

ELKS EAT ELK AT BIG KLAMATH BARBECUE

Antlered Herd Frolics on Hillsides Near Pelican Bay.

OUTDOOR STUNTS HAVE ZIP

Fun at State Convention Stilled and Eulogy Is Delivered to Departed Members of Order.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Aug. 15.—(Special).—On the hillsides overlooking the beautiful Pelican bay, on the upper Klamath lake, several thousand "bucks, does and little fawns" who are attending the second annual convention of the Oregon State Elks' association today engaged in one of the most unique frolics ever staged within the state.

Dull moments were unknown from the time that four large barges and 14 steamers, comprising the total lake transportation facilities available, reached Harriman lodge with members of the antlered herd at noon. Automobiles belonging to residents of Klamath Falls and members of the association were also used in carrying the large vanguard of Elks to the scene of the big barbecue.

Elks Eat Elk Meat.
Fond expectations borne by Elks from all parts of the state, who for months have been looking forward to a real elk barbecue, were fulfilled to the "nth" degree. Three elk obtained by the Oregon state game commission, making a total of 4500 pounds of elk meat; 500 pounds of beans, pork, lamb and beef, all prepared to a queen's taste, combined with 100 gallons of "salba," a dish with a particular Spanish flavor, were provisions which the large delegation received in a cafeteria style late in the afternoon.

Stunts produced by both professional and amateur stars selected from the various lodges of the state, furnished both amusement and entertainment. Credit for this show, which was declared to be the best outdoor vaudeville performance ever staged by the Elks of the northwest, goes to George O. Brandenburg, of Portland lodge, chairman of the "pep" committee of the Oregon state Elks' association.

In addition to the barbecue and vaudeville acts, the large delegation took matters into their own hands and staged an old-fashioned picnic, which included races of every description, sports and similar events.

Marshfield Picnics Unique.
These are small now but you should see them in 1921. read a placard accompanying each dish of the Marshfield crabs served to the assemblage with the compliments of Marshfield lodge No. 1169. This lodge is making a fight for the title of "picnic capital" and resorted to this unique method of launching the campaign one year in advance of the time for selection.

Fun, frolic and amusement which thus far have characterized virtually every minute of either day or night during the convention, halted this morning for a few brief moments at the first business session of the association when Walter L. Toose, Sr., of Salem lodge No. 338, delivered a touching eulogy to the late Elks Oregon who had died during the past year.

Elks to Help Widow.
Unscheduled on the official programme, but an outgrowth of a conversation between Jay Utton of Prineville and other Elks of the state, is a movement to raise $5000 to be presented to the widow of the late Jimmy Hannon, who died last fall in Pendleton from an attack of influenza, and who is survived by a widow and five children and but little surplus funds.

A check of $500 presented by Bend lodge No. 1121, the baby lodge of the state, started what is known as the Jimmy Hannon fund, and chances for a mounted elk tooth in bringing in hundreds of dollars each hour to the fund.

A brief address of welcome to the delegates was made by E. H. Hall and responded to on behalf of the state association by Francis V. Galloway, exalted ruler of The Dalles lodge No. 101. Long applause greeted Charles C. Bradley, past exalted ruler of Portland lodge, and recently selected to the position of grand exalted lecturing knight of the grand lodge of Elks, as he was escorted to a seat at the right of President William S. Kennedy. Mr. Bradley made a short address, reviewing the benefits derived by members of the order, who attended the sessions of the grand lodge and the state conventions.

Musical Selections Please.
Delegates in attendance at the opening session this morning were accorded a real treat when Mrs. Charles Berryhill of Los Angeles sang a number of vocal solos. Two encores did not satisfy the Elks and this delightful singer was forced to respond to a third encore. Particular interest surrounded Mrs. Berryhill's appearance, as she was a former resident of Klamath Falls and resided in Klamath county.

She was accompanied by Miss Desire McKlosky of Los Angeles. Both of these artists were brought to Klamath Falls by former Mayor Crisler, father of Mrs. Berryhill. Another musical selection on the morning programme was in the form of a violin solo by Mrs. J. P. Saterlee, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Wood Eberlin.

WAR VETERAN GETS POST
Bellingham Man on Industrial Insurance Commission.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 15.—(Special).—Governor Hart today added another overseas service and Spanish-American war veteran to his list of recent appointments when he named Captain W. P. Brown of Bellingham to succeed J. W. Brislawn on the industrial insurance commission September 1. Captain Brown lately returned from a year's Red Cross service in Italy. He is a past state commander of the Spanish-American war veterans and resigned the office of prosecuting attorney of Whatcom county to go overseas. Lieutenant-Colonel Fred Lewellyn, who was recently appointed to another pending vacancy on the same commission, is also a veteran of both the Spanish and world wars.

Two public service commission appointments of Governor Hart will take office tomorrow. They are Senator E. V. Kuykendall of Pomeroy, and H. H. Cleland, former assistant attorney-general. Frank P. Christensen, lately returned from 15 months' army service, will succeed Mr. Cleland in the attorney-general's department.

RIDDLE TO FIGHT CUT-OFF

ELIMINATION FROM ROAD ROUTE ROILS CITIZENS.

Suit to Be Filed to Restrain Highway Commission From Constructing Canyonville Section.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 15.—(Special).—The recent visit of a Roseburg attorney to Salem indicates that the residents of Riddle, Douglas county, are preparing to file suit to restrain the state highway commission and contractors from proceeding with the construction of the road generally known as the Canyonville cutoff. This highway is a deviation from the main north and south trunk road through the state and eliminates the town of Riddle.

The residents of Riddle are said to be indignant as a result of the action of the highway commission, and a mass meeting was held there a few weeks ago to offer formal protest, and a committee was appointed to present the grievances to the Douglas county court. Some time later another delegation from Riddle appeared before the state highway commission, but without favorable results.

Although attorneys visiting Salem refused to divulge any information regarding the plans of Riddle citizens, it was admitted that lawyers had been retained and that the opening of a legal battle was only a matter of a few days. The first step in the proceeding, it is believed, will be a petition asking the court to issue an order restraining the contractors from proceeding with the work.

Under the ruling of the commission the new road will connect with the present Pacific highway a short distance south of Myrtle Creek, eliminating Riddle as far as benefits of tourist travel are concerned.

TOURIST TRAVEL HEAVY

Salem Fair Grounds Camp Taxed by Visiting Motorists.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 15.—(Special).—Some idea of the enormous tourist travel this season may be gained from the statement of Secretary Lee of the state fair board, who reports as many as 100 automobile parties camped at the fairgrounds, north of Salem, on several nights during the past week.

Many of the tourists are from eastern states, while not a few of the cars bear Oregon, Washington and California license plates.
