Plans for an Oregon Dairy Council exhibit at the Land Products show at Gresham, at the state fair at Salem and the Pacific International Livestock exposition in Portland, will be considered by the exhibits committee of the council. At yesterday's meeting of the board held in the headquarters at 807 Broadway building, the matter was referred to the exhibits committee, which includes Dr. D. W. Mack, E. C. Callaway, E. H. Webster and Professor E. E. Pitts.

The council will continue its educational work and will enlarge its scope. The executive committee will meet within a few days and consider some definite plans suggested by Carl Schallinger, Dr. D. W. Mack, E. C. Callaway, E. H. Webster and Professor E. E. Pitts.

Among those who attended the directors' meeting were F. G. Deckenbach of Salem, Or.; O. D. Center and W. K. Taylor of Corvallis, W. K. Sewell, J. D. Mickle, F. L. Shull and F. T. Wilcox. Several creamerymen from out of town were in attendance.

The meeting of the council held in the garden of the Multnomah hotel. The meeting was called specially to act upon a resolution introduced by J. E. Dunne asking that the board be enlarged from 15 to 17 members. Mr. Dunne withdrew his resolution. Luncheon was then served in the gold room of the hotel.

An extensive advertising campaign will be carried on by the milk producers and distributors as a separate committee and it was announced at the meeting in the morning that this will be done by the producers and distributors during the month of August. A check they give the producers or dairymen and that the distributors will match this amount.

Whisky stills found. Fifteen barrels of raisin mash, 15 gallons of whisky and the most potent moonshine distillery yet discovered by local authorities were discovered Tuesday night by Inspector Morris, Patrolman Abbott and Tom Word, special agent of the department.

Police discovered the still as a result of a tip from a moonshine whisky dealer. The still was located on a street southeast and Johnson creek. Police officers in on the raid because the plant was just across the boundary of Clackamas county.

Mrs. Sam Blach and her brother-in-law, Joe Blach, were in the cottage when the posse descended on it. They refused to admit police, but opened the door after Mr. Word had threatened to get a search warrant for the place while police remained on guard. Neither Blach remained on guard, although Sam Blach, alleged operator of the still, was taken into custody when he refused to admit police.

The distillery was in the basement. It consisted of a copper kettle, which police say cost about $350, a large coil and various other apparatus for distilling. Blach is in the city jail charged with violating the prohibition law.

OREGON HENS LAY EARLY. Portland Woman Is Rival Claimant for Honors for Her Pullets.

STILL OWNERS RELEASED

U. S. COMMISSIONER FINDS A FLAW IN COMPLAINT.

Distillery, Operated in House by Trio Captured After Struggle, Will Be Destroyed.

Although federal officers who raided a lonely cottage in San Francisco distillery and a quantity of liquor and captured one of the alleged moonshiners only after a struggle, Henry Martin, W. E. Miller and Joe Melike, the occupants of the house, were released yesterday by United States Commissioner Drake because the complaint against them did not state that they had failed to register their distillery.

Acting on information from Martin's neighbors, Deputy Sheriff Hurlbut and Special Agent Word entered Martin's house at East Seventy-first and Broadway streets Tuesday evening and found an unoccupied and a short time later a strong odor of liquor. A brief search revealed four barrels of mash, two quarts of whiskey, 350 pounds of raisins and several cartons of yeast.

After the officers had waited a few hours, Martin entered the house at 10:30 o'clock. Word ordered him to throw up his hands. Instead of obeying the order, Martin bolted for the door and Sheriff Hurlbut was flying tackle as Martin went past him and the two went to the floor together.

Commissioner Drake's explanation of the reasons in dismissing the case was that he has never received official notification of a new law making liquor manufacture illegal, whether a license is paid or not.

The distillery will be destroyed.

No Public Hearings to Be Held, Nor Will Findings Be Given Out Except by Olcott.

The report of the child welfare commission as to its findings in the investigation of the Waverly baby home in Portland will be ready for forwarding to Governor Olcott as soon as the members of the board may be gathered together for a meeting.

The final meeting, at which the report will be drawn up, will not be open to the public, Mrs. Trumbull said yesterday. The report will be forwarded to the governor without being made public also, it was said, and no report of the hearing will be made until Governor Olcott gives out the findings.

Mrs. Klippel, secretary of the commission, announced yesterday. A meeting of the commission was called for Monday evening, and it had been expected to complete the report and have it on its way to the governor then. One of the commission members, Fred Lockley, had left the city, however, and final action on the report will not be taken until all the members of the commission are present.
