TROOPS' UNREST EXPLAINED

Hell Is Abnormal and Those Who Have Been There Can't Be Judged Ordinarily, Says Pastor.

'Hell is abnormal and those who have "Hell is abnormal and those who have just been through hell cannot be judged by ordinary standards," declared Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher of Los Angeles, former pastor of the White Temple, here, upon his arrival in Portland yesterday after nearly six months in France and with the army of occupation in Germany. He was commenting upon reports of strained relationships between Americans overseas and allied upon reports of strained relationships between Americans overseas and allied forces in France, due to what was termed the wearing out of a welcome. "Both in France and in Germany the doughboys were blue, discouraged, grouchy, disgruntled, dissatisfied and irritable after the armistice," he continued. "They were homesick and no one blamed them. They did not want to work on French roads and drill in French rains. They wanted to go home. There was bound to be some friction. There was bound to be some friction. I expressed a serious conviction when I told General Hunter Liggett, commanding the five divisions in the army manding the five divisions in the army of occupation, that 'the quicker these boys get home, the better for the future of international relations.' But there was no real feeling on either side. The Americans' job was done, well done, and they did not care to stick around to view the aftermath. Dealing with Americans in irritable humor may have been a strain upon innate French courtesy in the long run. I don't know, but I saw no signs of it."

Son Accompanies Dr. Brougher. Dr. Brougher was accompanied by his son, Russell Brougher, who was attached to the 40th coast artillery as chaplain, probably the youngest in the army. The minister left last night for Gearhart, Or., where he will see his family for the first time since his return from abroad. His wife, son James and daughter Corinna are at his summer home at the beach resort. He will return to Portland Sunday, August 17, to occupy the pulpit of the White Temoccupy the pulpit of the White ple with his son, and also will deliver a lecture Tuesday night, August 19, upon "A Tenderfoot Abroad." It is rumored that the First Baptist work in Los Angeles was not finished and that he was not able to consider a call from any other church at this time. His present salary is $10,000. Passage Taken in Steerage.

Dr. Brougher went to Europe, follow ing the armistice, at the request of heads of the Y. M. C. A. work, asking him to give messages of cheer and in-"That is the kind of a life I am going to live—in an automobile," is the remark Mrs. Kitty Schultz would make to S. M. Schultz as a fortunate neighbor would pass in a machine, despite the fact that the Schultz family could afford no automobile, complains the husband in a suit for divorce filed yesterday in the givent court.
