

WILSON SILENT ON CARRANZA'S REPLY

Next Step to Free Jenkins Not Indicated.

TEXT OF NOTE IS RECEIVED

Mexico Leaves Envoy's Case With Civil Authorities.

BAIL HELD OPPORTUNITY

Lengthy Argument Sent to U. S. Officials in Attempt to Justify Imprisonment of Agent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Mexico has replied with an argumentative diplomatic refusal to the American government's demand for the immediate release of William O. Jenkins, the consular agent imprisoned at Puebla.

The official note was delivered today but not made public. There is no reason to doubt that it agrees with the copy given out last night by the Mexican consul-general at El Paso.

No comment was forthcoming to indicate how the state department regards the answer to what was considered one of the sharpest warnings yet sent to Mexico, and neither was there any indication of what the government's next step would be.

The Mexican reply, which, according to its text, was prepared at the direction of President Carranza, argues in the main that the Mexican government cannot order the release of a prisoner while his case is under adjudication in the civil courts of one of its states, and contends that the American government's demand for the consul agent's release has no foundation or precedent in international law.

New Angles Revealed.

Some new angles of the Mexican viewpoint on the Jenkins case, hitherto unpublished in the United States, are revealed. The tendency of the Mexican argument is to separate the Jenkins case into two phases: First, the situation in which the consular agent was kidnapped by bandits and held for ransom, and last, his subsequent arrest and imprisonment by the civil authorities of Puebla on a charge of having "connived" with the bandits. The note at hand deals with the latter phase exclusively.

It points out that Jenkins was first held under what is known to the Mexican penal code as "preventative imprisonment." This provision covers a situation in which a person is suspected of complicity in a criminal act. He subsequently was held under a provision covering "formal" imprisonment, which under the Mexican penal code applies when a magistrate believes there is sufficient evidence to establish that a crime has been committed. The allegation against Jenkins is that he signed conflicting statements regarding his kidnapping and therefore was guilty of falsifying judicial declaration.

Jenkins Asked to Pay Bail.

The note says Jenkins has opportunity to be released on bail in the sum of 1000 pesos, the equivalent to $500 in American money, if reckoned in coin rather than silver. The note, and that Jenkins has refused to avail himself of it, although he has been requested to do so.

Recalling that Mexican consuls in the United States have been imprisoned and that Mexico has never asked the United States to waive local law in their cases, the note remarks that "the Mexican government cannot concede to American citizens more rights than Mexicans enjoy in the United States."

The Mexican note opens with the observation that the foundation for the American government's demand probably "can only be the power of the country that makes it," and as a conclusion of a lengthy legal argument expresses its hope that the state department will withhold its judgment on the Jenkins case until the civil courts in Puebla have passed on it.

Text of Note Received.

In the note to Mexico the state department not only demanded the immediate release of Jenkins, but warned Carranza that further molestation of the consular agent would bring relations between the two countries to a precarious point.

As the sequel to one kidnapping case after another, Jenkins' arrest and imprisonment by local Carranza authorities "incensed" this government, as Secretary Lansing's note expressed it.

Whether the government will regard the Jenkins case as a climax to the long list of unsettled questions with Mexico is not being indicated in any official way. Technically, a consular agent has no diplomatic status and immunities, and, unlike a diplomat, is not beyond local laws.

Diplomatists are of the opinion that pending its final action, the government here will have to determine whether the civil prosecution of Jenkins is a civil prosecution in good faith, in which the consular agent is receiving a speedy and fair trial, or all preservation of his rights, or whether he is being "molested" by the Carranza government while legal.

U. S. EXASPERATED BY JENKINS' RE-ARREST

TEXT OF GOVERNMENT'S NOTE IS MADE PUBLIC.

Warning Given That Persecution of Consular Agent Will Have Severe Effect on Relations.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 27.—Surprise and exasperation were expressed by the government of the United States in its note to the Mexican government demanding the release from prison of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, Mexico, it became known tonight, following the publication of the text of the American note by Andres G. Garcia, consul-general at El Paso.

Following is the re-translation of the Spanish version of the note sent to Mexico by the state department of the United States:

"American Embassy, Mexico City, Nov. 20, 1919.—To Hilarion Medina, sub-secretary of foreign affairs, Mexico City.—Sir: Referring to previous communications in the case of the consular agent of the United States at Puebla, Mexico, William O. Jenkins, I have the honor of informing you that I have received telegraphic instruction to notify the secretary of foreign affairs, Mexico City, in connection with the losses and injuries already suffered by Mr. Jenkins as the result of his being kidnapped—occasioned by the inability of the Mexican government to give due protection—and his first arrest by Mexican authorities, the government of the United States of America is surprised and exasperated to learn that Mr. Jenkins again has been arrested.

"His new arrest seems to my government, according to the evidence before it, entirely unjustified and an arbitrary exercise of public authority. The government orders me to add that the persistent persecution and subsequent harassing of Mr. Jenkins cannot but have a very serious effect on the relations between the two countries, for which the Mexican government will be solely responsible.

"Therefore, I am ordered to demand the immediate liberation of Mr. Jenkins.

"Accept, sir, etc.

"GEORGE I. SUMMERLIN,
"Charge d'Affaires."

The text of the American note, as well as the reply made by the Mexican government, was received from Mexico City by the consul-general here, with instructions to give both documents publicity.

SALEM TURKEYS CHEAPER

Oversupply Causes Slump and Birds Sell for 40 Cents.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 27.—(Special.)—Because of oversupply of turkeys due to the high prices, eleventh-hour buyers in the local markets last night acquired Thanksgiving birds for 40 cents a pound, or 2 cents below the wholesale price.

Buying of turkeys here was far below normal, and many birds unsold will be placed in cold storage and carried over for the Christmas trade.

POINCARÉ TELLS OF PLANS FOR FUTURE

Outgoing French President Not to Run Again.

SENATE PLACE IS PREFERRED

Selected Task Is to Further Reconstruction Work.

NEEDS OF FRANCE TOLD

Strong Army, League Pact, Colonial Development, Held Essential to Recovery From War.

President Poincaré's term of office as chief executive of France is drawing to a close. Next February his successor will be appointed, for much to everyone's regret, he has refused to stand for another term. To Poincaré has fallen the supreme responsibility of conducting the affairs of the country and safeguarding her interests through nearly five years of war.

So president ever faced such a task, and in the spirit of French and allied politicians he has cleared himself with glory from such a burden.

Before he left the presidency it was desired to present readers of The Oregonian with M. Poincaré's views of the war and of the future of civilization. All through his diaries interviews, he willingly granted an interview, which, in the form of a statement, is given below.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—(Special Cable.)—To begin with, I should like you to emphasize in America that they have not a just idea of what the president of a constitutional republic really is, such as the president of the French republic. "Boss" of the French state has not the power and liberty of the president of the United States. He cannot say or do what he likes. He is obliged to submit all his actions to responsible ministers for their approbation.

"Now you ask me if I have any intention of going to America. At present, no, I shall not go to America as president. If President Wilson had not been ill I should, perhaps, have gone there. Besides, Mr. Wilson himself, when we discussed the subject, did not think it was a favorable occasion for a visit to his country. It would be better, I think, to go next May or June. I shall be very pleased to visit America.

Visit as Tourist Planned.

"When I am no longer president I shall certainly do so, but as a tourist, for I do not intend to be a candidate at the next presidential election. I am not going to give up work, however.

"What are my plans? Well, naturally, I shall not abandon political activity, I shall offer myself again either for the chamber or the senate. I should prefer to be one of the representatives of my former constituency in the department of the Meuse. But I must wait for a vacancy, and really you will agree with me on this point, I cannot murder one of my honorable colleagues in order to take his place.

"My programme? Every parliamentary programme must above all comprise a plan for the reconstruction of France. There are many men willing to carry out the work of reconstruction, but these different minds need to be co-ordinated—put upon a working basis.

"Our immediate sacred task is to revitalize these provinces which were (Continued on Page 3, Column 1.)
