

MARKET PROBLEMS ARE THRESHED OUT

Early Closing and Rotation of Stalls Discarded.

OUTSIDE AGENTS BARRED

Producers May Sell Goods of Other Farmers — City Ordinance Now to Be Revised.

Early closing of the public market and the rotation of stalls proposed in an amendment to the present market ordinance were defeated after a public hearing yesterday, in which producers, representatives of the grange, civic and business clubs and the housewives' council were present and were heard.

The council ordering the closing hour of the market, as proposed, changed from 2 P. M. until 6 P. M. except on Saturday, when the market will remain open until 7 o'clock.

Opposition to the rotation of stalls was voiced strenuously by the producers themselves, many of whom said that they would rather take the poorest stall in the market, from a location standpoint, if they could have such stand permanently the year around.

Granges Oppose Rotation.

J. J. Johnson, who appeared at the meeting representing the granges of Multnomah, Washington and Clackamas counties, declared that the granges were opposed to the rotation of the stalls.

City Commissioner Bigelow offered a suggestion which was unanimously adopted, eliminating the plan of rotating stalls each week, but adopting a policy of giving corner stalls out permanently, but holding such stalls in reserve for the producers who come to the market occasionally. All other stalls in the market will be given out permanently on the same plan that has heretofore existed.

Agents on the Market Create Perhaps the Longest Discussion on Any of the Proposals in the Proposed Ordinance.

The council proposed that each agent be limited to represent but one product. This provision was included, it was explained, to eliminate the commercial agent.

Mr. Johnson representing the granges, N. H. Achison representing the Realty Board, R. W. Gill, former marketmaster and representing the Progressive Business Men's club, and Frank H. Hilton representing the Kiwanis and Progressive Business Men's clubs, entered protest against the elimination of all agents on the ground that such a move would prevent the small producer from offering or sending his produce to the market.

Producers argued that the bona fide producers should not be limited to represent only the producers living in their immediate vicinity, but should be allowed to sell the produce of any farmer.

Mr. Gill's amendment was finally changed to permit producers to sell the goods of other producers, and was so adopted, eliminating the commercial agent entirely.

Removal of the maximum price was protested by Mr. Johnson, who insisted that the granges of the three counties were opposed to the elimination of price fixing by the marketmaster. The producers, some 30 in number, were seemingly divided on this point, and the members of the housewives' council favored the elimination of all price fixing.

Trial to Be Made.

Members of the city council, with the exception of Commissioner Bigelow, favored giving the elimination of the maximum price a trial to see if better results would obtain.

The only serious tilt of the long session came when Attorney Thomas A. Hayer, representing the housewives' council, attempted to fix responsibility for the inclusion of the 2 o'clock closing provision in the proposed ordinance on the city council and eliminate members of the housewives' council from such responsibility.

Mayor Baker's Ire was thoroughly aroused over this point.

The ordinance was referred to Deputy City Attorney Myers for final revision and will come before the council for final action next Wednesday.

HAD TO FIGHT FOR BREATH, SHE SAYS

Mrs. Cheever Gains 25 Pounds and Ends Trouble by Taking Tanlac.

"Since taking four bottles of Tanlac I have gained 25 pounds and feel better than I have in many years," was the statement made by Mrs. Mary A. Cheever, who lives at the corner of Fifty-fifth ave. and 102d st., Portland, Or., in an interview with a Tanlac representative recently.

"For 20 years I suffered with rheumatism and stomach trouble and a few months ago I had to give completely up and take to my bed," continued Mrs. Cheever. "I had pains all over my body, but they hurt worst in my limbs, arms and shoulders, and my muscles would seem to draw up so tight that I could hardly keep from screaming out. I would be in such agony. At times my limbs got numb and cold and I felt like a thousand needles were sticking in me and I had a pain in my back over my kidneys nearly all the time. It seemed that nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach and caused gas to form so bad that my heart would palpitate terribly and I became frightened for fear I had heart trouble, and it was such a fight for me to breathe that I thought every breath would be the last. I was badly constipated and had dreadful dizzy spells and headaches and sometimes the headaches would last for a whole week at a time. I was so nervous that I would almost cry out in spite of all I could do. I fell off in weight until I weighed only 75 pounds and I simply broke down."

"I had heard and read a great deal about Tanlac, but I didn't decide to try it until a friend of mine advised me to take it. The way I improved from the very first was a complete surprise to me and I feel like a different woman now. My appetite is fine and I am not troubled in the least with gas or indigestion. The rheumatism has almost entirely disappeared and I hardly ever have a headache or dizzy spell. My nerves are steady and I am no longer troubled with constipation and my improvement has been so wonderful that I want to tell the world what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Portland by the Owl Drug Co.—Adv.

This is the second year beets have been raised here and a campaign will be conducted this fall and winter to get several thousand acres of beets contracted for next season.

POLICEMAN DIES ON TRAIN

Body of Canadian Commissioner Found by Porter.

W. R. Routledge, assistant commissioner of the Royal Canadian northwest mounted police with headquarters at Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, and one of the best known men in that famous service, died of heart disease on the train between Seattle and Portland some time Wednesday night.

The death of Mr. Routledge was discovered yesterday morning when John M. Scott, general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific company, went to the Union station to greet the mounted police official as he was passing through. A porter who went to call Mr. Routledge found him dead in his berth.

Mr. Routledge had been suffering from ill health for some time, and was on his way to San Diego with his wife, Mrs. Letta Routledge, and three small children, at the time of his death. In the hopes that the southern climate would benefit his health.

Passengers on the train said that he had seemed in the best of spirits the preceding evening. He had smoked and talked with passengers congenially.

Mr. Routledge had been a member of the mounted police many years. Mrs. Routledge said last night that she would take the body back to Victoria, B. C.

Mrs. Routledge and the three children registered at the Seward yesterday and will be there until they make their departure for the north. Mr. Routledge was 50 years of age.
