

GRAND JURY INDICTS PORTLAND RADICALS

22 Men Held on Charges of Criminal Syndicalism.

RED CARD IS EVIDENCE

Former Candidate for President of Central Labor Council Is Among Those Held for Trial.

Twenty-two of the 57 men arrested by the police on Armistice night at a meeting in the hall of the Council of Workmen, Soldiers and Sailors at 124 1/2 Second street were indicted yesterday by the grand jury on charges of criminal syndicalism. Pending trial bail was fixed at $1000 and $1500 each.

The men indicted, a number of whom recently achieved prominence in local "red" circles, are those who actually held cards showing membership in the J. W. W. Joe Laundry, candidate at the time for the presidency of the Central Labor Council, and Terry McGovern, said to be an organizer, were among those indicted.

Burglar Is Indicted.

The list includes Jack Taylor, Richard Heilig, Walter Doughty, Harry Salececki, John Knowles, Elmer Randolph, John Howell, William R. Rockwood, Tom Burke, J. E. Williams, Arthur Guinnet, James O'Brien, Tom Waldron, L. A. Sorrell, James O'Connor, W. F. Lyon and W. Coffey. The remainder were secret indictments.

This is the second chapter in "wobly" history since the arrests November 12. Wednesday in municipal court nine out of ten men tried for vagrancy received sentences of varying lengths and fines ranging from $100 to $500 were imposed. McGovern, O'Brien, Rockwood and Randolph were among those held before the lower court. These men were taken in a raid on the hall at a time when it was said statements against the United States government were being made by speakers.

Another indictment returned by the grand jury was that of Ralph Stephan, accused of having robbed St. David's church on October 30, at which time he obtained a quantity of war savings stamps. He already had confessed to ten other burglaries.

Thirty-two indictments in all were the harvest of the grand jury.

Officers to Co-operate.

The 22 men to be tried for criminal syndicalism are the first to be brought into court in this state under the act making this form of radicalism unlawful. The three yet to be arrested will be taken in custody early today and held for $1000 bonds, as they are considered more dangerous than some of those already being held. In the prosecution, the district attorney's office will be assisted by E. P. Bonham, immigration inspector; William Bryon, special agent for the department of justice, and Barnett Goldstein, acting United States district attorney.

HUMPHREYS IS CONFIRMED

Newly Appointed District-Attorney Informed in Telegram.

Lester W. Humphreys has been appointed United States attorney for Oregon. One of the last things the senate did before adjourning Wednesday night was to confirm his appointment.

Senator Chamberlain sent a telegram of congratulation to Mr. Humphreys yesterday.

"I had hoped that it would not be necessary to make any appointments," said Mr. Humphreys, "but the resignation of Elton Watkins makes this imperative. It was my desire to retain the staff of my predecessor, Bert E. Haney. Since Mr. Watkins has an offer which he feels he cannot well decline and has tendered his resignation, I have offered the position of assistant United States attorney to Hall S. Lusk, but I have not received his acceptance yet."

Mr. Lusk is in the office of Dolph, Simon, Mallory & Georin. Mr. Humphreys, the new appointee, is an experienced newspaper man, who served in France in the world war and served also in the Philippines during the insurrection. He is a member of the law firm of Chamberlain, Thomas, Kremer & Humphreys.

The United States will thus be represented diplomatically for the first time at Budapest, a consul-general having been stationed at the Hungarian capital before the war, while the embassy was located at Vienna.

Mr. Smith, who has been a member of the American diplomatic service for 16 years, was secretary of the embassy at Vienna from 1912 to 1917.

STREET LIGHTS WANTED

Council Asked to Make Additions in East Side District.

Additional street lights for the central east side are requested in a communication to the city council by L. M. Lepper, secretary of the East Side Business Men's club. Mr. Lepper requests that ten lights be installed not only in the central east side, but throughout the east side district.

The communication will be referred to City Commissioner Mann, in charge of street lighting, for action. In preparing the budget the council gave Mr. Mann approximately $18,000 more than had been appropriated last year for additional street lights, but it is certain that this amount will not provide the lights necessary in various districts of the city.

Tallow Dips Once Lighted Our Best Homes

Electricity was then only known by the flash of lightning; gas was unharnessed and candles a luxury for the rich.

But what would you think of a woman who would use a tallow dip to light her home in these times?

In those days women baked their own bread because there were no scientific bakers to bake for them better bread than their own.

The woman who bakes today is still in the tallow-dip age

Those baking hours can better be spent with the children, in reading, in outdoor work that adds efficiency to other duties. Baking saves neither a minute nor a penny.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—When you want to know how many teachers are employed in the Oregon schools, monthly compensation of each, or any other information pertaining to the conduct of the educational institutions of this state, you would do well to write or confer personally with Miss Marie Schwab, whose long experience in the capacity of secretary to the state board of education in the offices of J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction, has given her a clear and thorough knowledge of the affairs of this department of the state government.

Marie Schwab.

Miss Schwab was born in Canton, Ill., and came to Oregon with her parents in the year 1904. She received her education in the public schools of Oregon and Colorado, later attending a business college, where she received training as a stenographer.

Early in the year 1911 Miss Schwab accepted a position as stenographer in the Ladd & Bush bank here, and continued to serve in that capacity until the fall of 1913, when she entered the offices of the state superintendent of schools. For a short time she also was employed as stenographer by the Capitol City Nursery company.
