

SENATE HAS FIELD DAY OF SHANTUNG

Plenty of Debate Is Heard, but No Action Is Had.

SOME SENATORS LINE UP

Lenroot Calls It Inconsistent to Take Hand in China, but Stay Aloof From Europe.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Entirely filling another seven-hour session today with talk, the senate appears completely the hopes of leaders on both sides of the treaty fight that a vote might be reached on the Shantung amendment or that at least some progress might be made in the reading of the treaty text.

The formal reading of the text had been the original purpose of the long session arranged for today, but the Shantung question got the floor at the outset and it soon was evident that the treaty-raffing "botch" was off for another field day of debate.

Hoping then that the way might be cleared for the reading at tomorrow's session by ending the debate on the Shantung provision today, the leaders agreed informally that the amendment should be voted on if possible before adjournment.

Both sides lined up their forces for the test, but when late in the afternoon Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri, began another long attack on the treaty the senate managers announced there would be no recess today. There has been no formal agreement, but the leaders hope for final action on the amendment some time tomorrow afternoon.

Senators Indicate Stand. During most of today's session the debate stuck close to its text, which was the foreign relations committee's amendment to transfer the Shantung rights to China in place of Japan.

Some senators whose stand had been the subject of some speculation announced they would vote against the pending proposal. But all of them indicated they would support a reservation on the subject. They were Senators Cull, Rhode Island; Lenroot, Wisconsin; and Spencer, Missouri, republicans; and Shields, Tennessee, and Thomas, Colorado, democrats.

Besides Senator Reed, Senator Borah, Idaho; Brandegee, Connecticut, and Lodge, Massachusetts, spoke in support of the amendment. Mr. Brandegee reporting into the record a long pamphlet on the subject published by the Chinese Society of America, Senator Lodge, who is chairman of the foreign relations committee, wrote the amendment, made a speech of only a few sentences in reply to the argument that amendment of the treaty would mean its defeat.

"We never will see the day," said Mr. Lodge, "when Europe will refuse to let the United States come into the treaty on any terms it chooses. It can dictate today, but the moment we become ensnared in the league we can't do it."

Egypt Is Mentioned. During the day interpretive resolutions proposing the preservation of Egypt's right to self-government and constraining the league covenant to guarantee freedom to capable peoples placed under mandatory by the treaty, were presented by Senator Owen, democrat, Oklahoma. He said he intended the measures to be entirely separate from the treaty ratification.

Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, announced he would vote against the amendment but present a reservation to "withhold assent" from the Shantung provision and to reserve to the United States "full liberty of action" in respect to any controversy arising under it. He argued that he was not sure the United States should give Shantung to China had been inconsistent in demanding that this country stay out of European quarrels.

Senators want us to stay out of "ops," he said, "but the same senators want us to dictate in Asia."

NATIVE HAWAIIAN PLAYERS AND SINGERS ARE FEATURED IN HELIIG ATTRACTION.

The Royal Hawaiian Players with 'A Daughter of the Sun' at the Heliig Theatre.

The lure of the lotus-land pervades the story of 'A Daughter of the Sun,' which will be presented at the Heliig theater for four performances, beginning tonight. The love drama, described as the story of an Hawaiian butterfly, comes to Portland with an enviable reputation built upon honor won in the east.

The ancient beliefs and theories of the Kanakas, natives of the South Sea Islands, influence the action of the play. The theme is true to the islands, and the clever inclusion of a sextet of native singers, famous as the Royal Hawaiian Players, lends color to the play. Massive and beautiful scenery, including a wonderful volcanic eruption in the last act, are features of the production.

'A Daughter of the Sun' is the work of Lorin Howard and Ralph T. Kettering, and has been mentioned in eastern newspapers as a class with 'The Bird of Paradise.' Performances will be given tonight, tomorrow and Saturday nights at 8:15 P. M., with a special matinee on Saturday afternoon.

DELAY IN CONSTRUCTION UPSETS COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Talk of Starting Movement for Election of Highway Commissioners Features Meeting.

BEND, Or., Oct. 15.—(Special).—Indignation at the action taken by the state highway commission at its last session in again delaying the commencement of construction works on the Dalles-California highway by rejecting bids for that part of the road lying between Bend and Redmond ran high at the meeting of the Bend commercial club today, when H. J. Overturn, chairman of the club roads committee, declared that all chance of highway building in central Oregon this season is definitely at an end.

To galvanize the commission into life, Mr. Overturn proposes to initiate a movement for the election of a central Oregon highway to the California line mandatory upon the commission and which, in addition, make the positions on the commission elective instead of appointive.

FRANCE SHOOK BY PRESIDENT'S ILLNESS

Statement of America's Position Much Desired.

BIG QUESTIONS PENDING

Immediate Meeting of Reparations Commission Held Necessary; Note to Neutralize Approved.

(Copyright by the New York World. Published by Arrangement with the New York World.) PARIS, Oct. 15.—(Special cable.)—Peace conference circles are much perturbed by the latest reports about President Wilson's health that reach Paris. The letter written by Senator Moses had a gloomy effect. Pessimistic opinions are expressed in regard to Mr. Wilson's early return to duty and there are many who fear the president's illness will delay various matters awaiting the allied decision now that the peace treaty becomes effective, after its ratification by three powers.

While there is general disappointment that the United States was not the third party to ratify, there was satisfaction that the treaty had been ratified and is ready to be enforced, and that President Wilson's illness cast a shadow across the path of peace. French public opinion now wonders what will happen to the clauses in the treaty which demand immediate settlement and in which the United States is directly interested.

Many Questions Arise. The foremost question preoccupying French political circles is that of the society of nations, particularly the first meeting of the league's council to decide delimitations and frontiers. Then there is the question of the various countries who are to become members of the league. All nations wishing to join the league are given two months in which to make their decision known.

By the treaty, Germany, when informed of ratification of the instrument by the great powers, must evacuate Silesia, eastern Prussia and Schleswig, where plebiscites are to be held and where many difficulties have to be surmounted by the conference, aided by America. Germany must sink or destroy all ships in the course of construction, naval armaments, and aerial fleet and make known her factory establishments.

From the allied point of view, the reparations commission should meet immediately. On this commission America has no representatives and American interest will be seriously impaired unless some step be taken at once to delegate commissioners. Wilhelm II also is concerned, for he is subject now to trial by an allied tribunal.

France Is Concerned. These clauses of the treaty are but a few of those demanding immediate action and in which America is more or less indirectly concerned, and there is no doubt that France would be relieved to know exactly what the United States intends to do in view of the president's sickness. This country's consistency regarding which the treaty becomes effective far more important than the date of the actual signing, but so far it does not seem very clear what steps will America make known her position.

FLIGHT IS ABANDONED

LIEUTENANT SCHRAMM MAKES LANDING AT SALEM.

Engine Trouble Develops at Portland While on Way From Seattle to Red Bluff, Cal.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 15.—(Special).—A plane badly broken motor with which he had trouble all the way from Portland to Salem, Lieutenant Ned Schramm of Red Bluff, Cal., landed at the State Fair grounds about 4:30 o'clock today. He is flying a De Havilland and was returning to Red Bluff from Seattle, where he had taken Captain E. P. Cook on a special mission. He did not damage the plane in landing, despite the rough character of the stubble field in which he alighted.

Lieutenant Schramm said that shortly after he left Portland he detected bad motor trouble and that soon pieces came loose. He discovered, on landing, that he had lost his cam-shaft casing and several parts connected with it.

He flew from Seattle early in the day and stopped at Peoria for lunch. He started for Salem and was compelled to fly low because of the heavy fog in the valley and when near Salem, was less than 500 feet up. After several attempts to pick a field he succeeded in finding the fairgrounds.

Los Angeles Woman Gains Twenty Pounds After Taking Tanlac

"It's hard for me to believe that I have actually gained twenty pounds and in twenty years of suffering has entirely disappeared," was the statement made to the Tanlac representative the other day by Mrs. Kate Trout of 1456 Naud street, Los Angeles.

"For seven long years I suffered from an awful case of indigestion that pulled me down and down and made me so weak that I could barely drag myself around," continued Mrs. Trout. "For the past year my condition has been worse and after nearly every meal I would have aching pains all over my body and I was so nervous that I couldn't sit down and read for ten minutes at a time. I was badly constipated, and my blood circulation was so poor that my feet, knees and hands would be cold nearly all the time. Night after night I walked the floor till 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, unable to sleep a wink and I felt so great in seven long years. I am a happy woman and every word I've said is the truth, and I just think so much of Tanlac that I'm going to tell everybody what a fine medicine it is."

Tanlac is sold in Portland by the Owl Drug company.—Adv.

REED COLLEGE CLEANS UP

STUDENTS AND PROFESSORS WIELD PICK, SHOVEL, RAKE.

As a Result, Reed Women Have Attractive Field, Board Walk Is Built, Swimming Pool Cleaned.

"Campus day" at Reed college, yesterday, saw as much work completed, with as much spirit and enthusiasm by every member of the community, as in the days when Reed campus was being converted from pasture land. It was a constructive day in every detail and one that boasts the claim of the college to democratic ideals, for students and faculty worked shoulder to shoulder.

While the crowd was waiting on the campus for lunch, the "Quest," a student publication, was handed out, hot off the press, telling all about the day's events before they happened. Dinner hours were periods of volleys of fun, coupled with the wholesale disappearance of heaps of food provided by Miss Harrington of the commons.

As for work, much was accomplished. Making a truck garden into a level athletic field for Reed women was the most extensive undertaking. A board walk was built to the end of Reedway to provide short cuts to the car line during wet weather. A mucking crew cleaned and drained the swimming pool of a varied collection of debris, and students were initiated into the processes of cement in the touching up of tennis courts.

At 4 o'clock all work ceased and a football matinee, in which the Dormitory romped away with the Davy-dodgers to 2-0 was a pre-dinner event. The first showing of the Reed "movie," filmed last year, was the feature of the evening entertainment and provided for all who saw the antics of Reed students on the screen.
