Opposition to Military Man as Artifice for Defeat.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU. Washington, Nov. 28 .- General Leon ard Wood continues in first place in the contest for the republican presidential nomination, and his friends say that his boom is gathering irresistible force.

As an indication that his strength recognized, friends of some other candidates are devoting most of their the unfettered politicians and you will be told by the majority that the Wood candidacy is the big thing just Go among the zealous friends of the ther candidates and ask them he their favorites are getting along and clock they seek to take all of you telling you how the "Wood boom is blowing up." Propaganda Aimed at Wood

So it was with Charles B. Hughes 1916. Some well-organized and thoroughly equipped bureaus ground out publicity informing the country that the republican party would never ominate a supreme court judge for president. The same industry is being used to promote the idea that the republican party will not nominate a 'military man," as though a military man could not be a patriot or possess executive ability.

The undeniable fact is that all of his propaganda about the country being against a military man first emanated from the headquarters of by politicians seeking to promote other candidates for the republican nomination. Fear of General Wood was the inspiration of it all.
