

CAVEMAN LOVER IS HELD

INDIAN BRIDE SAYS HUSBAND CHOKED AND BEAT HER.

Romance of Far North With Wild
Alaskan Setting Is Told in Judge Rossman's Court.

Romance of the far north where the tang of the cold makes blood thick and passions rude as that of the wolf, woven into the story of the wooing and winning of an Indian bride, a graduate of the Chemawa Indian training school, was told in municipal court yesterday when Rudolph Swarowsky, 324 Missouri avenue, appeared to answer to a charge of threatening to kill his wife, Nellie Swarowsky.

Swarowsky was held to answer to the grand jury after he had admitted that he had choked his dusky bride of three months, and after she had testified that he had threatened to kill her and on numerous occasions had given vent to his caveman style of caressing by grabbing a knife or sticking a 30-30 Winchester under her nose.

Imagery and action such as a Rex Beach or a Robert Service might have embodied in the tale told by the two of the little home at Corvova, the home which was sold by the girl for a paltry $250 when they left for the "outside."

There was another man who had an attraction for his bride Swarowsky said, and it was against this that he fought. When he was at work at the blacksmith shop, or building his boat, he was tormented by the apprehension that his wife was meeting this other man clandestinely on her way for the mail. So they broke up the little home and left this sinister influence behind and came to Portland where he got a position in a blacksmith shop.

The trouble started again when Mrs. Swarowsky wrote letters to her relatives in Alaska last Tuesday. Swarowsky became angered, choked and beat his wife and told her he would kill her, she said. Not content with this she said he knocked down the 19-month-old baby, a child of her former husband.

"I have never done anything to him," she said. "I have always tried to please him. Just because I am a half breed he calls me part Indian and tries to take advantage of me."

Swarowsky, who said he was an Austrian, born in Vienna, but had served four years in the United States marines, told his story to the judge in a low hurried voice.

"She has made a nervous wreck out of me," he said. "I love her and would have died for her any day. And the other night she laughed in my face while I was sitting there suffering. I choked her I think."

Swarowsky said after the trouble last Tuesday he made up his mind to go away and leave her, but that he later decided to stay on account of their unborn child.

"From what you have told me you are either going to kill your wife or yourself and so I can do nothing more than hold you for investigation by the grand jury," said Judge Rossman.

CAMPS SHUT OUT I. W. W.

Washington Work Not to Resume Until Men Return to Stay.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 16.—Logging and lumber camps of the Inland Empire affected by the walkout of 1600 I. W. W. will not reopen until the present trouble is settled and the men are willing to go back on the job and remain there, giving an honest day's work for a good day's pay, according to George A. Rubedaw, manager of the Rupp-Holland Lumber company.

The reason for the walkout, he claims, was not the increase of 25 cents a day in the price of board, but the desire of the men to come to Spokane and demand the release of I. W. W. prisoners here and the withdrawal of United States troops from Russia and Siberia.

SPEIER TANGLE CLEARED

Alimony Payment to First Wife Legalizes Second Marriage.

Agreement of David Speier to pay alimony of $50 a month to Mrs. Sophia Speier, from whom he received a divorce without contest while she was incarcerated in the asylum at Salem, led Presiding Judge Gates to legalize his marriage to Mrs. Sarah Speier yesterday, by revocation of a former order reopening the divorce case.

The contention of Bernstein & Cohen, attorneys for Mrs. Sophia Speier, was that she had not had her day in court during her husband's divorce suit, as her guardian ad litem, a daughter, allowed the case to go by default, instead of appearing as required by law.

The case was complicated by the fact that six months after the divorce was granted Speier married again and now has a child by his second wife, Mrs. Sarah Speier.

Mrs. Sophia Speier was committed to the asylum in September, 1918, and was released in August, 1919.

PAWNING LEADS TO JAIL

Typewriter Renter Faces Charge of Unlawful Disposal.

Renting a typewriter for $4 and then pawning it for $25 was P. A. Lippincott's idea of raising a little money for immediate needs, he told Municipal Judge Rossman yesterday. He was held to answer to the grand jury on a charge of larceny by sale.

According to C. E. F. Russ, representative of a typewriter company, Lippincott represented that he was a representative of a large concern in Chicago and by that means rented a typewriter which he had sent to him at a local hotel. Shortly afterwards Mr. Russ said he saw the man pass him and enter a pawn shop with a typewriter under his arm.

Lippincott said he had intended to return the typewriter but that he needed a little ready money just then. He admitted forging a bill of sale, which he presented to the pawnbroker.

"Then I used a free sample of Cuticura. It helped so I bought three cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment, and my face was healed."
