

GRID COACHES OUT FOR 1920 SHAKEUP

Three New Mentors Probable on Western Elevens.

HARGISS SLATED TO QUIT

Bleamaster Expected to Leave Idaho Squad—California Also Listed Ready for Change.

BY HARRY M. GRAYSON.

When practice revivifies for the 1920 football season is sounded it is likely that there will be three new western football coaches—two in the Pacific coast intercollegiate conference and the other in the northwest circuit. It is practically certain that William H. "Bill" Hargiss will not be at the helm of the Oregon Aggies next season. The University of California, it is known, is very much dissatisfied with Andy Smith, while it was cleaned some time back that the Idaho players had refused to play further under Coach Bleamaster.

The Corvallis army has had a disastrous two years under Bill Hargiss, who left his position as physical director and coach at Kansas state normal college to take charge of the Beavers. Not a conference game has been won by the present Aggie mentor and the hot-dope is that he will tender his resignation as football coach soon, but may remain permanently at the Benton county institution as athletic director. Bleasid with a wealth of material, Coach Hargiss simply has not had any luck in winning football games.

The University of California may get Tad Jones, who was famous as an assistant coach at Yale. It is said that prominent alumni have decided that Jones is the man for the job and are starting a drive to obtain the services of the former Yale star. This will not be the first time Jones has been offered the position. In 1915, when California returned to the American game, Jones was the signal caller who offered the position, but because of his loyalty to his alma mater, when he heard the call coming to help out the Blue coaching staff, he turned down the proposition. If Andy Smith beats Washington in the intercollegiate day there may be a switch of benches. It would seem that much of Andy's future hinges on this big game.

When Idaho played Washington State colleges at Pullman a fortnight ago the Moscow players gave out the information that they had refused to work further with Coach Bleamaster. It was at that time understood that Assistant Coach Hutchinson, a former Princeton player, had taken charge of the team and would henceforth direct the destinies of the Idahoans.

It is declared that Coach Bleamaster of Idaho will resign at the end of the present season, and will be the best team in five years, has taken some terrific mailings—Oregon and Washington State administering two of them. Bleamaster has a very busy schedule to contend with and did not pick any of his opponents. That much must be said in his favor.

Tickets for the Oregon Aggie-Washington State game were placed on sale at 10 A. M. yesterday at A. G. Spaulding & Bros. store, Broadway and Adams street. The Cougars must win to stay in the race for the Pacific coast championship while the Beavers are determined to win their first conference game in two years. Saturday will mark the Corvallis crowd's last chance this season to break his jinx.

Officials for Saturday's game were named yesterday. George Varzell (Chicago) will referee with Plowden Stott (Stanford) umpire. George Anderson (Columbia) is to be the head linesman. Varzell and Stott often work together. This pair efficiently handled last Saturday's Oregon-O. A. C. classic at Eugene.

Oregon Agricultural college has but one more game scheduled after Saturday. The "Aggs" travel to Spokane on Thanksgiving day to combat Gonzaga college.

It may be that the bands of both Washington State and Oregon Agricultural college will be brought to this city for the big game. Clarence A. Zimmerman, who is in the city looking after Washington State's end of things yesterday received a telegram from J. Fred Bohler, athletic director at Pullman, saying that the students were endeavoring to arrange the trip for the musical fellows. James J. Richardson, general manager of the student activities at Corvallis, is doing his level best to have the orange and black "jazzers" on the job.

Clarence Zimmerman, famous as a Cougar end for four years, is now a prosperous farmer near Pullman. He returned to school this year to take up some additional work and was prevailed upon to coach the frosh.

Zimmerman says that Moe Sax, the former Jefferson High school star and running partner of the Wolfers, is doing great guns for the Cougar freshmen this season and that Head Coach Gus Welch sees much promise in him for 1920. Sax intended to enroll at Oregon this fall, but for some unknown reason drifted to Fogland.

Although those who are now practicing that Sunday headline will read "O. A. C. beats Washington State College" are being more or less laughed at there are quite a number who are venturing this opinion. They contend that the Aggies are long overdue and can't be kept down forever.

Quarterback Bill Steers, University of Oregon, seems to be a bear in swinging end runs. He featured them against the Aggies on Saturday and played havoc with both Washington and Washington State on the same play. Bill is a remarkable sprinter for one who weighs 150 pounds. Scidmore opposing players touch him. It is a race for the sidelines and many times has he got away by detaching his tackles laterally and then darting ahead.

George "Dan" Powell, Bill Hargiss' superman, ex-Franklin High school boy, is the strength and drive of the Aggie backfield. When one, two or three yards are needed for first down the stands cry for George and usually get him. Moreover they usually get three, two or three yards and maybe more.

The rival teams are expected Friday and according to the present plan they both put up at the Multnomah hotel.

On the defensive Fullback Powell of the Aggies plunks into every scrimmage. Corvallis fans who are downhearted at the Beaver record to date can take consolation in the fact that Powell and several other stars of the brightest kind will be on hand next fall to form the nucleus of a greater O. A. C. eleven.

Just how many Aggie students will accompany the team to Portland is not known at this time. In view of the fact however that no western school supports its team any better than does the Corvallis institution, it is to be taken for granted that there will be a good turnout. Owing to the long jump from Pullman, it is likely that only a few crimson and gray rosters will be on hand.

Albany Ducks More Prolific.

ALBANY, Or., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—Ducks are becoming more plentiful in this section of the state, and weekend hunters from this city brought in some good ones. The ducks have become more rare lately since the recent rains.

POLICE AID RED CROSS

OFFICERS COMPETE IN DISPOSING OF MEMBERSHIPS.

Sales to Be Conducted at Pacific International Livestock Exposition to Swell Fund.

CALL THE ROLL: Has your neighborhood been visited by a Red Cross solicitor? If not telephone Main 7157 for supplies or a solicitor.

If you have not been visited, bring or send your money at once to Liberty temple or 507 Casco building.

More than 300 Portland policemen are bitter rivals in the Red Cross membership drive, each competition having been aroused in the sale of Red Cross buttons.

Should the response of the police department come up to expectations, the Red Cross will realize between $10,000 and $20,000 from their efforts before the close of the drive Saturday night, announced Ferdinand E. Reed, "inspector-general" of the campaign, last night.

The total amount of subscriptions are working out a scheme whereby its supporters can do a splendid turn for the Red Cross, executive secretary at a number of animals—one from each breed, if present plans materialize—the entire proceeds to go to the Red Cross.

The Portland Union Stockyards has promised a fine steer for the sale, the highest bid Portland at auction received yesterday by the Red Cross reached $1764, announced Mrs. Florence R. Mosby, executive secretary at Liberty temple, last night. This brings the total for the campaign to $43,000. Seattle's record was slightly higher than Portland's at last reports and workers locally are spurred to greater efforts by that fact.

Reports from Columbia county received at headquarters yesterday were: Deer Island, $170; Kerry, $330; Clatskanie, $327, and Goble, $107.

GUN STORIES CONFLICT

Hotelman and Patron Each Get Warrants After Fight.

Did Hurley Hogue knock E. Durkee down and then steal the revolver which fell from the pocket of the beaten man, or did E. Durkee threaten Hurley Hogue with the revolver and lose possession of the weapon in a fair fight?

This is a question to be decided in the police and district courts today, as the result of two warrants issued yesterday.

At the same time that Hogue turned in a revolver at police headquarters from which the cartridges had been extracted, and swore to a complaint charging Durkee with assault with a dangerous weapon, Durkee was importing Deputy District Attorney Dempsey for a warrant charging Hogue with larceny of a pistol. Both warrants were issued.

Durkee, who is proprietor of a hotel in Sellwood, asserted that during a dispute over a board bill Hogue floored him and stole the revolver which dropped from his hip pocket. Hogue declares that Durkee threatened to shoot him and that he took the revolver away from the hotelman in self-protection.

Festival Election Postponed.

Delay in preparation of tickets for the election of officers of the Rose festival association has necessitated postponement of the election. The meeting at which the election was scheduled to take place, instead of Friday night, the election will be held November 28, in the commercial rooms in the Oregon building.

WAR BRINGS CELLO PLAYER TO UNITED STATES.

Mrs. F. is a soloist and is charmed with her wizardry of the cello. Mile. Camille Rejane was one of the popular figures of the artistic center of the continent until the war swept Europe.

As the grim curtain fell, Mile. Rejane came to the United States, where she was accepted as one of the foremost concert artists. This season she turned to vaudeville and has scored a tremendous success. Her appearance this week as one of the stars at Pantages is a signal feature in the season's musical events.

At the conclusion of the present tour Mile. Rejane returns to the concert stage.

AUTO DRIVER ROVING OVER TO GRAND JURY

Joe Mielke Held for Death of Viola Cummings.

USE OF LIQUOR ADMITTED

Witnesses Tell of Accident at Thirty-Second and Division Streets—Speeders Fined.

Joe Mielke, driver of the automobile which killed 7-year-old Viola Cummings at Thirty-second and Division streets Monday, was bound over to the grand jury following an inquest conducted last night by Corner Smith. Mielke must also appear in the municipal court this morning to answer a charge of reckless driving.

Mielke has often been arrested on charges of bootlegging and being intoxicated, but he last night denied that liquor had anything to do with the latest accident.

Motorcycle Patrolman O'Halloran last night testified that the driver was not drunk at the time of his arrest but declared he could smell liquor on Mielke's breath. Closely questioned by Deputy District Attorney Dempsey, the prisoner admitted that he had quit drinking only a few days ago.

Mielke Admits Drinking.

"You had something Monday morning," you demanded Dempsey. "Oh, only a little beer and a glass of beer or two before noon," was the reply. "I had a few drinks the day before."

Witnesses called were Arthur A. Peters, B. Taylor, Mrs. Herman Thies and E. J. Knight. Knight, who had been Viola's companion in crossing the street when the fatal accident occurred. The little girl said Viola had one foot on the curb when the car knocked her down, ran on to the corner, skidded and stopped.

Mielke apparently did not slow down to dodge the child. She threw up her hands and the machine struck her in the back when she was but a few feet from the curb. The child received a fracture of the base of the skull.

Fast Driving Is Decried.

Mielke admitted that he saw the girls when about 100 feet from them, and said it looked as though they were playing tag. He planned to pass about six feet to one side of them, but declared that as he approached one of the girls she stepped in front of the machine. He was driving 15 miles an hour, he said, and maintained that he sounded his horn. A collision at East Gilliam street and Grand avenue with a car belonging to Chester A. Adven resulted in the driver being fined $100 on a charge of reckless driving, in municipal court yesterday. Adven announced that his car was placed at $500.

H. R. Coulter, caught driving on East Baranide street at an alleged speed of 37 miles an hour, was fined $50 and sentenced to serve four days in jail by Judge Roman.

Two Others Are Fined.

Dan Nedo was asked to pay a fine of $50 for operating a car with defective brakes. M. W. Sawyer drew a fine of $35 for speeding on Union avenue.

Clifford Dunsmore, who was arrested on a charge of reckless driving after he drove his automobile into a telephone pole the night of the Armistice day celebration, purchased liquor previous to the accident from Alb Zanabelli, according to testimony introduced in municipal court yesterday. Dunsmore appeared in court and ordered him to serve 20 days in jail.

Zanabelli announced that he would appeal the case and bond for appeal was placed at $500.

Woman Struck by Car.

Mrs. W. W. Perry, 322 East Stark street, received a leg fracture and bruises yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Fred Mason, 2 Grand avenue, in the intersection of Grand avenue and Washington street.

The injured woman was taken to the police emergency hospital and later to St. Vincent's hospital. Levi Tyler of Sherwood, Or., received bruises as the result of being struck by a motorcycle ridden by J. Collins, 320 Benton street. Mr. Collins was thrown from his motorcycle and was also bruised.

PAINTED STATUE CLEANED

WASHINGTON HIGH DISCLAIMS JEFFERSON DESECRATION.

Expressions of Good Will Made on Both Sides on Eve of Championship Football Game.

Scrubbing brush and scouring materials, wielded by five prominent Washington high students yesterday morning removed a coat of paint from the bronze statue of Thomas Jefferson in front of Jefferson high school, but failed to clear up the mystery surrounding the identity of the artist who had decorated the figure in the eve of the school's big football game.

Profound apologies on the part of the Washingtonians who, it was at first feared, were responsible for the desecration of the memorial, led to expressions of good feeling on the part of the students and principals of both buildings and a search for the culprit or culprits is now in progress.

When Principal Hopkins Jenkins reached the school yesterday morning almost the first thing that attracted his attention was a crimson coloring about the figure, on its face, neck and chest, and all about the granite base of the statue. Here were boldly lettered the words, "We hate the A. S. We did it, George Washington."

Mr. Jenkins immediately phoned to H. H. Herdman, principal at Washington, who took the matter up with the associated students. The Washingtonians dispatched five boys of their number, who cleaned the statue thoroughly, and also sent to Jefferson a resolution adopted by the entire school. The message follows: "To Professor Hopkins Jenkins and the students of Jefferson high school: On behalf of the students of Washington high school we desire to express to you our regret over the painting of the statue of Thomas Jefferson on your campus. We most heartily disapprove such action, by whomsoever done; we condemn the spirit that prompted it; we disclaim all responsibility for it and all knowledge of it until notified that it had been done; and we assure you that we shall use every effort to detect the one or ones who did it, whether in or out of school. We assure you also that we retain the spirit and feeling of Washington students in the matter."

"WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL ASSOCIATED STUDENTS."

"DOUGLAS PARKER, President."

Mr. Herdman is emphatic in his opinion that no one in Washington high school was responsible for the painting of the statue at Washington. He resents this degradation as much as those at Jefferson.

Mr. Jenkins voiced cordial sentiments on behalf of Jefferson high and declined to accuse anyone. He said, "I have told the students that if Jefferson ever retaliates for this act I will see that the school retires from the interscholastic league. The affair was evidently prompted by tomorrow's championship game and was intended to bring about bad feeling between the two schools."

GEORGE WHITE HONOURED

RETURN TO ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE HINTED.

Lieutenant-Colonel, Recently Staff Officer of A. E. F., Is Guest of Old Associates.

A welcome home from a score of his old associates was given Lieutenant-Colonel George White, adjutant-general of Oregon and late staff officer of general headquarters, A. E. F., at a luncheon tendered recently returned officer at the Chamber of Commerce at noon yesterday. The luncheon was planned and given by William Reid, speaker of the 24 Oregon, who has long been an active worker for Oregon's military establishment.

A strong sentiment for the return of Colonel White to the position as adjutant-general of Oregon was evident among the assembly. Although his return to Portland was good news to his friends here, the veterans in attendance could not refrain from recalling the times when they were associated with the returning officer in the state organization.

First mention that Colonel White's old associates would welcome the return of the American legion organizer to the city was made by Lieutenant Colonel H. C. Cabell, who delivered the speech of welcome delivered by Mr. Reid, when he pointed out to those present the need of a capable executive in the adjutant-general's office and enumerated the qualifications of the guest of honor. The sentiments were applauded by the echo.

Colonel H. C. Cabell, twice retired from regular service, was the speaker at the welcoming luncheon, which was attended by Colonel C. E. Dentler, Colonel Phisterer, Colonel Fred Hammond, Colonel W. C. North, O. N. G. Lieutenant-Colonel B. C. Yenny, Lieutenant-Colonel Sion, Lieutenant-Colonel J. J. Crossley, Lieutenant-Colonel M. B. Marcellus, Lieutenant-Colonel W. E. Finer, Major Dow, Major E. E. Wilson, Major W. S. Skene, Major W. R. Logus, R. G. Culvert, Major Drake, O. N. G.; Major J. C. Brown, Captain Alexander, Lieutenant Harry M. Grayson, Lieutenant P. G. Brown, H. W. Green and Lieutenant R. G. Reddick.

M'GETTIGAN GETS TOKEN

Presentation by Rotarians Made at Weekly Luncheon.

Attendance at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club has been running near the perfect mark for several weeks. Not the least of the reasons is the exceptional program provided by Frank McGettigan, manager of the Orpheum theater. Yesterday the appointment of the club was expressed in the presentation to Mr. McGettigan of a beautifully engraved memento following the introduction of two of the headliners in the events of the hour. Sam Green, violinist and Claudia Coleman, who is extending the public this week with a telephone act of exceptional merit, pleased the Rotarians at luncheon.

Lieutenant-Colonel Marcussen, of the Salvation army, was the speaker of the day at the Benson hotel luncheon yesterday. His topic was "Social and Industrial Problems." Colonel Wallace D. Wells, recently returned from service in the engineering corps overseas, spoke briefly in response to the cordial welcome of former associates. Before going into service Colonel Wells was connected with the San Francisco & Portland Steamship company.

Hibernians to Honor Martyrs.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians will observe the anniversary of the Manchester martyrs, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien with an appropriate program in Hibernian hall next Sunday night. The address of the evening will be delivered by Judge Peter H. D'Arcy of Salem, and Thomas G. Ryan will be chairman. The musical numbers will be provided by Miss Frances Schiedersdorf, violinist; Miss Bertha Gardner, dramatic soprano; Miss Velma MacMasters, mezzo contralto; Arthur King, bass; Dave Puller, novelty whistler; accompanist, Miss Elizabeth Weber and Miss Iryen Gardner.

John D. Walsh, dramatic reader, will recite "Krin's Flag."

Ad Club to Hear Speakers.

A programme of entertaining diversities promised members and others who will attend a luncheon of the Portland Ad club today in the crystal room of the Benson hotel. Professor R. H. Dearborn, dean of the electrical engineering department of the Oregon Agricultural college, will talk on hydro-electric developments. E. C. Ball, president of the Willamette Iron & Steel works and president of the National Safety council, Oregon-Columbia division, will tell of the work of the safety organization.

Cantors Plead Not Guilty.

YANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—Max Cantor and Bernard Cantor, brothers charged with attacking Mrs. Hase Cantor, wife of Bernard, with their hands and fists, today pleaded guilty and their trial was set for November 25 in the police court. Max was released upon his own recognizance and Bernard was released upon $50 bail.

Railroader Fined for Theft.
