MONOPLANE WITH WINGS LIKE BIRD'S LATEST ADDITION TO PORTLAND'S AIRCRAFT DEVELOPMENT.

F. W. Ruben of St. Johns, builder, to make trial flight,

A souring bird was the model which F. W. Ruben of St. Johns used in designing a monoplane, which was completed and assembled at the Rose City Park speedway last week. After two years of effort on the part of the builder, including careful study of birds, the machine is ready, and Mr. Ruben expects to make a trial flight within a week. The monoplane's wings resemble those of a bird and through a system of control which the inventor has developed the wings can be tilted backwards or forwards to increase or lessen the air pressure and to maintain the bulance. Mr. Ruben hopes that the plane can be driven with less power than the part types of machines demand.

It was understood that I was not in accord with Senator Johnson's views and that I was at liberty go to state. I did not solicit publication of these views, but when approached by one of the newspapers, I did give my views, which are correctly presented by that newspaper.

As stated to your committee, I would not go to the Johnson meeting under false colors inasmuch as my views seem now to be the cause of some misunderstanding, I feel that the best way to prevent embarrassment to your committee or to Senator Johnson or to myself is for ma to withdraw, which I do. Respectfully.

PHILOMATH'S YEAR OPENS

COLLEGE ATTENDANCE MUCH GREATER THAN USUAL.

Spirit of Earnestness Prevails at Institution, Many of the Students Being Married.

PHILOMATH, Or., Oct. 5 .- (Spe cial.) - Philomath college has just Baker to the committee, in which the mayor announces his withdrawal, has been made public. A previous letter from the committee to Mayor Baker also is given out, in which the committee states that Mayor Baker had been asked only to preside at the peeting, but not to introduce the speaker.

- Philomath college has just completed the first week of the school year, the most successful first week in the history of the institution. The attendance is about 50 per cent larger than usual at the beginning, and an unusual spirit of carnestness is noted at the institution. This is partly due to the presence of a large number of older students. Many have returned from military service and many are from military service and many are married.

There were six weddings among school during the summer vacation, as follows: Harold Garver and Ruth Long, at Portland, June 17; Helen Epley and Dale S.
