

OTTO KRAEMER HEAD OF HUMANE SOCIETY

STOP PAIN! RUB NEURALGIA AWAY

Selection Is Made at Closed Session of Board.

CRUELTY CHARGE PROBED

Albert Cowperthwait Resigns as President and L. D. Norris, Humane Officer, Will Quit.

At a closed session of the board of directors of the Oregon Humane society, held yesterday, Otto J. Kraemer, prominent Portland attorney, member of the organization for more than 25 years, was chosen president to succeed Albert Cowperthwait, resigned.

The election of another president followed the charges recently preferred against Mr. Cowperthwait, as president and manager, and L. D. Norris, humane officer, alleging cruelty in the disposition of injured pets. Two instances were cited: A dog, with a broken leg, was shot in the presence of children, it was alleged. A piked cat suffered the same fate. Protests from the owners, it was charged, met with abusive language from Mr. Cowperthwait.

As the result of investigation Mr. Cowperthwait severed his connections with the humane society, effective October 15. Mr. Norris, whose resignation was demanded by the complainants, tendered that document to the directors at yesterday's session. Throughout the discussion of the case and the nomination of successors the board has met in closed session, declining to admit the press. Mr. Kraemer will actively supervise the affairs of the organization, it was stated yesterday, though the office of manager will be filled at a later date. Candidates for this position, as well as possible successors to Mr. Norris, have not been disclosed. The resignation of the latter as humane officer was accepted and is to take effect November 1.

"We will make no more radical changes than we are compelled to by necessity," said Mr. Kraemer yesterday. "The personnel of the present board is excellent, and every one of these active workers has promised to serve as an assistant to the president. We will carry out the object of the society as best we know how."

That the sessions of the society, during the recent controversy, were of necessity closed to general attendance and the press, and that all future meetings of the board will welcome visitors, was the declaration of Mr. Kraemer at the close of the meeting.

SWEET TEETH SUFFERING

Sugar Shortage at The Dalles Assumes Serious Aspect.

THE DALLES, Or., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The sugar shortage prevailing here is hourly growing worse. Several grocery stores have exhausted their supplies and date of further shipments is not known here. Many homes are almost without any sugar. It is declared certain that no additional supply will arrive here until after the first of next month. Grocers are strictly following the custom of selling the small supplies periodically to regular customers only. Many persons have scoured the stores of The Dalles in a vain attempt to secure sugar from grocers other than those with whom they have been accustomed to trade.

There is but one grocer in the city who said he had any appreciable stock of sugar on the way here. About 40 sacks are coming. Even this amount is said to be sold. Lack of adequate transportation is assigned by local grocers as the cause for the sugar shortage. Strikes which have recently paralyzed steamship travel and to some extent rail transportation are held largely responsible.

Mr. Roth met the committee from the chamber of commerce, consisting of L. E. Bean, W. P. Fell and D. E. Moran. For a year or more Oakridge service has been limited to a train every other day. This is a mixed freight and passenger train.

As most of the physicians of the two counties have signified their intention of attending a large attendance is expected.
