

FATHER PORTLAND IS SHAVED BY AD CLUB

Contest to Pick Younger Person Is Undecided.

EUGENE PASTOR SPEAKS

Dr. E. V. Stivers Upholds Newspaper Advertisers as Adding Dignity to Church.

"Father Portland" got a shave at the weekly luncheon of the Portland Ad club yesterday. Not only did the old gentleman get a shaving, but he also had a haircut and a trim. The shaving was done by the club members, and the haircut by the club barber. The old gentleman was shaved by the club members, and the haircut by the club barber. The old gentleman was shaved by the club members, and the haircut by the club barber.

Barber Shop Is Settling. For the historic occasion of changing interpretation of the shaving committee, headed by W. E. Conklin, arranged an elaborate setting that involved a backwash and a stage at one end of the crystal room.

After the on-act comedy had been staged and the argument of Lieutenant Rauch with the club members of the assembly learned the new suggestion, "Brother Portland," Miss Portland was characterized by Mrs. Arnold Cohen, and "Sailor Portland" was impersonated by Harry Oakley of the Portland newspaper. The club members of the daily newspaper were guests of the club, and all three as worthy as the club members. Members were asked to decide by ballot which should be the accepted figure. The result of the vote emphasized that the question is still an open one, for 15 votes were cast for "Brother Portland," 13 for "Sailor Portland," and 12 for "Father Portland." More than 100 covers were laid, so the members falling to register any choice allowed a minority to fail to reach a decision. The result of Father Portland seems to have resulted in a vacancy that will call for the immediate interpretation of the cartoonists to fill.

Eugene Pastor In Speaker. Robert H. Milligan, pastor of the Rose City Presbyterian church, was chairman of the day, for the topic, "Fighting the Devil With Advertising." The speaker of the day was Dr. E. V. Stivers, pastor of the First Christian church of Eugene, who is attracting attention because of adoption of a program of advertising for his church. Guests of honor were Dr. Joshua Sinsfield, Rev. W. E. Hines, Dr. W. W. Willard and Dr. Edward B. Pence. Each of the pastors spoke briefly, expressing their conviction that the church should use the power of advertising. Dr. Stivers said in part:

"Church advertising is merely the introduction into the conduct of the business of the church of a principle recognized in progressive modern business methods. It is the best medium of advertising in the newspaper, and the church should endeavor to use it with the same discrimination that the merchant employs. It is a mistake to assume that everyone in the community knows the church is there, and therefore it does not need publicity. Probably the public knows the store is there, also, but the church is the actor of its goods. It results in tremendous interest, as is indicated by the letters that are received from every point of the compass as to my plan, requests for copies of the advertising and information. As a matter of fact, it is a small beginning and has received attention greater than is merited.

Church Advertising Commended. "But the message to bring to the world. The message we bring to humanity is the same that was given to the world 2000 years ago, but must be in modern style. The preacher should meet the business man on the plane of the lives. Criticism of an advertising campaign for a church has come from the preachers, and without exception business men who have spoken to me about it have commended it as the right method of reaching the public in the work of the church. "Newspaper advertising adds dignity to the church. The church has never yet utilized its power. The church with which I am now connected cost probably $100,000, but I doubt if it has ever spent $200 a year for advertising."

WOMEN CONTROL PRICES

ECONOMIC EXPERT ASSERTS BUYERS HOLD REMEDY. Miss Grace Ferguson Declares Key to Situation Is Seasonal Purchasing of Supplies.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Sept. 24.—Women alone can solve the problem of the high cost of living. In the opinion of Miss Grace Ferguson, economic expert, who has returned to the states after six years in Porto Rico, Miss Ferguson has devoted all of that period to teaching Porto Rican women the secrets of household economies. She practically became a food administrator for the island, making one of the most exhaustive studies of the food question ever undertaken by any American. She taught women every day, making a round of 25 houses in which schools were established.

"In this country, as everywhere else," said Miss Ferguson, "the problem is in the hands of the woman. They may safely be trusted to take care of it, if they will do their own marketing, and not have to wait for prices to be affected in Porto Rico." She continued, "but we devised a method by which women could intelligently study prices and their trend, and keep their fingers firmly on the pulse of the market. If the women here would do as the women of Porto Rico did—make a seasonal chart of foods and their prices—they would not have to wait upon the squabbles and delays of any legislature to regulate prices. If women would buy when foods are in season they could accomplish definite results without radical reforms."

AUDITORIUM POLICY FIXED

FREE USE AND CITY APPROPRIATION REJECTED. Request of Mrs. G. T. Geringer to Get Aid for Woman's Building Benefit Denied.

If the city council hereafter desires to allow free use of the municipal auditorium, it will be asked to appropriate the usual rental fee from the general fund of the city. Hal M. White, manager of the auditorium, has informed the council that without such an action an accurate account of the financial standing of the building cannot be maintained. Yesterday the city council denied the application of the Oregon women's building committee for the use of the auditorium without cost, for a lecture by Frank Branch Riley. The profits of the meeting were to go into the fund for the woman's building of the University of Oregon.

Mrs. George T. Geringer, regent of the university, who appeared before the council, explained that it was planned to invite school children to attend the lecture at a small admission fee of 25 cents and adults at 50 cents. She said that if the committee were forced to pay rental for the building, nothing could be earned. Free use of the building was urged. Commissioner Bigelow opposed either voting free use of the building or the use of the building for the rental of the building be passed. GAME MOVE IS PLANNED

MOOSE FROM ALASKA TO BE PUT IN OLYMPIC FOREST.

Fraternities Order to Help Defray Cost; Forester Announces Sale of Siuslaw Timber.

Plans for bringing eight or ten moose from Alaska to stock the Olympic peninsula were announced yesterday by R. L. Fromme, forest supervisor of the Olympic forest, who is in Portland for a brief period aiding the forest sales department. The moose will be taken from the Kenai peninsula next spring, brought by boat to Port Angeles, taken by automobiles overland a distance of 70 miles, and turned loose near the settlement of Forks at the end of a wagon road along the north side of the Olympic peninsula. Climatic conditions are ideal for the moose in this part of Washington as in Alaska. The estimated cost is $200 per animal, and the forest service will be aided in the undertaking by the United States biological survey and by Moose lodges.

A timber sale announced yesterday by Mr. Fromme was that of 600,000 feet of dead western cedar on the Morris creek area in the Siuslaw forest. The timber was sold to the Delta Shingle company at a stumpage price of $10 per thousand feet. The sale has been called for on an offer of about 1,500,000 feet of government timber located in the Jeff Davis creek area in the Whitman forest. The timber is mainly yellow pine and the mill prices are $225 per thousand for the yellow pine and $1 per thousand for the Douglas fir and miscellaneous species.

Rummy Irishman Lost in Jew Synagogue Limit.

Charles W. Mooney Gets Two More Days When Judge Gets Facts.

CHARLES W. MOONEY, proud possessor of a rich Irish brogue and a bottle of bay rum, was making good headway in police court yesterday as he pleaded with Judge Rossmann for leniency after being haled into court on a charge of drunkenness. The court was just made ready to let the offending Irishman escape without a penalty when the arresting officers came in ready to let the court know that the defendant was in a Jewish synagogue in south Portland. "He was lit up like a cathedral, your honor, and to make matters worse I found him wandering around in a Jewish synagogue in south Portland. He had enough to be drunk, but for an Irishman to be found high and intoxicated in a synagogue is about the extreme limit," vouchsafed the

SOLDIER VOTE IS POLITICAL PUZZLE

Veteran Ticket, "Senate to Constable," Possible.

SPLIT IN VOTE IS SEEN

Many Military Candidates Held Opportunity for Civilians to "Slip Through."

What part the soldier vote will play in the coming campaign is drawing discussion in political circles. That there will be a number of former soldiers in the field in the primaries is taken as a foregone conclusion. The organization which is gathering the service men together is the American Legion, but the legion is neither democratic nor republican—but it has certain aims to accomplish which will have to be achieved through men in office. For weeks past dozens of service men have been in the race for office. There is not an office from United States Senator down to constable that some service man has not been asked to aspire to. Thus far there has been no definite boom for any of the ex-soldiers, sailors or marines for any particular nomination. The idea is still in the suggestive stage. "You ought to run for senator (secretary of state, sheriff, or whatever the office may be)," is the way some admirers of some service men are approached. "You can get the soldier vote and that will elect you."

Such a man in the suggestion planted. Occasionally the admiral goes a step beyond and says that friends will be forthcoming with finances for a campaign.

No Party Monopoly.

Neither of the parties has a monopoly on the soldier material for a political ticket. Service officials and democrats alike can fill a ballot with candidates possessing a war record. It is known that among the democratic leaders there is a quiet movement on foot to induce some of the former military men to enter the primaries. Democrats for years past have had trouble in putting a complete ticket in the field, but they depend on the soldier vote to considerable degree to make a full ticket for the electorate. The wearing of service stripes, however, will not be sufficient for a candidate to "corner" the soldier vote. Among the men who have been "buck" prizes, the higher-ups are not all in the good graces of their former subordinates, so that the fact that a man has returned with a commission does not make him a better candidate than some lesser light in the military service.

Civilians See Chance. Civilians who have a position on the part of the majority of service men to want to see soldiers monopolize all the political jobs. Civilians will stand better chance of election in certain instances, than soldiers, say service men.

One of those highly "illuminating" parties which are being held so frequently these days in downtown Portland was broken up early yesterday morning in a room at 252 Third street and the three participants arrested badly when they faced Judge Rossmann yesterday. John To-whack drew 60 days, Ellen Wilson also got 60 days, of which 30 were suspended. Judge Lucas was fined $25 and given ten days for his part in the liquor festivities.

THE PAGES OF RHEUMATISM

Cannot Be Rubbed Away With Liniments.

You who are afflicted with this most painful disease—know from experience just how excruciating its pangs are—get this fact fixed firmly in your mind, and it will aid you in finding a way to complete recovery. Rheumatism cannot be rubbed away with liniments—its pains and pangs cannot be wiped out as if by magic. A disease that is so full of torture and finally renders its victims so helpless is a deep-seated one; it is not on the surface, hence it cannot be reached by external surface remedies. This is no theory, for your own experience doubtless has shown you that you can never expect to rid yourself of the disease in this way.

For the chances are that you, like thousands of other sufferers, have been misled into the hope that liniments, lotions and other applications would cure this disease. But what has been your experience? The pains possibly have been lessened for the time being, but when they promptly returned, often with increased severity, and are you really surprised that you have not been cured? See what Mr. J. J. Arnew of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, says of what S. S. D. did for his rheumatism. "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism, the pains being almost unbearable. I tried various remedies without relief, until a physician advised me to use S. S. D., stating that it would cure me. After taking a few bottles the pains and soreness were greatly relieved. I continued this medicine until all pain, soreness and inflammation were gone, and I was completely cured."
