

OREGON TO RAISE ALL OF ROOSEVELT QUOTA

Ex-President's Standing Reflected by Director's Tour.

LINCOLN LEADS COUNTIES

Edgar Piper Jr. Asserts State Fully Alive to Importance of Memorial to Great Leader.

Strong conviction that Oregon can and will perform its duty in full measure along with the remaining sisterhood of states in the Roosevelt memorial movement, was expressed at campaign headquarters yesterday by Edgar Piper Jr., campaign director, who has just returned from a survey of the work in several outside counties.

"We have demonstrated to our satisfaction that the American people feel this thing in their hearts," said Director Piper yesterday. "Wherever there has been an adequate opportunity for people to subscribe, the results were almost automatic. Wherever the preparations were not complete to the necessary degree, the result has cast an unjustified reflection on an American of Theodore Roosevelt as a man."

Lincoln Leads Counties. "Perhaps the leader among the counties in Lincoln county, where the subscriptions are nearly 70 per cent above the quota. In Benton county practically the complete quota came in dollar subscriptions which were 100 per cent voluntary. Hood River county is over-subscribed, and very few subscriptions are over a dollar."

"The people of Linn county showed us they did not wish to see their standing lowered. And we are informed that their work has been accomplished. I have lately been in Marion and Yamhill counties and have held conferences with people who do not think the showing for these two communities up to the present time is fairly good. A strong backing for the movement is being organized to continue the work, and I think we shall prove our contention that all of Oregon is anxious to honor the memory of an American of Theodore Roosevelt as a man."

Oregon's Quota in Sight. Director Piper further expressed the belief, as a result of his trip about the several counties, that the people of Oregon will complete their allotted quota within the next few days, and reports that the campaign in the state indicate that the citizens do not intend that Oregon shall longer be lagging in paying tribute to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt.

Telegraphic reports from east of the mountains detailing further successes of local workers brought a new light of hope at state headquarters in the Elks building. Frank A. Vandellip heard her and commissioned the entire family to aid in the loan. After that every time a patriotic drive came up, they left the theatrical circuit and put on their act for Uncle Sam.

POISON ENDS GARD GAME

SEATTLE WOMAN, JEALOUS, TRIES TO END HER LIFE.

Salesman Denies That There is Cause for Worry Over His Interest in Another Woman.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special)—While she and her husband and another young couple were playing cards in her apartment in the Barker hotel, Sixth avenue and Pike street, yesterday, Mrs. Pauline Douglas, 24, excused herself from the game long enough to enter the bathroom and swallow ten bicarbonates of mercury tablets in an effort to destroy her life. Returning to the room where the others were seated, Mrs. Douglas lay down on the bed with the remark: "I hope you will always remember 2:30."

It was 2:30 A. M. J. E. Douglas, the husband, who says he is an electric clock salesman from El Paso, Tex., realizing something was wrong, asked her: "Have you taken poison?" She replied, she says, that she had not, but almost immediately the poison showed its effect. He says he induced her to drink a pitcher of warm water as an emetic, but she was losing her husband's love to another woman," she told hospital attaches.

Seen later at the hotel, Douglas declared his wife had no cause for jealousy. "The woman she refers to is the very dear friend of a brother lodge member," he explained. "Everybody knows a lodge man would not attempt to make love to his lodge brother's lady friend. My wife is extremely jealous. She has been babled all her life. Twice before she has tried to end it all."

When Violet was only 9 years old her father was speaking for the first liberty loan drive from a truck at the corner of Forty-second and Broadway in New York. Upon concluding the address he stepped down and went into a cigar store. That was Violet's chance. She climbed up on the improvised platform and put in her plea for the campaign. Frank A. Vandellip heard her and commissioned the entire family to aid in the loan. After that every time a patriotic drive came up, they left the theatrical circuit and put on their act for Uncle Sam.

BUDGET LAW CLARIFIED

Publication by County Courts Still Required in Oregon.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special)—County courts are still required to publish in official newspapers of their respective counties, tentative county budgets and hold open hearings as required by the budget law, according to a legal opinion announced by Attorney-General Brown today.

The opinion was sought by Paul V. Martin, county agent and leader of the county operative department of the Oregon Agricultural college, who informed Mr. Brown that he understood the budget law had been repealed by the supreme court.

In his opinion Mr. Brown declared that the supreme court did hold unconstitutional an amendment to the law passed by the legislature in the year 1915, for the reason that it referred merely to the title and did not set out the act in full as required by the law.

CONFAB OF MAYORS BRANDED AS FARCE

Same Old Cry of "Profiteer" Raised at Conference.

HINDMAN MAKES REPORT

Portland's Delegate Declares Californians Ruled Session Without Getting Satisfactory Results.

Instead of formulating measures which might cause some reduction in the high cost of living, California politicians who attended the coast mayors' conference held at Sacramento recently yelled "profiteer" and passed the burden of remedying conditions to the California legislature. This statement was made yesterday in a report filed with Mayor Baker by Charles C. Hindman, who represented the Portland executive at this conference.

Because of the non-attendance of Oregon and Washington delegates, Mr. Hindman reports that the conference was soon dominated by the representatives from California cities and was somewhat overshadowed by the special session of the California legislature which was to convene on November 1.

Legislative Session Asked. "The mayors and representatives of California cities," reported Mr. Hindman "dealt with the high cost of living as a local question to be solved by local legislation, and under the leadership of Supervisor Nelson, representing Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, passed the question to Governor Stephens and the legislature of California, by petitioning the governor to call an extraordinary session of the legislature to convene at the conclusion of the present special session."

"The object of the petition for the extraordinary session was the enactment of anti-trust laws and other legislation directed against profiteers and price-fixing agreements. Had the conference attributed to some extent at least, the present high costs to the world's scarcity of all commodities, due to underproduction for the past two years in all the countries of Europe and recommended measures to stimulate production and prohibit those things which make for a lessened supply, the present high prices, I would consider that the conference had taken a step in the right direction. However this was not done."

Vote-Getting Scheme Charged. "It is popular to tell the people that they are the victims of profiteers, and as a vote-getting scheme, the California politicians thought it unsurpassed."

Mr. Hindman presented the three following recommendations to the conference, but none of them were given any consideration: "First, Strict regulation of all exportation of the necessities of life and a complete discontinuance of such exportation if the necessities of this country require such a measure. "Second, Such legislation against profiteers, price-fixing, and the cold storage of foodstuffs as will insure the free and unrestricted operation of the law of supply and demand upon the prices of all commodities. "Third, Legislation regulating the relationship of the employer and the labor unions and the abolition of the strike, with consequent lessening of production and raising of prices, as a means of forcing labor's demands."

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special)—Impelled to the action by the disastrous results of the recent building trades strike and disgusted with radical leadership that brought about the trouble, the Seattle Bricklayers' union has voted to withdraw from the Building Trades council and to refrain in the future from "entangling alliances" dangerous to the legitimate trade union movement.

YOU buy bread, of course. No up-to-date woman bakes any more. That form of household slavery went out of style with hoop-skirts and the spinning wheel, and the "woman's place is home" nonsense.

If you know any woman who bakes, for pity's sake preach the gospel of woman's emancipation, and help her grow.

She isn't helping herself or her husband or her family. She is just taking up room in the kitchen and going to seed. Tell her she is wasting money and wasting youth. Then send her to her nearest good grocer's for a loaf of

FOREST SLACKER GUILTY

Cove Resident Who Refused to Fight Fire Convicted.

COVE, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special)—Douglas Larsen of Cove, charged with having refused to fight a forest fire in Grand Ronde district No. 3, Minam national forest, when summoned last summer and who has since been in jail awaiting trial, was convicted in the circuit court and fined $100, but was paroled by Judge Knowls on promise to be law-abiding in the future. It was an aggravated case, as at the time he was summoned the scarcity of men, the over-worked foresters and the tinder-like condition of the forest, had compelled W. D. Foreman to call men from every line of business, even the most pressing, and even then it is a marvel how Cove and other contiguous places escaped. It is said Larsen gave as his reason for his refusal that the government had prosecuted him.
