MINING TRUSTEES SUED

RICHARD MARTIN JR. AND M. C. BANFIELD DEFENDANTS.

Portland Men Alleged Responsible for $15,190 Debt of Bankrupt Montana Concern.

Richard Martin Jr., a local architect, and Martin C. Banfield, vice-president of the Realty Associates of this city and former president of the old Banfield-Vessey Fuel company, are named defendants in an action begun in the circuit court yesterday, which seeks to hold them responsible for debts totaling $15,190.95 incurred by the defunct O. & M. Mines company of Montana, bankrupt since 1917, of which both were trustees.

The suit is filed by James F. McNamee as trustee in bankruptcy for the Montana concern, and alleges fraudulent watering of stock in the mining company, by which the defendants received "paid up" stock with par value of $190,000 in return for mining claims held to be worth not in excess of $200.

There are nine trustees in the concern, which was capitalized at $1,000,000, but there are only two in this state, and there are only two in the United States, and the information is that they are the only ones sued.

The O. & M. Mines company was incorporated February 2, 1915, for $40,000. Following the location of the quartz lodes in the property held by the concern the nine directors increased the capital stock on November 5, 1916, to $1,000,000 in 10 shares. The claims, it is alleged, were sold by the company for $900,000, and Mr. Martin and Mr. Banfield are said to have received $5,000 shares each.

Fraudulent intent is asserted, as the trustees were relieved from any personal liability for claims against the company by reason of being stockholders, holding the stock in 1916, and that the same was fully paid for.

The representative of the stockholders asks the court that Mr. Banfield and Mr. Martin be required to pay into the court enough money to pay off the indebtedness of the defunct mining company.

COLORED PLATES SHOWN

Various Chromatic Creations Seen at Branch Libraries.

Patrons of Portland's branch libraries can not paraphrase Glette Burgess' verse, "I never saw a purple cow," when they speak of the latest examples of modern art, since the exhibition of colored plates on "Modern Art" has been put in circulation among the branches.

Charles Marriott's "Modern Art," in which the plates appear, is from the Color Magazine, and the collection of color plates contains examples of the work of recognized leaders in all of the modern schools, including impressionist, cubist, futurist, and what not; together with examples from what in drama or music might be termed the "conservative" or "legitimate" schools.

The display in the branches has visited East Portland, North Portland and Albina and is now at St. Johns, whence it will go to the Arleta branch.

BOYS TO PICNIC TOMORROW

Columbia Beach Will Be Scene of Athletic Program.

A big day just for boys has been set for tomorrow at Columbia Beach. It's not a great boys' picnic with all sorts of sports that youngsters of the live-forever belt of every age will go miles to attend. The program will be run out on the beach. There will be running races of every kind and distance, with special events for little fellows and bigger chaps.

BIGELOW RAPS CARNIVALS

Commissioner Wants No More Shows That Shame Council.

Members of this council have hung their heads in shame when they have viewed the disgraceful shows permitted in Portland within the past few years," said Commissioner Bigelow. "They have all been fronts and humbugs and for my part no permit for any other such shows will be granted."

WAR SURVIVOR IS INJURED

Man Who Fought With "Lost Battalion" Burned Fighting Fire.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 6 (Special).—Walla Walla wheat smut was more dangerous to Harry Allen of Freewater than all the German shells.

Allen came through the war without an injury, being one of the few survivors of the famous "lost battalion," whose commander, Major Whittlesby, told the Germans to "go to hell" and "burn the hell out of us."

Allen is now in a hospital here recovering from serious burns received while fighting a separator fire on the McMullan ranch. He was badly burned about the hands and feet. An explosion of smut started the fire and Allen endeavored to save parts of the machine.
