

NEW YORK DRINKERS' PAY PRICE FOR 'KICK'

Hair Tonic Alcohol Said to Be Flowing Freely.

DR. VANDYKE IS ALARMED

"World May Be More Sober, but It Certainly Is Not More Sane," Says ex-Minister.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Since the prohibition law went into effect New York's insistent and enthusiastic drinkers have been consuming the "non-beverage" alcohol which usually goes into hair tonic, cologne and patent medicines at 30 to 40 cents a glass, according to Colonel Daniel L. Porter, supervising internal revenue agent here.

Honey juice and caramel have aided drinkers in catering to customs, and whiskey made "while you wait" from the hair tonic ingredients has been colored and served as "Scotch," "Ivy" and other favorite brands.

"This has come about because there has been no genuine 'red liquor' available since July 1, Colonel Porter said. It has proved satisfactory to customers, who have not been let in on the secret, because it has a powerful 'kick'."

Business Fairly Profitable. The non-beverage alcohol was manufactured under the war-time food control law and cost $240 a barrel. When the saloonkeeper obtained it his next business operation was to buy a half dozen empty barrels and dilute it. Then, with his stock of prunes juice and caramel at hand and his bartender's aid, he served his disguised stock by the small glass, making a profit of anything from $1000 to $2000, according to how much heart he had for his customers, Colonel Porter asserted.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 10.—Highway robbery, race riots and murders "seem to be increasing in spite of prohibition," said Henry W. Van Duse, former American minister to The Netherlands, in an address here tonight before the world's Christian citizenship conference.

World Is Losing Grip. "The world may be more sober," he said, "but it certainly is not more sane. On the contrary, it seems as if the pressure of human passion and impulse has become more intense, while the restraint of the Christian science has relaxed. What else could you expect from a world which does not go to church and whose chief intellectual influence is the moving picture show?"

Dr. Vandyke declared a "standpat" world was impossible. The world, he said, was not without hope or effort for improvement. Human nature has not changed, and selfishness, ignorance and violence were the ancient enemies against which civilization must ever contend.

Referring to movements under way for a better day, Dr. Vandyke said it was "inevitable" that there should be a partnership; that there should be a league of nations to prevent or suppress any new outbreak of war; that the world about $200,000,000,000, nearly $200,000,000 men, and countless thousands of aged men, women and children starved to death."

"Frivolous Senators" Rapped. "The frivolity of certain American senators," he added, "may keep us out of the league for a brief time, but in the end it is coming and we shall be in it as sure as there is a God in heaven, and a common sense in the American people."

The speaker asserted that "collective bargaining" between labor and capital has come to stay and that labor unions are indispensable, but that the responsibility of both to the public must be recognized.

"Secrecy in regard to the conditions of labor and the accumulation of wealth must and will be abolished," he declared.

"The books of the great corporations and of the labor unions must be open to inspection. The common people, who are neither proletarian nor capitalist, have a right to know what goes on behind closed doors. Secret societies of any kind are enemies of the republic. We are going to get rid of them."
