You may suspect your eyes, but why stop at suspicion? Why not get relief?

As the days shorten and the evenings lengthen, you read more under artificial light and your eyes begin to trouble you.

You know that medicines are only temporarily effective and often permanently injurious.

To suspect your eyes, but take medicine to relieve your headache, is foolish. Fix the eyes and the headache will fix itself.

The Columbian Optical Company has cured more headaches and prevented more headaches with correct glasses than have all the headache medicines ever sold in Portland.

As a result of the success of its methods there are now six other Columbian stores in six other cities—all of them efficient, progressive and reliable in the advice they give.
