The title of the crown prince is duke of Brabant. Announcement of the impending visit was first received yesterday through Portland railroad officials. HEARING OF CEMENT RATE CASE FINISHED

More Than Three Days Spent in Exhaustive Inquiry.

DECISION TO COME LATER

Investigation Made as Result of Application of Portland Company for Tariff Adjustment.

Hearing of the cement rate case before Examiner Butler of the interstate commerce commission was concluded yesterday, after sessions covering three and a half days. The case was based upon the application of the Oregon Portland Cement company, whose factory is at Oswego, for a readjustment of rates on cement and a distance tariff that would place all plants on an equal basis.

This application was resisted by the California manufacturers, and also by the Beaver Portland Cement company of Gold Hill, and passively supported by western Washington plants, but opposed by the owners of the plant at Mettaline Fails, which is near the eastern boundary of Washington and at a considerable distance from any large center of population.

Next to the Portland rate hearing and recently contested proposed new lumber tariff, the cement hearing keenly interested traffic and operations of the proposed of the contested of the contes ing officials of the railroads and of the federal railroad administration. It seemed to involve the question of whether new industries may expect the rights accorded old established oncerns, and the defense was set up by California manufacturers that hav-ing established their industries under existing rates favorable to them, i had become a vested right that should be maintained.

Traffic Expert Testifies. Harry E. Lounsbury, general freight gent of the Oregon-Washington sys-em lines, was the last witness in the case. He gave testimony from the viewpoint of a traffic expert in jus-tification of the present rates being naintained.

H. N. Proebstel, rate expert of the Portland district freight traffic com-mittee, continued his testimony yesterday morning, submitting a numbe of exhibits showing existing rates and explaining tabulations. He also tes-tifled as to the movement made necessary by application of existing joint rates which do not permit of inter-change of traffic with the Southern Pacific and Oregon Electric at the Jefferson street terminal. The circuitous route taken by a car of cecunitous route taken by a car of cement shipped from Oswego to Donald was described to enlighten the examiner on the workings of the pres-
