Jefferson High finished the 1919 football season yesterday with eight wins and no defeats, when the blue and gold squad defeated the Hill Military eleven by the score of 20 to 3. Disputes and wrangling featured the contest. The breaks of the game, which have gone against the cadets all season, turned against them again yesterday.

A pretty kick from placement from the 30-yard line by Churchill after a few minutes of play in the first period gave Hill its three points. The score came after a 20-yard pass from Day to Berger had put the ball in a position for the kick.

Jefferson came back after the kick-off, and a 20-yard pass from Youmans to Gram, together with a ten-yard run by Youmans, put the ball on Hill's 15-yard line. Line smashes by Weston and Julian advanced the ball to the five-yard line. In four attempts the blue and gold backs failed to cross the goal line against the stone-wall defense put up by Hill, but on the fourth down the cadets were penalized for being offside and Jefferson had four more chances to put the ball across. After two tries Julian jammed through center for the touchdown.

Hill Fights Hard.

The Hill line fought hard to keep their goal line from being crossed, but the breaks were against them and they could not hold up under the terrific battering of Tousey and Julian, although it took six attempts by the Jefferson backs to put the ball across after they were within the five-yard line. Youmans made the count 7 to 0 when he kicked goal.

After putting up great defense on their own goal line the loss of their field general, Churchill, seemed to take the fight out of the cadets, and in the next period Jefferson put across two touchdowns in rapid succession.

The first came after Tousey got away for a 20-yard run and put the ball on Hill's 30-yard line. The touchdown came by the air route on a 25-yard pass from Youmans to Coulter, who dashed across the goal line before he was downed. Youmans missed the goal kick.

Jeff scored again near the end of the second quarter on three good gains through the line, with Julian carrying the ball over. Tousey kicked goal.

Cadets Are Crippled.

Hill came on the field at the start of the second period badly crippled by the loss of their quarterback, Churchill. Dick Ball and one of their lineamen, but despite the handicap they held Jefferson for the second half, neither team being able to do any further scoring. Coach Quigley of Jefferson was forced to use several second string men during the latter part of the game.

Louis Coulter of Jefferson and Harold Churchill of Hill were put out of the game by the officials, while Irve Dsy of Hill and Rollo Gray of Jefferson suffered the same fate.

Tousey, Ekstrom, Anderson and Julian were the Jefferson stars, while Weston also played a nice game and made several good gains for the blue and gold.

For Hill, Day, Churchill, Berger and H. Heyden were in the limelight, while T. Austin and Davis played a great game. The work of Austin in running back punts was especially noticeable.

Baseball on the Inside.

BY BILLY EVANS.

DID Cal McVey, outfielder for the old Cincinnati Red Stockings, ever make 47 home runs in one season? Did Eddie Cicotte ever pitch winning ball (over 500 per cent) for two seasons when he was with Boston? W. W.

My record books fail to throw any light on the individual efforts of the old Cincinnati Red Stockings. It is possible McVey did make 47 home runs one season, since the Reds in the 56 games won during 1869 and 1870 made 169 home runs.

Following is the record of Eddie Cicotte with Boston prior to joining Chicago: 1908, won 11, lost 12, percentage .478; 1909, won 13, lost 5, percentage .722, ranking him second among the pitchers; 1910, won 15, lost 11, percentage .577; 1911, won 11, lost 14, percentage .440. In 1912 with Boston and Chicago he won 10 and lost 10 for an even .500.

Some years ago, when Connie Mack's team was at its best, the club established a remarkable record in playing double headers. I claim the Athletics were not once beaten in both games of a double header that season. Please set me right. D. C. C.

No doubt you refer to 1911, when the Athletics took part in 18 double headers. Their remarkable success in winning a majority of these games just about won the pennant. You were just a bit wrong in your contention. On June 23, 1911, Boston beat the Athletics in both games of the double header. Of the other 17 sessions Mack's team won 10, split even in six others, while on the other they won the first game, the second ending in a tie.

Please give the correct ruling on the following play: There are two out and three men on bases. Batter hits line drive to shortstop, but shortstop drops ball. Second baseman picks up ball and touches second for a force-out of runner coming down from first base. Meantime runner on third scores. Does the run count? C. O. L.

The run does not count. No run can be scored on a play in which the third man be forced out. The runner coming from first in the play you cite was forced out at second for the third out.

I see where there is talk that Shortstop Scott of Boston is to be traded to Cleveland for Chapman. How would you regard such a trade? How about a swap of Bush of Detroit for Scott, as rumored? I regard these three infielders as among the best and would be interested to get your idea of their relative worth. H. A. L.

I have always been an admirer of Shortstop Scott. If I owned a ball club I know of no one I would rather have playing shortstop than Scott. I say that even in the light of the fact that Scott is a rather light hitter and not a great base runner. Scott is such a remarkable fielder, one can readily overlook any shortcomings he may have at the bat or on the bases. He is remarkable on the defense. Than shortstop there is no more important position on the defense. Despite the fact that he is not a hard hitter, he is dangerous in a pinch.

As to the talk of a trade between Chapman and Scott, I don't believe there is a word of truth in it. I don't believe it would get much consideration from Cleveland officials. Chapman is a great ball player, a fine hitter, excellent fielder and a great base runner. He fits in finely on the Cleveland club, so, no doubt, well enough will be left alone.

I wouldn't be surprised if a trade might be made between Detroit and Boston. Scott has stated he must play in the west or quit. Bush had trouble signing with Detroit a year ago, and possibly still has some grievances. Bush is a great shortstop, and perhaps both clubs would be benefited by such a swap, as often it puts new life in the players included in the deal.

STANFORD IS PENALIZED

Competition With University of California Severed as Result of Pre-Game Painting.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 24.—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university, has severed intercollegiate athletic relations with the University of California for one year, W. I. Ames, graduate manager of athletics here, said he had been advised today. Ames said he understood the break is effective at once.

The reason for the severance was given by Dr. Wilbur as a violation on the part of Stanford university of an agreement between the two universities that the campus of neither shall be invaded by the other as a result of athletic or other rivalry. Thursday night a number of Stanford men were said to have painted their college colors at certain points on the University of California campus as a prelude to the big football game between the two institutions Saturday. California university as the aggrieved principal either may accept such suspension of relations or may request that the matter be forgotten and the suspension waived, according to members of the faculty.

Barry After Scull Title.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Ernest Barry, the former sculling champion of the world, who lost his laurels three weeks ago to Alfred D. Felton of Australia, will try to regain the title next July. The race will take place on the Parramatta, in Australia. The challenge came as a surprise, as Barry, after losing the title, declared he would never again enter in a championship contest. Although he held the title from 1912 until he lost to Felton, Barry has never been to Australia.

Colgate Baskettossers Out.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—With her season ended, Colgate has began to forget the defeat by Syracuse and all aspirations to the eastern championship in football and opened the basketball season by holding practice. Quite a number of new men reported. Several men who have starred for the Maroon on the grounds this year will put on the basketball uniform.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 24.—Miami, Fla., has been selected as the spring training camp for next season of the world champion Cincinnati Nationals.

WINGED M KICKERS AFTER NOTRE DAME

Philbrook Makes Effort to Land Eastern Team.

ILLINI BATTLE DOUBTFUL

Conference Rule Prohibiting Post-Season Games Ends Hope of Illinois Contest.

With visions of a victory over the University of Oregon on Multnomah field Thursday afternoon, Coach George Philbrook of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club eleven announced yesterday that he had begun negotiations with the officials at Notre Dame university for a game with the famous middle western eleven either December 6 or 12.

Philbrook's announcement follows on the heels of that made by James J. Richardson, general manager of student activities at Oregon Agricultural college in The Oregonian Monday that he would attempt to get either Illinois, Syracuse or Notre Dame to play the Oregon Aggies here on Multnomah field December 6, providing any of the three top-notch gridiron machines would accept and the proper financial arrangements for bringing the consenting team to Portland could be made.

The chances of the University of Illinois playing the Oregon Aggies on Multnomah field December 6 were dimmed last night, however, when a telegram was received from James J. Richardson, manager of student activities at Oregon Agricultural college, who is in Spokane with the team, stating that the western conference rules prohibit the playing of post-season games. Thus ended the chances for the Portland fans to witness the Big Ten champions in action here. Richardson has yet to hear from Notre Dame and Syracuse university as to playing the Aggies here December 6.

P. Sinnock, Illinois alumnus, who played quarterback in 1906, 1907 and 1908, now in business here, sent a telegram yesterday to George Huff, athletic manager of the university of Illinois, urging the playing of the game. E. I. Kampion, Illinois, 1887, who is now with the Peninsula Iron works, also dispatched a telegram to his alma mater to Professor Arthur M. Talbot, asking him to do all in his power to arrange the game.

"Beat Oregon!" is the cry at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club. If ever a team was primed to put up a fight the Winged M squad is that for Thursday. Intensive practice and scrimmage were indulged in last night by a squad of 24 veteran players and they will also answer Coach Philbrook's whip tonight and tomorrow night under the lights on Multnomah field. All of the club players are reported in excellent shape except Harry Dorman, the former University of Washington halfback. Dorman hurt his shoulder last week and it is likely that he will be unable to start against Oregon.

Al Horton, Eddie Duffy, Gene Murphy and Grover "Pruny" Francis are slated to start in the backfield for Multnomah. Horton is the speediest plunger in the northwest when right, Francis will have to be reckoned with by Coach "Shy" Huntington's machine.

* * *

"Speed" Miller, former North Dakota star halfback now wearing the Winged M, may start instead of Duffy or Horton. Those who have seen Miller in action say that he is as fast as "Skeet" Manerude. "Pete" Peterson, ex-University of Utah back, who starred for Multnomah against Oregon last year, has been out of town, but is scheduled to get back in Portland tomorrow afternoon. He will not be in shape to start, however, but will be on the bench.

* * *

"Shy" Huntington and Bill Hayward must have established a censor line down at Eugene and just what preparations the Oregon team is making for Multnomah is a mystery. They are not figuring on any easy game, that 48 certain.

George A. Anderson left for Spokane yesterday, having been selected to act as head linesman in the Oregon Aggie-Gonzaga university game there Thanksgiving day.

It is intimated that a 1920 captain of the Washington State college team may not be elected after Thursday's game with the University of Montana in Missoula. It is said that Coach Gus Welch is not satisfied with the way some things have been going of late and wants to pick the captain himself when next season rolls around. Four players have been mentioned for the captaincy.

MITCHELL BEATS MEL COOGAN

Brooklyn Lightweight Accused of Foul Tactics During Bout.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 24.—Pinkey Mitchell, Milwaukee lightweight, technically scored a knockout over Mel Coogan, Brooklyn, in the first session of a ten-round, no-decision bought tonight. The referee, however, failed to halt proceedings. Two right crosses to the jaw sent Coogan to the mat, the first time for a count of two and the second time for nine seconds. In the second upset Coogan rose to his feet at the count of three, but immediately went down again without being hit.

Protests by Mitchell's handlers were ignored. Coogan, besides hitting the Milwaukee boy low several times, resorted to hanging-on tactics.

"Crum" Dailey Suspended.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 24.—Ervin "Crum" Dailey, captain and right halfback of the University of Washington football team, has been suspended for three days by Coach Hunt, it became known today. Dailey may not play in the Thanksgiving day game against the University of California here. A dispute over Dailey's right to coach the second varsity brought the suspension, it was said.

Yankees Stick to Florida.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—An invitation of the San Francisco Baseball club asking the New York Americans to share their training grounds at Fresno, Cal., was declined today. It was announced that the Yankees will again train at Jacksonville, Fla.

TURKEY GOLF IS GOOD

PORTLAND CLUB SEES SOME INTERESTING MATCHES.

Rudolph Wilhelm Makes Gross 72. Ten Flights of Players Play Nine Holes Each.

Some exceptionally good golf was played yesterday at the Portland Golf club in the Turkey day tournament. The players were placed in flights of ten each and played for nine holes. The first elimination round in the presidents' cup tournament was also run off.

Several good matches developed during the course of the play, one of the most interesting being the one between Rudolph Wilhelm, club champion, and George P. Washburn. Wilhelm made a gross 72, getting a 36 going out with the same score coming in. The unusual feature of Wilhelm's playing was that he made nine consecutive fours on the journey out.

The winners of the birds in the turkey tournament may secure the orders for the gobblers from the chairman of the handicap committee, Walter Nash, at Spalding Bros.

The names of the winners and their scores in the turkey tournament follow: First flight, George J. Jones, 35; second flight, George P. Washburn, 36; third flight, George Janes and F. W. Paris, tied with 36; fourth flight, W. Miller, 32; fifth flight, L. W. Humphries, 31; sixth flight, O. Becker, 37; seventh flight, Dr. John H. Tuttle 32; eighth flight, E. Shafner, T. P. Wishart and A. J. Mills, tied with 38; ninth flight, Rudolph Wilhelm, 34; tenth flight, A. Janang and M. Genteli, tied with 37; eleventh flight, A. P. Dobson, 34.

The result of the play for the presidents' cup follows: William Miller beat L. W. Humphreys, 1 up; J. Copland beat F. L. Larson, 2 up; J. H. Lambert beat C. W. Myers, 5 and 4; E. Lynn beat W. I. Cole, 6 and 5; Dr. W. I. Northup beat G. M. Schaefer, 1 up; C. C. Gross beat J. N. Angus, 4 and 3; G. F. Anderson won from F. Hyskell by default; Rudolph Wilhelm beat G. P. Washburn, 7 and 5.

A ball sweepstakes is scheduled for the Portland Golf club on Thanksgiving day, while the second eliminatioh round of the presidents' cup tournament will be run off Sunday.

Bruin Interrupts Photograph of Scenery in Far North, Is Photographed and Killed.

SEWARD, Alaska, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—A photograph that is apt to become famous was taken by Dr. T. Arbuthnot recently in the Dease lake region. The doctor, who is a Pittsburg, Pa., sportsman and an unusually nervy photographer, was arranging to snap a much-admired landscape when a grizzly bear walked upon the scene. The doctor suddenly remembered that he had a special fondness for grizzly bear pictures and at once changed his objective, thinking doubtless the landscape could wait.

According to his guide the doctor quietly arranged the picture machine on a tripod, threw the black covering over his head, and remarked that he would prefer to have the bear get him rather than miss getting a focus on the bear. Bruin was moving slowly but showing signs both of annoyance and curiosity when presently he paused for a moment and the photographic requirements were over in a minute. Dr. Arbuthnot then used his rifle and the grizzly was soon quiet enough for a photographic study in still life. At the time the photograph of the living bear was taken he was within less than 30 yards.

The remarkable coolness and courage displayed is emphasized by the fact that Dr. Arbuthnot is an experienced hand with grizzlies and must have known, when the bear did not run at first sight of him, that the chances of an attack were at least nine out of ten. So far as known no other photo of a grizzly in the wild state exists in the northland.

ALASKA GAME REAPPEARS

Ptarmigan, Grouse and Rabbits Once More Plentiful.

SEWARD, Alaska, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Ptarmigan, grouse and rabbits, which were plentiful in most parts of Alaska until four years ago, when they disappeared almost completely, are again making their appearance in enormous quantities. The phenomenon will have the effect of reviving the old controversy as to what becomes of these species of game during the intervals of their disappearance from their accustomed haunts.

The natives have an explanation to the effect that they are attacked by disease once in seven years, and become almost extinct, and that because of their marvelous fecundity they again become numerous in a few more years.

EUGENE TEAM HARD PRESSED

Outlook for Victory Over Marshfield Declared Poor.

EUGENE, Or., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The outlook for a victory for Eugene high school at the Thanksgiving football game at Marshfield is dubious, according to Coach Grannis and Manager Chess. The team is crippled as a result of injuries received during the past two or three games and the men of the team are pretty well worn out by their hard schedule of games this season.

The Salem game Saturday was hard on the team and as the Marshfield game comes so soon afterward a majority of the boys will be in poor shape to meet the Coos Bay champions.

The shoot will be held under the rules of the National association.

ALBANY QUINTS TURN OUT

Legion, High School and College Prepare for Season.

ALBANY, Or., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Basketball will be the center of athletic interest in Albany during the next few weeks. Candidates for the team which the local post of the American Legion will put in the field this season began practice tonight. The Albany high school squad will get under way as soon as the football season ends and probably will be practicing within a few days. Albany college will have a team this season also and will begin work before long.

Roy Eastburn has been chosen manager of the American Legion team and Hubert Fortmiller is basketball manager at the high school.

Island Welters Clash.

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Jimmy Flynn, former welterweight champion of the islands, lasted exactly 45 seconds in a scheduled ten-round bout with Doc Hess of the United States navy before the Quartermaster Corps club here the other evening. Hess landed three rights and a stinging left, Flynn taking the count in his own corner. In the previous month's show of the club Flynn lost his title to Andy Biddle of the 17th cavalry, being knocked out in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round go.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The Three-I league, which operated as a six-club organization last season, will be expanded to eight clubs for 1920, President Tearney announced tonight. Waterloo and Cedar Rapids, Ia., Springfield, Quincy and Danville, Ill., and Hannibal, Mo., are seeking a franchise.

Maine Moose Again Hunted.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 24.—Moose hunting was resumed in Maine today after a suspension of four years. The large numbers of these animals killed in former years when there was on open season annually caused fear of their extermination and the legislature ordered a four-year suspension of hunting.
