

MINERS TOLD TO GO TO WORK

Union Executives Comply With U. S. Mandate.

COURT APPROVES ACTION

Good Faith Effort Conceded by Judge Anderson—Miners Then Issue Statement.

OPERATORS MUST AGT NOW

Union Contends That Real Negotiations for Settlement Next in Order.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 11.—Judge A. B. Anderson, in federal court at 10 o'clock this morning, approved the order of the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, calling off the strike of bituminous coal miners.

Attorneys for the miners promised to try to have the order in the mails by 6 o'clock this evening. This action was taken following a session of the general committee of the miners, which decided early today to comply with the mandate of the court issued last Saturday.

Later in the day officials of the miners' union and representatives of the mine operators accepted the invitation of Secretary of Labor Wilson for a conference in Washington for adjustment of the differences that led to the miners' walk-out.

Good Faith Conceded.

Judge Anderson characterized the order as a "good faith effort" to comply with his mandate. The text of the order follows:

"Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 11, 1919—To the officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America: Dear Sirs and Brothers: In obedience to the mandate issued on November 8 by the United States court, district of Indiana, Judge A. B. Anderson, presiding, the undersigned hereby advise you that the order of October 15 directing a cessation of operations in the bituminous coal fields of your jurisdiction, is withdrawn and canceled.

"Yours fraternally,
"WILLIAM GREEN,
Secretary-Treasurer.
"JOHN L. LEWIS,
President."

Miners Issue Statement.

The order to rescind was presented to the court by Henry Warrum, Indianapolis, attorney for the miners. After the court proceedings, Mr. Warrum, G. L. Grant, Fort Smith, Ark., and F. C. Huebner, Albia, Ia., associate counsel, then issued a statement in the presence of the government attorneys, in which the position of the mine workers was stated.

The statement of the attorneys follows:

"The operators have repeatedly declared that they were ready to enter into negotiations with the miners if the strike order were withdrawn. The government has taken the position that in the vindication of its own supremacy the strike order must be withdrawn before it would take any steps to compel the resumption of such negotiations. The issue has been submitted to the court and in compliance with the court's ruling the strike order has been canceled and withdrawn.

Others Must Act Now.

"It seems to us that good faith on the part of the operators requires them to meet the miners' representatives at once for the purpose of negotiating a settlement of this wage controversy and that good faith on the part of the government requires it to see that such a resumption of negotiations is had at once and concluded without delay."

John L. Lewis, acting president of the mine workers, said after the union's order had been approved by the court that he had nothing to add to his statement made at the close of the miners' conference early this morning. He said that no supplemental statement to the membership of the organization was contemplated at this time.

Although delegates to the meeting of the miners apparently were

LEGION IN HOT FIGHT EXCLUDES POLITICS

PUBLIC CANDIDATES BARRED FROM OFFICES IN BODY.

Indianapolis Gets National Headquarters—Next Convention Goes to Cleveland.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 11.—The hottest fight of the first American Legion in session here was precipitated late today by the raising of the question whether the legion shall be kept out of politics. The convention voted to amend its constitution to make the organization "non-political" and bar candidates for public office from holding office in the legion.

A minority report permitting political officers to be officers of the legion was defeated by an overwhelming viva voce vote, but the rollcall vote on adoption of the "non-political" resolution showed a majority of about 100 of the 834 voters.

A certificate from the French government for the family of each soldier killed in France was presented to the convention.

Indorsement of universal military training with a small standing army and no compulsory military service in time of peace was voted enthusiastically tonight by the legion convention. It was recommended that the national citizen army be under local control and administration, subject to general national regulations.

Deportation of Victor Berger, recently denied a seat in congress, and unseating of Representative Voight of Wisconsin, who cast the only vote in Berger's favor, was recommended to the American Legion convention late today and was received with tremendous cheering. On motion of the entire Wisconsin delegation the resolution demanding cancellation of Berger's citizenship was unanimously adopted.

Indianapolis was chosen today for permanent national headquarters of the American Legion, defeating Washington, D. C., on the second ballot.

Cleveland was chosen for the next convention of the American Legion over San Francisco.

The delegates stood silent for a moment at 8 P. M., marking the first anniversary of the hour when firing ceased in the war. Chairman Lindsey asked that the delegates bow their heads in prayer for their comrades who gave their lives during the war.

The legion observed armistice day by a parade which ended with presentation of decorations to members of the 151st field artillery, a regiment composed largely of Twin City men.

The committee on convention organization recommended Houston Niles of Colorado as chaplain, Alexander H. Johnson of Rhode Island as sergeant at arms, and the appointment of an executive committee including a representative from each state. This report was adopted upon motion of Colonel Milton J. Foreman of Illinois.

Greetings from General John J. Pershing were read to the convention by Chairman Lindsey.

Lindsey at that time announced he was not a candidate for national head of the American Legion.

DRYS DEFEATED IN OHIO

Official Returns Show Small Majority Against Prohibition.

COLEMBUS, O., Nov. 11.—Ohio last Tuesday voted against ratifying the federal prohibition amendment by a majority of 51, according to complete official returns received today by the secretary of state. The vote was: For ratification 499,879; against ratification 509,520.

Secretary of State Smith announced that some errors are apparent in the complete official vote and that the official returns from nine counties will be sent back to county election boards for correction. He also announced that the official figures from 34 counties would have to be verified.

James A. White, manager of the Ohio Dry federation, has asked for a recount of the vote.

WISCONSIN ELECTION SET

Successor to Socialist Unseated by Congress to Be Named.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 11.—Governor E. L. Phillip today called a special election to fill the vacancy in the Fifth Wisconsin congressional district caused by the house of representatives' refusal to seat Representative Victor L. Berger, socialist.

The primary will be held on December 8 and the election on December 19. The opinion at the capitol is that Berger will again enter the race.

REPUBLICANS TO CONFER

Meeting to Select Next Convention City Called.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Chairman Will H. Hays today issued a call for the republican national committee to meet at 11 A. M. in Washington, D. C., December 16, to fix the time and place for the next republican national convention.

Apparently the fight for the convention will be between Chicago and St. Louis.

LORDS WOULD BAR WOMEN

Important Clause in House of Commons Bill Rejected.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The house of lords today rejected the clause in the bill for the removal of sex disqualifications which would permit women to sit in the house of lords.

The clause in the form of an amendment was added to the bill by the house of commons October 27.

ARMISTICE THRILL AGAIN SWAYS CITY

Heart-Felt Tribute Paid to Marching Veterans.

Joyous Din Wakes Portland

Celebrants in Impromptu Parades Cheered on Way.

RED CROSS MAKES DRIVE

Service Men Entertained at Dances, Dinners and Other Celebrations During Evening.

A single year can be crowded with experiences until they dribble out, like grain from a crumpled sack—so tightly packed by the press of events that there is little space left for the memory of matters that were epochal just a twelve-month before. But Portland gave answer yesterday to the question of whether her folks have forgotten the day on which victory was written for the allies and black defeat for the Hun. The city remembers.

Armistice day in Portland woke to the blend of bells and whistles, an echo of that other morning when neighbor called to neighbor and all scarcely could believe that war was at an end, and that the toll of battle had taken its last lad as an offering to the strife which flamed over Europe for four long years.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Last night cowbells, klaxons and confetti the forbidden lent a festive tone to the Armistice day revel on Portland streets. Gray-haired matrons and pig-tailed school girls mingled with soldiers and sailors and children as the first anniversary of the biggest day in years was celebrated as only Americans can celebrate.

During the war period, when patriotic events thrust parades through the downtown streets, the walks were long lanes of loyalists. And yesterday was like to these in the thousands of citizens, out on holiday, that banked the pavements as the pageant of veterans tramped by in review, that doffed their hats to the scores of standards, and that sent wave after wave of cheering to the men who know what Flanders mud is, the hue of poppies and blood, the glare of a star shell, the crash of high explosive and the spiteful sip of machine gun pellets seeking to slay.

Emotion Ties at Heart Strings.

Cheers are but the outward expressions of what lies hid in the heart, ineffectual translations, at best. And those who watched the lines in their progress, who saw the cars laden with youthful veterans who might not parade—and whose attendant crutches gave the cue—

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

One measure would be the outlasting and cutting down of the present service, which would mean a reduction in the fire and police forces, cutting down in all activities and postponing a large street and sewer improvement, which has been petitioned for and will be paid for by property owners benefited. The city is obliged by law to pay the cost of engineering and supervision of the work, and without the additional funds, this work cannot be accomplished.

Because of the lack of funds the city council has been powerless to conduct an expensive campaign, but in order to place the facts before the people issued a general invitation to organizations and individuals to visit the city hall and examine the books of the city and thus learn the real situation. This invitation has been accepted generally and numerous committees have spent hours in delving into the financial condition of the city.

Indorsement is General.

In all cases of such investigation indorsement of the measure has followed. Every civic and business organization has indorsed the measure, organized labor, through the Central Labor council and several union

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

TAX ELECTION TODAY; VOTERS CALLED UPON

CONDUCT OF CITY'S AFFAIRS HINGES ON RESULT.

Polls Open 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. Special 2-Mill Tax Levy Needed to Avoid General Slash.

INFORMATION FOR VOTERS AT TODAY'S SPECIAL CITY ELECTION.

Polling places will be found in the customary places in all precincts.

Polls will be open from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M.

Every legal voter entitled to vote, whether property owner or not.

Persons not registered or who have not voted for two years may vote only by being sworn in at polls by six property owners acquainted with person seeking to vote.

The only measure on the ballot is 2-mill emergency tax amendment.

Information concerning election may be obtained at election information booth at city hall. Telephone Marshall 4190.

The voters of Portland will decide today at a special city election if the city council is to be empowered to levy a maximum of 11 mills for general purposes. Defeat of the measure, assert city officials, will result in material reduction of the city's fire, police and health protection and the city's park, playground, street cleaning, street lighting, public improvement and all other services and activities. Polls in the special election will be open from 8 A. M. and will close at 8 P. M., with every legal voter privileged to vote.

The measure to be voted on is a proposed amendment to the city charter authorizing one city council to levy a two-mill emergency tax for one year only. This emergency tax will enable the city to continue its present service with a few improvements and additions here and there where absolutely imperative.

It is not the intention of the city council to launch into any expensive program but the issue arose when the council found a $250,000 deficit, which could be overcome in but two ways.

Contentment Faced.

One measure would be the outlasting and cutting down of the present service, which would mean a reduction in the fire and police forces, cutting down in all activities and postponing a large street and sewer improvement, which has been petitioned for and will be paid for by property owners benefited. The city is obliged by law to pay the cost of engineering and supervision of the work, and without the additional funds, this work cannot be accomplished.

Because of the lack of funds the city council has been powerless to conduct an expensive campaign, but in order to place the facts before the people issued a general invitation to organizations and individuals to visit the city hall and examine the books of the city and thus learn the real situation. This invitation has been accepted generally and numerous committees have spent hours in delving into the financial condition of the city.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

REDS' HALL IS RAIDED; 53 ARE SENT TO JAIL

MEETING TO PROTEST CENTRALIA LYNCHING HALTED.

Speakers Accused of Attempt to Denounce Legion—I. W. W. Pamphlets Seized.

Reports that speakers in the Council of Workmen, Soldiers and Sailors were denouncing the American Legion and spreading reports that the legion had been responsible for the shooting at Centralia, Wash., yesterday caused Mayor Baker to order a raid on the headquarters of the council at 123 1/2 Second street last night, with the result that 53 men attending a lecture in the hall were arrested on charges of vagrancy.

Among the prisoners were Floyd Hyde, Clark and Joseph Latandy, all prominent radical labor leaders. One woman in the audience was permitted to leave the hall and go home. Mayor Baker announced after the raid that he favored establishment of a municipal rockpile on which the prisoners could be put to work if they were convicted.

Policemen Held in Reserve.

As soon as reports of the Centralia trouble arrived in Portland late yesterday, Chief of Police Jenkins summoned all available policemen to headquarters to be held in reserve. Spies sent to the meeting of the council reported that the speeches were of an incendiary character, and the chief immediately dispatched a strong squad to the "wobbly" hall under command of Captain Lewis, Lieutenant Thatcher and Sergeant Ervin.

In plain clothes, the police straggled up the stairway to the door of the hall, and gathered outside. They opened the door and entered without attracting much attention. As soon as the patrolmen were scattered through the audience in such formation as would enable them to squelch quickly an incipient outbreak, Captain Lewis walked to the speaker's platform and told the speaker that the chief of police wanted to see everyone present.

Captives Taken Without Fight.

The speaker announced the message to the audience, and the plain clothes men gathered themselves for a struggle. But there was no disorder. The prisoners were herded from the room under guard. A few policemen remained to search the premises for propaganda. The police seized large quantities of I. W. W. literature, inflammatory pamphlets and posters. Everything was taken to headquarters and held as evidence.

The prisoners were held in the police assembly room until Mayor Baker, Chief Jenkins, Captain Inskip and William Bryon, special agent of the department of justice, had interviewed the leaders. Mr. Bryon expressed an opinion that, regardless of evidence, it was the duty of the police to hold radicals for their own safety until the excitement caused by the Centralia trouble had died down.

Three Are Wounded.

Tonight the list of wounded stood as follows:
Eugene Philtzer, Chehalis, not serious.
Earl Wallis, Chehalis, perhaps fatally wounded.
Emory John Coleman, shot in leg; wound not serious.
Early tonight, a mob, carrying ropes, surrounded the Centralia jail, where six Industrial Workers of the World, arrested after the shooting, were confined. The jail was guarded by former soldiers who had donned their uniforms today for the parade. Other former soldiers were doing picket duty tonight in all parts of the city.

The firing started when the parade, proceeding down Tower avenue, Centralia, reached the jail.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

RADICAL LYNCHED BY CENTRALIA MOB

Captive, Taken From Jail, Hanged on Bridge.

ARMED MAN HOTLY PURSUED

I. W. W., Driven to River Bed, Fires on ex-Service Men.

20 SUSPECTS THREATENED

Angry Rioters Tear Out Front of I. W. W. Hall—Thousands Join Search for Slayers.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 11.—Evidence that the fatal termination of today's parade had been planned for weeks was said to have been secured tonight by Prosecuting Attorney Herman Allen and the citizens' committee, which is co-operating with the authorities, through the alleged confession of James Lamb. Lamb, who was taken from the local jail to the county jail at Chehalis tonight, according to Mr. Allen, asserted the plans were laid to "get" four men prominent in anti-radical activities—Grimm, McElfresh, Captain Livingston and William Scales. Telegrams said to have been taken from Attorney Smith, Mr. Allen said, added strength to the state's theory.

SEATTLE, Nov. 11.—According to a report telephoned to the Associated Press here tonight from the Centralia Chronicle, the mob took one alleged I. W. W. from jail, escorted him to a point just outside the city limits, and hanged him on a bridge on what is known as the old Chehalis military road.

"The man's body is now hanging on a rope under the bridge, about ten feet from the water," the telephone message said.

(By the Associated Press.)

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 11.—Four former American soldiers—Warren Grimm, Centralia attorney; Ben Casagrand, real estate dealer; Arthur McElfresh, Centralia pharmacist, and Dale Hubbard, all overseas veterans, were killed here today, and three other service men were wounded, one perhaps fatally, when Industrial Workers of the World, it was believed, fired on an Armistice day parade of former soldiers, sailors and marines.

Three Are Wounded.

Tonight the list of wounded stood as follows:
Eugene Philtzer, Chehalis, not serious.
Earl Wallis, Chehalis, perhaps fatally wounded.
Emory John Coleman, shot in leg; wound not serious.
Early tonight, a mob, carrying ropes, surrounded the Centralia jail, where six Industrial Workers of the World, arrested after the shooting, were confined. The jail was guarded by former soldiers who had donned their uniforms today for the parade. Other former soldiers were doing picket duty tonight in all parts of the city.

The firing started when the parade, proceeding down Tower avenue, Centralia, reached the jail.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.

Portland is Jubilant. In the celebration of the first anniversary of the armistice—not with the spontaneous joy, perhaps, that marked the original day when the news flashed into anxious homes and filled the streets with riotous celebrants, but with an enthusiasm that was genuine, and that testifies to the public memory and gratitude.