Colonel Miller, Party Warhorse, Not on Reception Committee.

MYERS LOSES "AUTO RACE"

Postmaster Vainly Tries to Beat Way Farther Up the Presidential Parade on Highway.

Unanimous approval of the conduct of President Wilson's recent visit to Portland is being withheld by some of the local democrats. Oswald West, as general chairman of the affair, ap-pears to have rather overlooked some democrats who are "ferninst" Senator democrats who are "ferninst" Senator George E. Chamberlain.

For instance, Mrs. Alexander Thompson, who attacked Chamberlain in a speech white praising Wilson during the Heilig meeting, when the chairman of the democratic national committee was in the city, was not on the reception committee. Neither was Colonel Robert A. Miller, a democratic warhorse, who is in with the anti-Chamberlain faction on the reception committee. Nor was the colonel invited to the luncheon at the Hotel Portland, a slight which was the colonel invited to the lunchedn at the Hotel Portland, a slight which has cut Colonel Miller deeply in view of his services to the party and his long presidency of the Jackson club (Andrew, not C. S.)

F. S. Myers Quits "Auto Racing." And then there was the little inti-mate dinner in the evening when less than half a dozen 100 per cent Wilson democrats sat down with the presi-dent's alter ego, Joe Tumulty. Not one of the democrats who have considered themselves as the defenders of the ad-ministration and the open enemies of Senator Chamberlain were asked to eat

Balt at this auspicious event.

Then there was the little matter of Frank S. Myers, postmaster, who never, somehow, managed to get within gun-shot of Mr. Wilson, nor within shout-ing distance of the private secretary. The day was not auspicious for the postmaster. In the first place, he was assigned a post in the automobile parade which was nowhere near the pres idential car. Once out on the highway the postmaster endeavored to over-come this disadvantage. He drove his car rapidly and wove in and out of the line of machines shead of him in the desire to get as close up as possible. And after passing one car once and later trying to pass this same car again, the driver turned to the postmaster and warned him that if the sec-ond attempt was made he would put Mr. Myers' car in the ditch.

Postmuster's Letter Delnyed.

Nor was that all. The presidential mail had been directed to and delivered at the Hotel Portland. The post-master went to the desk and demanded that this mail be turned over to him as he intended presenting it personally He received the mail, but failed to carry it to Mr. Wilson.

Always there was an obstruction when the postmaster tried to connect with the real people in the presidential party. He finally handed the president's stenographer a letter for Secretary Tumulty, with the demand that it be delivered immediately. Maybe the stenographer had a lapse of memory, but anyway, the letter was the stenographer had a lapse of mory, but anyway, the letter was noschag—it was said that Mr. Wilson cerning Mrs. Spier No. 1 are true, said that Mr. Chamberlain are not so much and Mr. Chamberlain are not so much at 'outs' as they were several months ago. This information may have had something to do with the careless-ness of someone in falling to appeared and protected the rights of her mother in the divorce ness of someone in failing to appoint on the reception committee certain of the anti-Chamberlain democrats.

On the other hand, people in the hotel lobby saw Secretary Tumulty hold interviews with federal office holders who have managed to shout for Wilson and for Chamberlain in the
