RUSSIA FEELS FIRST PATRIOTIC THRILL

Denikine's Volunteers Drive Reds to Northward.

PEOPLE TIRE OF STRIFE

Enperior Force of Bolsheviki Defeated by Army That Is Fighting for United Russia.

BY ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT. (Copyright by the New York World, Pub-PARIS, Oct. 19 .- (Special Cable.)-General Edgar Jadwin, who has just returned to Paris after an adventurous motor trip to the Ukraine, where he crossed from enemy to enemy four times and was fired upon during three crossings, today granted me an exclusive interview which explains the present successes of Denikine. Jadwin ran repeated risks to get first-hand information and has had the first comprehensive view of the Ukraine. "Patriotism has been born in Russia," he said. "The Russian people, thrown back from carrism to bolshey. ism, have become so disgusted and ashamed that all, even the darkest masses, feel that they must throw off the present tyranny for a free Russia; so Denikine's volunteer army, even though amuller than the conscripted bolshevik red army, is driv-ing them north." Volunteers Relied Upon. I was in Kiev when the bolsheviki attacked with superior forces, but General Bredoff, Denikine's representative, went shead steadily with his work until he was able by cavalry raids to break the bolshevik attack from the rear. I asked him how he felt so sure of the outcome. He replied: "Because Denikine's army is entirely a volunteer army. Every soldier can be counted on, while the red army is conscripted and is not devoted to its cause." I was saluted more often by Russian soldiers at Kley than by the French in Paris. This sign of discipline shows the spirit of Denikine's soldiers.

asked General Jadwin whether the Ukraine was in favor of a united Russia. He replied:

"I found many people who wanted autonomy for the Ukraine and most people agreed with Denikine's plan for a united Russia, but home rule for the Ukraine.

Petrograd Rule Opposed. They want to be part of Russia they are Russians—but they don't want to be ruled from Petrograd. Just now they will do anything to get rid of the bolsheviki. It is still dif-ficult to get Petlura and Denikine to agree, although neither can afford to attack the other seriously, as both are too busy with the bolsheviki. "I thought that an understanding had about been reached, when Pet-lura again attacked Denikine's troops

Where there were 60 cierks in the statistical department under the czar there are 1600 under the bolsheviki. General Jadwin believes that Denikine's volunteers will end by break-ing the red army if the Poles and the Baltic states do not sign peace with the bolsheviki, freeing the troops en-gaged against them. The bolsheviki have eight armies opposed to Deni-receives help through Roumania, possibly from Germany, but his support in the Ukraine is too strong to be artificial."

General Jadwin says that the Ukraine has the best crop in 17 years and if the bolsheviki kept off it would be peaceful and content. Kiev is lively, although its economic life has been ruined. The banks have been completely ruined.

This language Margolis recognized and admitted having conveyed the message to his associate.

"You see, officially, the strike committee doesn't recognize me at all," Margolis explained. "I'm persona non grata to them."

"The banks have been completely ruined.

The banks have been of portland and the northwest. The banks have been connection with the big milling inter-ests of Portland and the northwest.

Families Are Arrested.

This was General Jadwin's first view of boishevism on a large scale. He was hardly able to credit its horrors, but he is painstakingly getting proofs, as I noticed when with him. At Minsk he found that the red terror killed over 1000 proved dead. He did not find that Bredoff instituted a white terror. Only three bolshevis are offered to mislead the public as "Who are the eastern capitalists
