Declaring the pressing need of the country was for production by industry, the president said he had been obliged to "balance one set of disadvantages against another," and decide which was the more serious for the country.

The president's message was sent to Speaker Gillett, but when an effort was made to present it to the house. Representative Blanton, democrat, Texrs. made a point of no quorum, and the house adjourned without the message being read.

Two Vetoes Set Precedent.

This was the second time the president had vetoed repeal of the law. White House officials and members of congress could not recall a previous instance of a president having twice vetoed the same bill.
