3 LOGGING ENGINES BURN

FIRE IN SLASHINGS OF ELMA DISTRICT NOT CONTROLLED.

Damage in Oakville and Grays Harbor Country Also Reported.

CREWS SAVE ONE CAMP.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 12.—(Special)—Three donkey engines of the Lytle logging camp near Elma have been destroyed by a fire that today was sweeping through the slashings in the Elma district.

Melvin George, fire warden, reported the situation was not yet under control and dangerous unless rain falls.

Near Oakville several hundred dollars damage has been done to a Stinson Logging company camp by fire.

One of the Lytle camps in the east end of Grays Harbor county was nearly destroyed Sunday. The camp crews saved the buildings. The supports of a bridge were partially destroyed before the flames were checked.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Aug. 11.—(Special)—Forest fires in the upper Clearwater national forests are raging unchecked and the fighting forces must be materially increased in numbers if the situation is to be successfully coped with, according to reports received here from the forestry offices located near the burning sections.

Eighty men went into the timber Saturday to supplement the regular force already on the Grangeville and Orofino reserves, making a total of 900 men in those forests. With a decided shortage of men the forest is being entirely insufficient, until the last few days to do more than protect the most valuable timber. Tons of food supplies are being shipped to the fire camps daily.

UKIAH, Or., Aug. 12.—(Special)—Telephone wires here are the Big Creek fire, which burned over a large area in the Western and Umatilla forests a week or more ago, broke out again a few days ago. The men on guard extinguished the flames with difficulty.

LANDING FIELD IS URGED

COMMISSIONER MANN FAVORS AIRPLANE STATION.

City Official Warns Water Users Consumption Is Close to Unit. Meters Advised.

After having witnessed work of the airport in locating fires in the Bull Run district, where it had been for several days oversteering improvement on the city's reserve, City Commissioner Mann has returned highly enthusiastic over the efficiency of the birdmen in this detail, and in favor of the establishment of a landing field at Walker's prairie, an open tract which he considers ideal for the purpose.

A conference of army fliers and foremen of the city's pipeline, together with two engineers employed on the reserve, is to be held shortly for arrangement of a code of signals by which communication can be carried on with greater facility.

Commissioner Mann says the work of locating fires in almost impassable forested areas has been reduced to a comparatively easy task through the use of airplanes, less than an hour being required in many cases to determine the exact location of a blaze that might require several days to terminate under the old system. Fire-fighters can be rushed to the scene over the Columbia river highway, and the blaze dealt with while in its first stages.

In connection with his visit to the prairie, an open tract which he considers ideal for the purpose, Mr. Mann yesterday issued a statement that the water supply will prove inadequate to the city's needs in five years unless adequate attention is put in or a new pipeline installed. He estimates the cost of the latter at $2,000,000, whereas meters can be put in place at a cost of $2 each.

The commissioner says the peak load now is being carried, and that the present fire would destroy the supply. A capacity of 55,000,000 gallons daily is compared with a daily consumption of 54,000,000 gallons. The water saved through the use of meters, Mr. Mann says, would make a new pipeline unnecessary for a number of years.
