

MONTENEGRO REBELS AGAINST SERBIANS

Old Balkan Rivalries Flare Up Into Fighting.

JUGO-SLAV STATE DIVIDED

Faction of Deposed King Nicholas Seeks to Block Union With Larger Neighbor.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Fighting has broken out everywhere in Montenegro and the whole country is in a state of revolution, according to news received here.

"We seem to be in for a recrudescence of the Balkan fever," says a statement made to the Associated Press today from an authoritative source.

The Montenegrians have cut the railway between Virpazar and Antivari on the coast.

The Serbians are receiving reinforcements, but are not meeting with success in their efforts to put down the revolutionary movement, according to advices.

The uprising in Montenegro seems likely to bring to a head the long smoldering differences between the Montenegrin supporters of former King Nicholas and the faction adhering to the plan for the incorporation of Montenegro in the Jugo-Slav state.

30,000 CHRISTIANS SLAIN

TERRIBLE STORY OF MARTYRDOM IN PERSIA TOLD.

Thousands Cut Off and Massacred by Turks; Children Hacked to Pieces; Women Carried Off.

(Copyright by the New York World. Published by arrangement.)

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(Special Cable.)—A terrible story of the martyrdom of Christians in northwest Persia is told in the Daily News by one of their number, Dr. Younan.

The war began, Dr. Younan says, in the province of Azerbaijan, and induced the Christians from Syrian baptism to fight against the Turks.

After this the heretic, but small Christian force fought 14 battles with the Turks and Persians and routed their enemies. But no help came from the allies, and the defeat of the Armenians cut off the Christians from the Syrians.

Children were taken from their mothers and dashed to the ground. Hundreds of women were carried away to Mussulman harems. In all 20,000 were killed, lost or captured.

HANSON WOULD BAR I. W. W.

Had I not decided to resign I should have had to leave Councilman W. D. Lane as acting mayor. I would as soon have taken a man from the penitentiary and left him in the mayor's chair.

Hanson hastened to his private office, where he gave the first official announcement of his resignation and plans for the future.

"By leaving Mr. Fitzgerald in the office as mayor, I shall have fulfilled my duty to the city," he declared. "My work here is done. The Skagit project is safe. The city street-car system is safe. The business of the city is in the best condition it has ever been in."

"Long ago, after my trip east and my breakdown, I realized that I must have a rest. I couldn't take a vacation without leaving Lane as acting mayor."

"Lane is a man who I know full well is unfit for the office. I have no confidence in his citizenship or his patriotism. By resigning I could open the way for the council to elect a loyal and patriotic citizen to fill out my term. I leave with the knowledge that I have carried out every pledge in my platform."

Fitzgerald announced that his first official act as mayor would be to learn the duties of the office. Whether he would make any changes in the personnel of his staff he did not say.

Finance Secretary Drake, slated to take Fitzgerald's place as councilman, said he had first learned of Mayor Hanson's programme when on July 2 he was asked if he would accept the council position and he replied that he would.

Mayor Hanson, in resigning his office as Seattle's chief executive, today issued the following statement:

"To the people of the city of Seattle: I have this day resigned from the office of mayor of the city of Seattle for the following reasons:

"When I became mayor I did so for the purpose of serving the people of this community during the war, and as I stated in my platform, to give a square deal to labor as well as capital and bring about a loyal, united Seattle—a Seattle free from turmoil, treason and I. W. W. control. I stood for construction and not destruction and have carried out to the letter the promises made when elected."

"My physician informs me that although I have no organic trouble, I am in need of a complete rest. If I continue in office and take a vacation Councilman Lane as president of the city council would become mayor. His action in attending the Wells-Balder banquet given in honor of these two convicted seditionists while awaiting transportation to the federal prison makes such a course impossible, and if I were to permit his again becoming mayor, as a result of such action I would feel that I was false to my oath. I have, therefore, taken the only course open which conforms with my trust and has resigned, which course makes it the duty of the city council to elect another mayor.

"I am sure they will elect a patriotic and loyal supporter of our government in my stead, as well as one who will work for the success of our municipal undertakings.

"Seattle was never more united than it is today and no city in the land is freer from I. W. W. control.

Operation of Cars Success.

"For years before I became mayor there had been a continuous struggle between the people and the Puget Sound Traction Light & Power company. Under stress of the war, the city of Seattle purchased its street car lines and proceeded to operate them for public utility.

"Despite the opposition of Councilmen Lane and Erickson, who had previously claimed to be municipal ownership advocates, we have successfully established and operated our municipal utility.

"The constant and continued opposition of these two councilmen, directed as it has been, not only against the successful operation of our street car lines, but against the construction of hydro plants on the Skagit, was explained. They have simply demonstrated that their only use for municipal ownership was for election purposes.

Councilmen Are Thanked.

"I desire at this time to thank Councilmen Fitzgerald, Thomson, Carroll, Haas and Hasketh for their loyalty to the interests of our great city.

"I also desire to thank the heads of the departments who have shown by their work that working for the city means something more than simply holding down a job and drawing pay.

"Last, but not least, I desire to express my personal thanks for the unwavering support and assistance tendered me by the great majority of the people of this community and ask that the same loyalty and support be given my successor. OLE HANSON.

Action Said to Have Flurried France Not Informal.

Mark Bristol, High Commissioner at Constantinople, Told to Order End of Massacres.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—In warning Turkey that massacres of Armenians must stop, Rear-Admiral Mark L. Bristol, commander of the United States naval forces in Turkey, was acting under instructions from the state department. This was announced today officially.

No report has been received from Admiral Bristol, officials said, nor has any protest been received either from Turkey or any of the allied governments.

Paris dispatches yesterday said Admiral Bristol's warning had caused confusion before the war and that the action was an independent one on the part of this government.

When Admiral Bristol went to Constantinople as head of the American naval mission he was said to have been given specific instructions as to his official conduct under these and similar circumstances.

The department announced that the United States at Constantinople in charge of political matters there.

"Mr. Ravndal, who retains his title of commissioner and consul-general, will continue in charge of commercial and similar matters at Constantinople. In political matters he will be under the direction of the high commissioner."

GOLD HUNTERS USE DEVICE

Instrument Said to Be Able to Find Treasure Buried in Mountain.

WHEELER, Or., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—After several years of experiments, perfected what he says is an instrument that will locate buried treasure. It is on the principle of a compass and the owner says he has located several small caches of gold near Portland.

After reading the story of the buried treasure supposed to have been cached on Neah-kah-nie mountain years ago by pirates, Lee left Portland, accompanied by his brother Robert, in 1914. They searched for the treasure, with their machine located a spot near where the treasure was supposed to repose. They immediately sank a shaft 90 feet deep, but did not locate the gold.

They have spent several months each year digging for the treasure. Saturday they narrowly escaped death when a shaft caved in.

Columbia University Head Favors Peace Treaty Exceptions.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Speedy adoption of the peace treaty,
