SUSPENSION IS PENALTY

Indiana Steel Company's Rail Mill at Gary Reported to Be in Operation With 300 Men.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Governor Cox today announced that E. Footman, mayor of Canton, because of alleged inefficient handling of steel strike riots in that city, has appointed a commission to report on the situation to Canton citizens to support Vice Mayor Schrantz.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—The Indiana Steel company's rail mill at Gary, Ind., which is said to be the largest in the world, resumed operations today for the first time since the strike of steel workers started. Plant officials reported that 200 men were operating the mill as against a normal force of 700.

Sixty women pickets were on duty about the Gary plant.

Colonel Mapez, who is in immediate command of the troops there, issued an order for the arrest of the leader of the women, who he said, "are trying to stir up trouble following the incendiary speech made by Mother Jones last week."

News that the radicals are planning to hold a series of meetings in Gary on November 6, 7, 8 and 9, the anniversary of the formation of the Russian soviet republic, caused Colonel Mapez to state that he had 800 soldiers waiting to suppress the gatherings at the least sign of trouble.

Three companies of Indiana national guardsmen who have been in control of the situation at East Chicago and Indiana Harbor, Ind., have been ordered demobilized.

Frank Wagner Determined to Stand Trial on Charge of Dynamiting Kallunki Store Safe.

ASTORIA, Or., Oct. 27.—(Special)—Albert Meadows and James Clergy, alias James Tait, who were arrested with Frank Wagner in connection with safe-blowing at the Kallunki store, left for Salem tonight to serve unfinished terms in the penitentiary. Meadows has about three years to serve under a 13-year sentence from Umattilla county in 1914 for train robbery, and that is about three years more than could be given him under the charge that is pending against him here. Clergy is thought not to have been directly implicated in the safe-blowing and was simply an accessory after the fact. He has broken his parole, however, and is being sent back to the penitentiary to serve about one year remaining of his sentence from Multnomah county on a charge of burglary.

Wagner still persists in his determination to stand trial on the indictment charging him with the dynamiting of the Kallunki store by the use of explosives, an offense that carries with it a penalty of 40 years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000. An open court that he blew the Kallunki safe and has offered to plead guilty to lesser charge. His trial is set for December 1 and the authorities believe he will plead guilty to the indictment before the date for the hearing arrives.

This afternoon the circuit court grand jury returned indictments against Meadows charging him with being accessory after the fact to larceny from a store and larceny by the use of explosives. A not true bill was returned in the case against James Clergy.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 27.—(Special)—Pleading of Attorney James Mott of Astoria that Al Meadows, held for investigation in connection with the theft of liberty bonds and money aggregating $12,000 from a store there some time ago, be detained at the Columbia river city until he has been given an opportunity to establish his guilt or innocence in the courts, proved unavailing and Governor Olcott has ordered his return to the state penitentiary to serve out his unexpired term.

Meadors' parole was revoked on the grounds that while out of the state he made his reports to the parole officer through a woman residing in Portland and tried to make it appear that he was still in the state.

MAN, 72, NABS INTRUDER

A. G. Dayton Catches Youth in Room, but Nothing Is Missing.

A. G. Dayton, aged 72, father of District Judge Arthur C. Dayton, was on his way to bed last night when he discovered a young man in his room.

"What were you doing here?" he demanded. "Why, I was just looking for a room," explained the young man slyly.

And Mr. Dayton could not disprove the younger man's word, for nothing had been taken from the room. If the intruder was a sneak-thief he had been discovered before he could get into action.

"So I had to let the young scamp go," regretted Mr. Dayton, in telling the incident yesterday.

MURDER TRIAL OPENS
FOUR JURYMEN CHOSEN IN CLARK CASE AT EUGENE.

Killing of Road Supervisor Taylor While Hunting in McKenzic on July 25 Is Charged.

EUGENE, Or., Oct. 27.—(Special)—Only four jurymen were accepted today in the trial of Mary Clark charged with the murder of Charles Taylor.

The murder occurred while Lillian Leuthold, the victim, was returning home one Sunday afternoon in daylight on a trail frequented by many people in the eastern part of Bandon. The girl was waylaid by somebody who fired a bullet into the back of her head and held as evidence the bullet which struck the young Howell, since it fitted a .33-caliber rifle he was using on the day of the tragedy.

Many circumstantial pieces of testimony are claimed by the state, such as the sequestering or burning of the clothing following the tragic affair, the probability that he returned over the trail where the girl was killed, his general character and the fact that he was or could have been at the scene when the shooting took place.

"There is a slight discrepancy in the testimony produced at the preliminary hearing as to the time Howell was said to have some home and the time given as the departure of the girl from the Jennings home. Howell's boy friend said he went home earlier than the time Miss Leuthold is declared to have left the Jennings home and this may be a vital factor in favor of Howell, for nobody saw him between the friend's home and his own, which is several hundred yards distant.

The jury was selected to try the case. Walter Laird, Fairview rancher; P. W. Laird, Myrtle Point bank clerk; Max H. Dement, rancher; Carl L. Davis, Marshfield timber expert; George Brownson, farmer; Henry Bryant, trader; Joseph Olin, clerk; North Bend; E. G. Hampton, rancher of Argo; Ray Dement, Myrtle Point stockman; Lloyd Spores, Myrtle Point farmer; E. C. Mather, business man, North Bend; George S. Davis, Coquille.

The opening statements in the case probably will be given tomorrow.

END TO TANGLE SOUGHT
HIGH COURT'S OPINION WANTED ON OLCOTT'S STATUS.

Political Friends of Governor Hope Outsider Will Start Suit to Settle Question.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 27.—(Special)—Regardless of any opinion that may be given by Attorney-General Brown with reference to the legal status of Governor Olcott, political friends of the latter official declared today, that in justice to the present executive and other persons who may contemplate entering the contest for the state's highest office, the matter should be taken to the supreme court for final determination.

Because of the recent advice of counsel that it would be inadvisable for Governor Olcott, also serving in the capacity of secretary of state, to bring a mandamus proceeding against himself to have his name placed on the ballot for governor, his friends say it is now up to some person other than the executive to start proceedings which will tend to clarify the muddle. In a recent opinion, or group of opinions, the supreme court held that Mr. Olcott was governor in fact but all were not agreed as to whether he holds the office for the unexpired term of the late Governor Withycombe, or retires following the expiration of the term.

It is openly declared here that there is but one source left in which to seek a solution. If the legal status of Olcott is to be clarified, it is the duty of the executive to file his petition for governor. The secretary of state then could refuse to accept the petition, with the result that the disappointed candidate would resort to mandamus proceedings in the supreme court to have his name placed on the ballot.

It is generally held that if a friendly nature, it would have the desired effect and place the matter squarely before the supreme court.

The conferees also reduced from $73,312 to $64,000 the appropriation for the expenses of the international labor conference to be held here and eliminated the appropriation of $55,000 for the national industrial conference, expenses of that meeting having been paid out of the contingent fund.
