

OBSCURE MERCHANT FINALLY SURRENDERS

With Store-Front Slashed, R. S. True Capitulates.

ROADWAY SPACE CONCEDED

Building Will Be Moved Back Off Space Where Columbia River Highway Is to Run.

With the front of his store rapidly losing all semblance to the entrance of a mercantile establishment through the work of employees of the roadmaster's department in clearing land and condemning for use as a country road, Roland S. True of Springfield capitulated yesterday and agreed to move his building back from the line which the curve of the Columbia river highway is to run as soon as possible.

At a conference between True, Attorney W. T. Slater, Roadmaster Eatchel and Deputy District Attorney Mowry yesterday a truce was agreed upon until Saturday, at which time True expects to meet the man who, he says, bought all the property surrounding his store last week and repurchase enough of the land to permit him to move his store back from the condemned property, which at present supports one-third of his store.

Building Badly Slashed.

One end of a large counter had already been taken back into the store enclosed in glass and used as a display room for fruit, vegetables and other foodstuffs had been completely demolished and the food removed before True surrendered. Deputy Sheriff Wilson was on guard all night by the open-front store and Deputy Sheriff Linton took up the vigil yesterday morning.

Since the beginning of the attack by the roadmaster's force, on the advice of District Attorney Slater as to its legality, True consulted Attorney Slater as to the possibility of damage suits against the county and Slater informed him that the officials were well within their rights and that his chances of recovery were slight. An amicable settlement was suggested by Slater's office resulting in the district attorney's office resulting.

Award Held Sufficient.

An old pool hall was rented by the county to store provisions which True refused to take back into his shop Tuesday. Yesterday he sought to have Eatchel put them back in the store without further expense to him. Rental of the store from the line onto property away in trucks, and all expenses which could be assessed against the county in connection with the efforts of the roadmaster to clear the objectionable blind corner will be deducted from the $1400 True has been awarded by a board of viewers for the sale of land condemned.

The amount awarded was far more than the land was worth, but was expected to cover the cost of moving the store back from the line onto property owned by True. When the time for appeal of the award was up and the building had not been moved, True appeared in the roadmaster's office and told Eatchel that he had sold all the rest of his property and could not move his building. He had hesitated to move it before, as he wanted his money first.

The roadmaster thereupon told True that he would clear the condemned strip of all impediments preparatory to the hard-surfacing of the road at that point and proceeded to act on his threat Tuesday.

PICKETS CAUSE OF SUIT

JEWELRY STORES ASK COURT TO ESTOP UNION.

Loss of Thousands of Dollars Is Alleged Because of Turning Away of Would-Be Customers.

Taking the position that union picketing of the stores of manufacturing jewelers is in furtherance of a conspiracy to injure their business and is causing thousands of dollars damage through loss of patronage, nine Portland jewelers filed injunction proceedings in the circuit court yesterday against the Central Labor Council and Local 41 of the International Jewelry Workers' union. The injunction seeks to prevent further use of pickets.

The alleged illegal picketing has been carried on by means of women stationed with large banners in front of the places of business. The plaintiffs charge them with insulting would-be customers by remarks and vituperative epithets.

The use of pickets is held to be in line with an alleged conspiracy entered into prior to July 28, when a strike of the union jewelry workers was called. The plaintiffs in the action are: G. Heitkemper company, L. C. Henriksen, Jager Bros., A. & C. Feidenheimer, Butterfield Bros., Fair Block, Dan Marx, F. Friedlander and H. Alstock.

SERB DISTILLER IS FINED

Plea That Whisky Plant Supported War Orphans Fails in Court.

Mark Bobish, a Serb, told Municipal Judge Roseman that he quit his legitimate employment and started out as a distiller of illicit whisky to provide money for the fatherless children of his three brothers in Serbia. His three brothers, he said, were killed in the war and he took it upon himself to provide for their children.

Testimony, however, developed that Bobish had not been sending funds to his purported stricken relatives. He was fined $75 and got 20 days in the city jail. Joe Watson, one of the patrons, paid a fine of $75, while Daniel Zagrybski, another countryman who had been mixed up in the enterprise, escaped with a fine of $25.
