

BAR URGES RETURN OF DEATH PENALTY

Johnson and Centralia Murders Cause Indignation.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Wallace McCamant Chosen President of Association—Convention Closes With Banquet.

With unanimous vote, the Oregon Bar association went on record Tuesday as favoring the restoration of the death penalty in the state of Oregon.

The Clarence Johnson case, where a man committed a cold-blooded murder, his second wife in Oregon, after a deliberation and with full knowledge that capture held nothing but a life imprisonment, which he did not fear, and the Centralia massacre were powerful arguments for the return of the gallows.

After the adoption of the resolution presented by Frank Schlegel, it was decided to appoint a committee to co-operate in every way possible with the American Legion in obtaining the repeal of the capital punishment law. Portland post of the legion took a determined stand on the issue Monday night and directed its legislative committee to draw up an act to be placed on the ballot at the next general election.

Wallace McCamant, elected president of the state association at the close of the session, other officers named being Albert E. Ridgway, secretary; A. M. Dibble, treasurer; and the following members of the executive committee: E. V. Littlefield, Robert S. McGuire, Hugh Montgomery, L. E. Crouch, H. S. McCutcheon and L. B. Atkinson.

The convention closed with a banquet at the Benson hotel last night. Some reply by members of the legislative committee, passed the act legislating strikes and picketing invited by the vigorous attack made on the law by Oscar Hyster of Dallas, state president of the association, in his address Tuesday morning. S. E. Huston, state senator, rose to the occasion Tuesday.

Senator Huston's reply was not in the nature of a defense, but an explanation. He explained that the act was passed as a concession to labor which represented that such was necessary to prevent radicals gaining absolute control of conservatives in labor councils. It would never have been made a law except for the federal precedent set by the Clayton amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law, "legislating strikes and picketing were peaceable," said Senator Huston.

J. N. Teal moved for the appointment of a committee to investigate probate procedure with a view to eliminating various inconsistencies in the present methods. The motion was adopted.

Resolutions of indorsement of the Civilian Reserve act, and the members of the bar association pledged themselves to assist the law-enforcing officers in prompt and efficient carrying out of their duties.

C. E. Ingalls, editor of the Corvallis Gazette-Times, and president of the State Editorial association, delivered an address in the afternoon which drew a great deal of comment and praise for the expression of a vote of thanks from the assembly, not a customary procedure.

His theme treated of the quality of the bench and bar as a mooring which should bring back to normal people now excited by the news of the federal constitution and it is up to you to see that none but sound Americans are on guard in the cabinet, officers in every crisis in the world's history some great lawyer has come to the front. When Athens was in danger with anarchy Solon saved the country with a wise constitution making Athens a powerful republic. Closer almost alone made Cataline and the reds of his day take to the hills; Cambon saved France from the reign of terror.

Anglo-Saxon History Recalled. "In Anglo-Saxon history the names of famous lawyers who have served well their country stand forth on every page. Mansfield, Burke, Pitt, Keble are but a few of the planetary lights in a constellation of British lawyers without whose names there is no English history, and of our own great revolution, Adams, Marshall, Jefferson, Hamilton, Jay and Madison are the cabinet officers of Franklin and Washington as saviors of the fruits of victory.

"Jay, our first chief justice, negotiated our first and most famous treaty with England, the first treaty in the world that recognized the principle of arbitration, and because of the popular mind of his day burned him in effigy. History has proved his righteousness, for under this treaty several threatened wars with Britain have been averted.

In the darkest hour of our nation's history a lawyer was called to the helm of state to pilot the ship through the whirling vortex of civil strife, and so long as men love to reverence honesty, sincerity and devotion to duty regardless of costs of popular passion, the name of Abraham Lincoln will be revered throughout the world.

Most Presidents Lawyers. "All but five of the presidents of the United States have been lawyers, 80 per cent of the cabinet officers of our country have had legal training and a large majority of both houses of congress have always been lawyers who were members of the bar.

"We must recognize that the law is the backbone of our civilization."

DRIVER BOUND OVER

JOE MIELKE HELD FOR DEATH OF VIOLA CUMMINGS.

Witnesses Tell of Accident at Thirty-Second and Division Streets—Speeders Fined.

Joe Mielke, driver of the automobile which killed 7-year-old Viola Cummings at Thirty-second and Division streets Monday, was bound over to the grand jury following an inquest conducted Tuesday by Coroner Smith. Mielke must also appear in the municipal court to answer a charge of reckless driving.

Mielke has often been arrested on charges of bootlegging and being in liquor. He was last night denied that liquor had anything to do with the latest accident.

Motorcycle Patrolman O'Halloran testified that the driver was not drunk at the time of his arrest. He declared he could not smell liquor of Mielke's breath. Closely questioned by Deputy District Attorney Dempsey, the prisoner admitted that he had quit drinking only a few days ago.

"You had something Monday morning didn't you?" demanded Coroner Smith. "Oh, only a little cider and a glass of beer or two before noon," was the reply. "I had a few drinks the day before."

Witnesses called were Arthur A. Peters, R. Taylor, Mrs. Herman Thies and Mrs. Elizabeth Clark. Mrs. Thies had been Viola's companion in crossing the street when the fatal accident occurred. The little girl said she had one foot on the curb when the car knocked her down, ran on to the corner, skidded and stopped.

Taylor, who was driving a machine on the same street, testified that Mike apparently did not slow down when he saw the child on the street, he said, was dry and there were no obstacles in the way. He did not remember hearing the driver sound a warning and stopped his own car because he was quite positive the child would be run down.

Mrs. Thies said that from the distance at which she witnessed the mishap it appeared as if Viola were trying to sidestep the car. She threw up her hands and the machine struck her in the back when she was but a few feet from the curb. She received a fracture at the base of the skull.

Mielke admitted that he saw the girl who about 100 feet from them, and said it looked as though they were playing tag. He planned to pass her on the curb. The child, however, declared that as he approached one apparently tagged the other and she ran on the curb. The child received driving 15 miles an hour, he said, and maintained that he sounded his horn.

A collision at East Clinton and Grand avenues with a car belonging to Chester A. Adwen resulted in Ike Farrell being fined $100 on a charge of reckless driving to the municipal court Tuesday. Adwen announced that he would appeal the case and his bail was $100.

H. R. Coulter, caught driving on East Burnside street at an alleged speed of 37 miles an hour, was fined $50 and sentenced to serve four days in jail by Judge Rossmann.

Dan Nedo was asked to pay a fine of $25 for operating a car with defective brakes. M. W. Sawyer drew a fine of $35 for speeding on Union avenue.

Clifford Dunsmore, who was arrested on a charge of reckless driving after he drove against a telephone pole the night of the Armistice day celebration, purchased liquor previous to the accident from Mike Zanabelli, according to testimony introduced in municipal court Tuesday, when Zanabelli appeared to answer a charge of reckless driving in violation of the prohibition law.

the Cougars, but defeated the Oregon Aggies, have reached the halfway mark on the percentage table.

It is generally believed here that California should win from Stanford Saturday at Berkeley, but that the Bears will lose to the superior offense of the University of Washington. The only hope of any conference team tying Washington State would be California, with victories over Stanford and Washington. Hence, the importance of the Oregon Aggie-Cougar game on Multnomah field Saturday for an Aggie victory means that the best will be a tie for first-place honors for their opponents on that day.

"SWAT THE COLD"

--A HEALTH SLOGAN

Health Authorities Are Back of Campaign Which Covers Entire Continent.

The familiar "Swat the Fly" slogan is now being revised by health authorities and the public is being advised to "Swat the Cold" in winter as heartily as they "swatted" the fly in summer.

Behind the movement is the desire to check the possible spread of flu by the prompt treatment of influenza in its early stages. The symptoms of a cold in the head or the flu in its early stages are the same as those of a bad cold and last year the flu reached an advanced stage in many cases before the patient realized that the trouble was more serious than a cold.

"If every person would get busy with home remedies to break it up, we wouldn't hear as much about the flu," says one eastern official. "It would do wonders and that quickly!"

Colds in the head or the flu in its early stages are promptly and effectively treated at home by the use of Grip Fix. This is not a patent medicine, but a combination of drugs which would be used by any physician. It comes in capsule form and relieves a cold in the night and acts promptly in case of grippe.

At this time of the year every home should have a box of Grip Fix. It is on sale at all drug stores, where it sells for 25 cents per box.—Adv.
