TRAFFIC SLIPS GO ASTRAY

MERCHANT USES POLICE TAGS TO KEEP AUTOISTS AWAY.

Arrests by Patrolmen "Bloody-Bloody" and "Some Bull" Cause Perplexity.

Arrests for alleged traffic offenses by Patrolmen "Bloody-Bloody" and "Some Bull" yesterday caused perplexity to traffic officials, who could find no record of such policemen. The mystery was solved by the discovery that a policeman had given traffic tags to a business man, who in turn was using the tags to keep autos from parking in front of his shop. The business man was signing "Bloody-Bloody" and "Some Bull" as the name of the complainant to preserve his incognito. Lieutenant Lewis started the perplexity when he noticed the signature on one of the tags. "Who's this here Patrolman Bloody-Bloody?" demanded the lieutenant. "Never heard of him," grunted Patrolman "Bully," who was busy taking an autoist's account of an accident. Patrolman "Bloody-Bloody" might have escaped detection, despite his hyphenated name, had not another autoist appeared a few minutes later with a tag signed "Some Bull." "This here is no 'some-bully' show," thundered Lieutenant Lewis. "Some bull is going to be out of a job, bloody-bloody fashion, if this keeps up." The traffic bureau took the matter up with Chief of Police Johnson, who posted a bulletin forbidding police to give away the traffic slips, which are for use by policemen only.

MONTANA RANGES 'SUFFER'

Drouth Inflicts Great Damage on Herds and Grain Crops. ROSEBURG, Or., July 24.—(Special)—That conditions on the stock ranges and throughout a large portion of the farming district of eastern Montana are exceedingly bad, and people in many instances face destitution, is the report brought to this city by E. F. Rohr, who has just returned from a three months' stay in the northern state. Mr. Rohr states that many sheepmen are shipping their flocks to the Dakotas or to the mountain ranges of western Montana, as the great grazing areas practically are burned up with a three years' drouth. Cattlemen are also shipping stock to the wheat stubble-fields. Streams that have never before failed are drying up, and along the Great Northern railway from Great Falls to Chester a water train is in constant operation, supplying the towns along the line with water. In many localities the grain never never sprouted this spring for lack of moisture, and much of it that did come up has been an utter failure.

Protection of Oregon fruits and vegetables and safeguarding shipments of local products into the state are among the most important duties of the board, according to Mr. Doseh.

AUTO BACKFIRES, ONE HURT

FARMER THROWN IN FRONT OF PASSING STREET CAR.

Two Automobiles Damaged in Collision on Wet Pavement, When View Is Obscured.

G. E. Mickey, 49, a farmer who lives near the end of Buckley avenue, was injured yesterday when his automobile backfired while he was cranking the engine and threw him in front of a passing street car. He is in St. Vincent's hospital. Mr. Mickey's automobile was parked by the street car track on Madison boulevard. He began to crank it as a street car approached. The jerk of the crank when the engine backfired threw him off his feet and he fell in front of the car. His injuries are not considered serious. A street sprinkler on Ladd avenue caused a collision between an automobile driven by M. Billings, 1396 East Eighth street North, and one driven by L. Lundquist, 464 Forty-first avenue Southeast. The two automobiles were approaching from opposite directions. The view of each driver was obscured by the sprinkler. When they finally saw each other each applied brakes, but the machines skidded together on the wet pavement. The collision damaged both machines. Mr. Billings' car had a broken wheel and a broken axle.
