the raw materials, which the starved German industries need.

Germany has been hearing of tremendous American plans for capturing the Ruhr and the industrial districts already are harboring the secret hope that such a commercial rivalry will split the allies to Germany's ultimate advantage.

might be termed, from past offenses, as a "gentleman crook," has not confessed to the crime with which he is charged, but will talk on everything connected with his departure from this vicinity except of the holdup itself.

When seen in his cell here today he told of having eluded the officers in the city the night of the robbery and of having walked on the next morning to the edge of town, where he caught a ride on a truck to Keating and from there to Big Creek. He made his escape from that section to California by automobile according to his story.

Friends, according to Connors, played a big part in his escape. For over two weeks in San Francisco Connors stated he had frequented nearly all of the cafes and once was held by detectives who wanted to arrest him, but friends persuaded the officers he was not the man wanted. The nearest the alleged robber came to being arrested by the local officers was on the night of the robbery, when the authorities were searching the California feed store here. Connors stated that he was hiding within a few feet of the officers but succeeded in making his escape.
