

BUSINESS MEN WILL VISIT WOOLLEN MILL

First of Series of Excursions Set for Tomorrow.

PUBLIC ASKED TO JOIN

Portland Clubs Appoint Committees to Act on Industrial Sites.

Under the leadership of the industrial sites committee of the Portland Realty board, local business men tomorrow will enjoy the first of a series of visits to Portland manufacturing plants.

The general purpose of the excursions will be to acquaint the men with manufacturing that is going on in Portland and in Oregon and to educate the general public towards using homemade goods, boosting home industries and taking steps to add to the industrial life of the city and state.

The first excursion will be to the Portland Woollen mills at St. Johns and the management has announced an open house from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. that day. The public is invited.

The movement began with the Portland Realty board some weeks ago, when Coe McKenna suggested the formation of an industrial sites committee within the board and urged the board to send invitations to other civic bodies to appoint similar committees.

The purpose of the allied committees thus formed was to visit industries in Portland, acquaint the public with these industries and aid those desiring to locate here by finding industrial sites.

The Kiwanis club, Ad club, Rotary club, East Side Business Men's club, City club and Progressive Business Men's club accepted the suggestion and appointed committees. These committees will meet at the Henry Hotel at 10 P. M. Tuesday and make the trip to the Portland Woollen mills and visit the plant in a body.

Committees Are Named. These committees are as follows: Portland Realty board—Coe A. McKenna chairman, Fred W. German, R. L. Yoke. East Side Business Men's club—L. M. Lepper, U. D. Maxson, H. A. Calef. Kiwanis club—John H. Ripley, Paul H. Srook, J. A. Finley. Rotary club—W. J. Bafl, George C. Mason, J. W. Vogan. Ad club—George L. Rauch, A. G. Clark, W. S. Stock. City club—R. R. Clark, E. T. Mische, Sinclair A. Williams. Progressive Business Men's club—Bert Richards, Alfred A. Ross, S. L. Eddy.

The peninsula is rapidly coming into its own as a manufacturing and shipping center and the coming year will see the greatest period of development in the history of North Portland. In the opening of Portland business men interested in that section. Three new plants of high importance will be erected and the winter and spring and several hundred workers added to Portland's payroll when the factories open.

Work Already Under Way. Work already is under way on the home of the Western Waxed Paper company, which will be one of the largest of its kind in the entire country. This factory is located just west of the Swift plant and the big concrete structure now is nearing completion. It will occupy a site of two acres and 30,000 square feet of floor space will be provided. The initial cost of building is given as $100,000. Operation is scheduled to start late in the spring.

Another enterprise in the same section is that of the Aladdin company, makers of ready-made houses. Work on the $250,000 plant will start at once and it is hoped to have this completed also in time for late spring occupancy. This factory will be located on a 15-acre tract east of the Pacific International Livestock exposition grounds and when opened will give employment to 300 men. Later expansion will increase this number to 400, it is expected.

The St. Johns terminal district, located in another part of the East Side, is already becoming of first importance as a shipping point, will see construction work by the East Side Flouring mills. The mill will be located just north of the terminal, with water frontage, and will increase materially Portland's flour and mill products output.

While definite plans have not been announced, it is believed that the Weyerhaeuser company, owning a 40-acre tract with water frontage in the same locality, will build a lumber mill upon its property within the coming year. The property borders the terminal on the east.

Linn county is rapidly developing into one of the industrial sections of Oregon, according to A. G. Clark, secretary of the Associated Industries of Oregon, who returned last week from a visit to Albany and Lebanon after being a speaker at a meeting at Lebanon Wednesday evening. While the banquet and meeting was called mainly for discussion of good roads, great interest was displayed in industrial development and interesting facts were given regarding development of that nature in the county.

Factories on Increase. Following a home products dinner there was a programme at which Mr. Clark and George Quayle of the Oregon state chamber of commerce were the principal speakers.

The two towns of Albany and Lebanon now have more than a dozen manufacturing plants of primary importance, including a fruit cannery, paper mill, creamery, planing mill, light and power company, several furniture factories, woodenware factory, manufacturing among other articles wheelbarrows and cedar chests. Flour mill, silo factory, cheese factory, brick and tile factory, box factory. At the dinner last week plans for closer co-operation were made and a vigorous buy-at-home campaign proposed.

Two important dinners of similar nature are scheduled for the coming week, those being the grand dinner at Molalla which will be exclusively of home products, and a home-products dinner at Albany Friday night during the convention of the Oregon State Hotel Managers' organization.

How the sales department of the Portland Gas & Coke company overcame the difficulties of display in their show windows by installing a white screen as a background is explained in the latest issue of The Gas Record, the national trade magazine of the kind, published at Chicago. Because of the reflection from the white marble across the street, difficulty was found in getting anyone to show through the plate-glass windows until the plan of a white screen as a background was hit upon. The window is being used for display of Radiant gas heaters and sale of the heaters has been considerably boosted by the attractive window it is stated. A photograph of the window is reproduced in the national gas magazine.
