Other Parties to Case Jump Into Fray and Attorneys Concerned Also Take Hand.

When remarks by Earl Nicholson Nicholson Holman, were resented by her husband, Lawrence H. Holman, as they left the courtroom of Circuit Taxwell yesterday morning, a fistle encounter ensued which did not end until after Mrs. Margaret Root and Rodney Nicholson, other litigants, and Attorneys Dan J. Malarkey and E. B. Seabrook had joined the melee, ac-struck, Mr. Malarkey attempted to separate the contestants and was set upon by both Nicholson brothers, he states. The others entered the fray in of separating combatants, or because they were imbued with the spirit of the affair. Order was restored before there was bloodshed and the newspaper decision made it a draw.

The case will be heard next Wednesday by Judge Tazwell, who threatens liberal fines for contempt if there is any disturbance in the courtroom.

Nicholson Estate Involved. The matter at issue involves the es-tate of the late William T. B. Nichol-son, an Oregon ploneer who died last son, an Oregon pioneer who died last year, leaving five children, Mrs. Margaret Root and Mrs. Minnie L. Hill being the cidest daughters, flodney and Earl Nicholson, the sons, and Mrs. Grace Holman, the youngest child. The deceased was owner of a large tract known as the Nicholson addition, valued around $75.000 which he proposed. anown as the scenoison addition, val-ued around $75,000, which he proposed in a will drawn in 1894 to divide equal-ly among his children. A few years later he sold the portion devised to his son, Earl, disinheriting him except for a small parcel of land left for division among all five children.

In 1904, Mr. Nicholson became in-sane, and J. V. Beach was appointed administrator of his estate. In 1914, when Mr. Beach was on the local school board, it was considered ad-visible to sell a portion of the Nicholvisible to sell a portion of the Nicholson property, two blocks, for school purposes, it was disposed of for $50,000. As a portion of the property sold came from the section bequeathed in the 1894 will to Mrs. Root, Mrs. Hill and Rodney Nicholson, they agreed that they should receive a portion of the property sold. At the same time Earl Nicholson, who had been disinherited of his portion of the land sold, demanded a settlement in lieu of the part he had no claim to, and received it. Mrs. Holman asked no land, as it was not believed any of her property had been sold.

est daughter had been sold to the school district. She proposed a division agreement with her prothers and sisters so that she could receive a just share of her father's estate but, with the exception of Mrs. Hill and Rodney Nicholson, they flatly refused.

When Mrs. Holman, whose husband is secretary-treasurer of the American Transportation company, went to Attorneys Malarkey, Scabrook & Dibble to see if anything could be done, they advised her not to worry as she had a legal right to the $30,000 residue of the $60,000 paid for the school land as her share of the estate. When the other heirs heard of this, they immediately proposed a division of land, which Mrs. Holman rejected, preferring the money. MRS. MANNION DENIES ILL IN-TENTIONS IN FLIGHT.

Husband, Who Went in Trans-Pacific Pursuit, Alleged Unfit to Care for Children.

Echoes of the trans-Pacific pursuit of Mrs. Enriqueta T. V. Mannion and her two younger sons by former Captain James W. B. Mannion, who was folled at the Hawaiian Islands while his wife continued her journey to Manila. P. I., unmolested, were awakened in the circuit court yesterday when Mrs. Mannion's attorney filed an affidavit, bearing the imposing gold real of the government of the Philippine Islands, and refuting accusations made by her husband in affidavits filed in the local court last April.

Mrs. Mannion denies she attempted to flee from the jurisdiction of the local court, saying that she applied for passports in the regular way from the United States district clerk at Portland, and did not leave surreptitiously or clandestinely. She packed her belongings in cases which had been furnished by her husband when she had contemplated, a few months before, going out of the jurisdiction of the court to reside in California, and believed all the while that her actions were absolutely legal and that it was unnecessary to inform the court that she was leaving with the children who had been granted her by decree of di-

B. Seabrook had joined the melee, according to witnesses of the affair. Mrs. Root said she was only a spectator. There were no casuastics but friendly relations of the brothers and sisters involved in the litigation over a $30,000 inheritance were severely strained.

Earl Nicholson, according to those sitting near him, flung remarks at his sister across an aisle in the courtroom during a preliminary hearing and after their case was postponed Mr. Malarkey followed him into the corridor to tell him that ungentlemanly conduct would not be tolerated in the courtroom another time. Mr. Holman closely followed Mr. Malarkey and remarked that he had stood for insults to his wife as long as he intended. As blows were struck, Mr. Malarkey attempted to Senator French representing general her private fortune, the remainder of interests. It is said the latter may continue on the commission at his own expense.

It is said the latter may which had been misappropriated by her husband, she says. She offers to prove to the court that her husband is unfit to care for their children.
