

TRUTH PANDOLFO'S AIM, SAYS WITNESS

Advertisement Writers Are Warned to Be Careful.

CIRCULARS HELD 'STRONG'

Head of Concern Exercised General Supervision Over Publicity, Says Ex-Assistant.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—S. C. Pandolfo, repeatedly warned his advertisement writers to be careful to state only the truth in matter they prepared for circulation, Jack Hammond, witness in the trial of 13 Pan Motor company officials, accused of misusing the mails, testified today.

Pandolfo, however, allowed some material to go out in circular form of which Hammond had disapproved as being "too strong."

He told how he had sent an office boy to Pandolfo with a notation on the circular in question, calling attention to the offending paragraph which Pandolfo nevertheless allowed to be printed.

Testimony Stricken Out. The testimony was stricken from the records on the ground that the witness could not be sure that Pandolfo got the message.

The paragraph he objected to was: "The Pan company is already building that wonderful farm tractor—tank tread—that, like its motor cars, created a big sensation at the automobile and tractor shows held throughout the country."

Mr. Bowers, attorney for the company, also suggested some modifications or changes, the witness said, in another paragraph published in the circular—part of a resolution adopted by the Commercial club of St. Cloud.

Resolution Held Genuine. Evidence shows that the resolution was actually made by the Commercial club.

The Gopher State Advertising bureau was only a name, Hammond said, used by the Pan company to secure from newspapers the discount allowed advertising agencies.

He also testified that Pandolfo exercised general supervision over the publication of Pan Siftings, the company advertising organ, but that he did not on all occasions know the contents of all articles appearing there-in.

W. R. Flint of Peoria, Ill., who, during part of 1918 was in charge of administration of the blue sky laws of Illinois, identified the application of the Pan company for a license to sell Pan company stock in Illinois.

NO BABIES, NO MARRIAGE

CHILDLESS UNION MOCKERY, SAYS COLUMBIA PROFESSOR.

Happiness of Man and Woman Secondary — Robust Youngsters Prime Purpose of Wedding.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Happiness of man and woman is only a secondary affair in marriage, the prime purpose of which is to produce robust children, Professor William J. Durant of Columbia university said in a lecture at the Sinal social center here last night.

"Where there are no children there is no marriage," he added. "Free love is impossible, the professor said, because conquests of a man are praised by other men, while if a woman has had one free love affair she is held in ridicule and belittled by her associates."

"Most men now marry after they have become incapable of love," the professor continued, "and then comes your divorce."

"Courts say that divorces are due to cruelty, drunkenness and half a dozen other things, but they are all wrong. The three fundamental reasons for divorce are:

- "First—The natural vanity of both sexes.
"Second—Psychological incompatibility.
"Third—Lack of children."

Raid on Multnomah Dance Proves Real Thriller.

Even Members of Committee Are Taken by Surprise When Liquor Flask Is Discovered.

MULTNOMAH club members are beginning to believe that the Biblical injunction to keep the right hand in the dark as to the doings of the left is poor advice. Their decision follows a thrilling raid on a Multnomah club dance at the clubhouse on Halloween night.

Club members and police department heads whispered secret plans some time before the dance, and everything was arranged to have a "raid" on the dance to throw a thrill into the revellers. But the "raid" thrilled even the plotters, for where they expected to see a squad of uniformed men swarming into the ballroom they saw instead a belligerent-appearing bunch of officers of the moral squad, headed by Lieutenant Harry Thatcher.

"Lord, what's up?" whispered one clubman to another. "Something's wrong," whispered the other nervously. "This wasn't the plan."

Thatcher produced an imposing document charging everything on the crime calendar against the clubmen. Explanation was about to pour forth, when the colored waitress shrieked for attention. Officer Schulpius had shyly pulled a bottle of poison from his pocket and "discovered" it again propped against a punch bowl.

"Do you know who put this here?" sternly asked the officer. "Deed Ah don't, sah," nervously responded the waitress, turning as pale as possible. "Deed Ah don't."

Multnomah clubmen turned pale, too, at sight of the pint flask, wondering from fear or longing could not be determined.

"Well, we'll just take this all along," growled Thatcher in his best bass voice. "And you, too," turning to the chairman of the dance committee. The chairman, though he had been in on the plotting, was in a dozen condition and quite prepared to spend the night in jail.

The chairman was "under arrest" till the door was reached, and the grins of the "raiders" gave him cause for a sigh of relief.

Multnomah members still are wondering whether wisely to affirm their full knowledge of the Halloween thrill or honestly to own up to the scary feeling they experienced.

3-STAR SHOW TO CLOSE

MATINEE TODAY LAST PERFORMANCE ORPHEUM BILL.

Triple Headliner Opens Sunday at Orpheum Theater in San Francisco—Acts Laughmakers.

The Orpheum's triple headliner show will close its Portland engagement this afternoon, today's matinee being the last performance on account of the Heilig being engaged by another attraction tonight. Six of the seven acts of this show are laugh-makers, and it is one of the most popular shows of the season.

The three headliners are Harry Green, Jewish comedian, in "George Washington Cohen," a satire with the notes of heaven as the stage setting; Lillian Shaw, who has been proclaimed to be America's premier vocal dialect comedian; and Ciccolini, renowned Italian grand opera tenor.

Harry Green wins screams of laughter with his playlet, Miss Shaw also scores a great individual hit, and Ciccolini is so popular he is obliged to sing several encores at every performance.

Other acts of the three-star bill include Ben and Hazel Mann in non-sensical nonentities; Flo and Ollie Walters, who also are one of the applause hits with an act that includes a most lively dancing; the Duesene Brothers in gymnastics on the horizontal bars and the Pickfords in novel comedicalities.

This entire show will open at the Orpheum in San Francisco next Sunday afternoon.

GUY TALBOT IMPROVING

Operation Performed on Portland Man in Chicago Success.

Guy W. Talbot, president of the Portland Gas & Coke company, who underwent an operation for the removal of his gall bladder at Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, yesterday bore the ordeal admirably and is in excellent condition to recover, according to a message received by his secretary, George L. Myers of this city.

Filed by John A. Laing, vice-president of the company, who went to Chicago when word was received of Mr. Talbot's critical illness, the reassuring telegram is as follows:

"The operation has been completed, with no complications. The gall bladder was removed. Mr. Talbot is in excellent condition and everybody is greatly relieved."

Early this year Mr. Talbot was operated upon twice in Portland for similar trouble. During a visit to New York he suffered a recurrence of the ailment, and while on his way home was halted at Chicago, where he has since been under the care of specialists and where the major operation was declared necessary. The operation was performed by Dr. A. D. Bevan, formerly of Portland.

Auto Hits Family on Road.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—Mrs. O. D. Broadhead of Littleton and her two children, Kirk, 8, and Viola, 10, are suffering severe injuries from being run into by a car on the road near Clatskanie. The car approached from behind. The driver lost control of his car while trying to pass them and it bumped over all of them. The little girl was carried 100 feet across a ditch and through a fence. The mother and boy were knocked down and bruised.

WAR PHOTOS ON EXHIBIT

PEN AND INK SKETCHES ALSO IN DISPLAY AT LIBRARY.

Pictorial Review of Career of 91st Division Overseas Is Contained in Collection.

An official pictorial review of the career of the 91st division overseas is contained in the collection of war photographs lent to the central library and placed on exhibit in the main hall of the second floor.

In connection with these official photographs, but not associated with the 91st division, is also an interesting display of panoramic photos taken about Chateau-Thierry and lent to the library by Sergeant J. H. Mellin. Still further amplifying the historical exhibit is a series of attractive pen and ink drawings lent by Sergeant Smith-Hisler.

Miss Mary Frances Isom, librarian, brought back with her from overseas an immense collection of war posters, war loan posters, etc., which has also been placed in the central library and is exhibited in the hall on the third floor.

Besides the war exhibits now installed in the library, the flag and sash exhibit, placed by the technical department of the library, is also a center of interested groups every day, and is being continually amplified by additional loans from new sources which have become known in the exposition of Oregon industrial resources that the technical department is developing.

Robbers Must Reckon With Inventor.

Modest Individual Explains Mystery of Bright Light Seen by Rose City Park Residents.

PREFERRING to remain incognito, for the nonce, Portland's deliverer from the scourge of footpads has announced himself and his singular discovery. With the imaginative faculty of the late E. A. Poe, and the calm, scientific certainty of T. A. Edison, he details his invention in a recent letter to the editor and modestly conceals his identity under the matter-of-fact nom de plume, "Inventor."

The other night many residents of Rose City Park, a peaceful suburb of trim and conscious bungalow, interspersed with verdant cow pastures, were vastly excited and concerned over certain intermittent and mysterious flashes that illuminated the cloudy prospect and that gave no earthly account of themselves or their origin. It was remarked for "Inventor" to allay the public mind by a confession.

Moreover, he discloses a solitude for the police bureau, for the convenience and well-being of its blue-coats, that is touching to a degree—and that would be even more so were it not for the gradual and subtle suspicion that the hidden genius is toying with the sharp edge of sarcasm. At any rate, here he goes:

"The brilliant light observed by the Rose City Parkers," writes the anonymous genius, "is due to my testing out a new protection from hold-up men. I have perfected a chemical which can be compressed into a small pellet about the size of a pea. When dropped from the hand and coming into contact with the forehead, it radiates a light of great brilliance. My experiments were successful, far beyond my expectations. I consider the invention perfected and ready for the market."

Here is the sublime juncture of Poe and Edison, the wizard of fancy and the necromancer of fact—a blended ground of schemes that renders nightly pedestrianism as safe and happy as it was in the dear old days before the war. Listen to him:

"The idea is that a pellet of this chemical be carried in the palm of the hand and upon meeting a high school building with a full attendance of teachers from all parts of the county.
