

HEAVIES IN LONDON WILL CLASH TODAY

Beckett and Carpenter Fight for Chance at Dempsey.

BOTH ARE CHAMPIONS

Relative Merits of Men Unknown Here—Darcy at Work—Sailor Brandon Is Signed.

Today across the pond in dear old London the two kingpin heavyweights of Europe will fight it out for the right to see which will try to do to Jack Dempsey what Jess Willard failed to do.

The relative merits of these men are comparatively unknown to the mass of American fight fans, as neither of them ever has shown his wares in this country.

At one time, a period before the great war, Carpenter, tipping the beam at about 175 to 180 pounds, was considered by many of the critics of the fight game who had the opportunity to witness him in action in Paris, as one of the best men in the world at his weight.

Carpenter went through the war in the French army, and it is said that he is but a shadow of his former self in physical powers.

The Frenchman has beaten some good men in his career, and is rated as an exceptionally clever boxer. According to the news which has been sifting through various sources, he has been training hard for his battle with Beckett and will be up to his best form.

A true line on him has been unavailable, as all of his training has been in secret.

Still less is known of Beckett, who was unheard of in this country before the war. Bombardier Wells lost the heavyweight belt of England to Joe Goddard, who in turn, was defeated before Beckett's assaults.

The latter will scale between 180 and 190 pounds in the heat of condition and is said to be an aggressive, hard-hitting mitt wielder, depending mostly on his crushing punch to win his bouts.

The former, who is a native of the American middleweight, went 18 rounds with him recently does not speak any too well for his much-heralded wallop, despite the fact that McGorty is a tough customer.

A good deal has been said and written pro and con as to Beckett's ability. Some of those returning from England tout him to the skies, while others rate him as a rank "dud" with nothing but willingness.

The winner of the Beckett-Carpenter 20-round, tussle undoubtedly will be matched to meet Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, either in England or in this country within the next six months. Tonight's mill will give some kind of a real line on the two claimants of the right to test out Dempsey's punch hardware.

Jimmy Darcy got down to hard training yesterday for his coming bout on December 10 in Milwaukee against Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul fish. Gibbons is scheduled to leave Seattle this morning for Portland and will open up his training quarters tomorrow.

Darcy realizes that to hold his own with Gibbons he must be in the best of condition and will not do any sluffing in his workouts. His brother, Alex Trambitas, and several heavy mixers will act as his sparring partners.

Matchmaker Frank Kendall reports a heavy demand for seats with the pastebards only on sale for a day. The Oregon City fans have been bitten by the flitoe bug again and in answer to requests Kendall took the flyer to the paper mill city yesterday with a flock of tickets for the coming show.

A bout which is attracting a great deal of interest in the December 10 card is the special event of eight rounds featuring Sailor George Brandon and Nial Zimmerman, the two battling featherweights.

These two willing exponents of the fistic art clashed through six torrid rounds at the last show of the Portland boxing commission, Zimmerman taking the decision. It was accorded that Brandon put up the gamest exhibition ever witnessed here. This time the perpetual motion sailor will be in better shape for the fast-moving Zimmerman, who is getting ready to take on the Germans, Winks and Malones. A strong hope is held for a struggle hold on Brandon when he fought Zimmerman and only his great stamina carried him through the distance, and he did not finish by hanging on either. He was fighting every minute. Over the eight-round route their return match should be one of the treats of the year.

BECKETT HAS ADVANTAGE—Britisher Scales 14 Pounds Over Georges Carpenter.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Joe Beckett and Georges Carpenter, who are scheduled for a 20-round bout at the National Boxing club tomorrow night to decide the heavyweight championship of Europe, Carpenter, a Frenchman, holds the title.

The fight may bring forward an opponent for Jack Dempsey in a contest for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Beckett, who is the English champion, will have an advantage of 14 pounds in weight over Carpenter, scaling at about 184 pounds, and his reach is two inches longer. Otherwise the contestants will be virtually equal as regards age, height and measurements.

While the Englishman is regarded as a fighter, Carpenter is credited as being the more scientific because of his greater boxing skill. Both men are said to be in perfect condition.

Left Jabs and Cleverness Earn Decision Over Logger, Who Comes Out Unhurt.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 3.—(Special)—Tommy Gibbons gave a demonstration of the cleverness which has made him one of the chief contenders to the world's light-heavyweight championships tonight when he outpointed Frank Farmer and won a decision over the logger at the Crystal pool.

The elder of the Gibbons boys pumped his famed left into Farmer's face after point after point, outgeneraled the Tacoma crack in the clinches and earned the verdict without much of a doubt.

For one round, the first, Tommy looked a dead ringer for his more famous brother, Mike. His footwork and lightning jabs amazed the packed house, who cheered lustily as he took his corner. But the St. Paul wizard mostly had earned his victory on his bit of the purse for the rest of the rounds were quite tame.

Farmer's awkward defense turned aside many of Mike's hooks and jabs and the bald one scored quite often himself with body blows which did no more damage than did Gibbons' punches.

Once or twice the northwest champion brought the crowd to its feet by a flurry when a right hand found its mark. But the lines were few and the sixth round saw the Minnesotan leading by a healthy margin.

Red Gage, the fiery 125-pounder of Seattle, and Herb Taylor boxed a fast draw in the semi-windup. The boys put plenty of action into their exhibition, although neither did a world of damage.

George Eisel and Earl Connor staged an interesting draw contest in the third bout.

Willie Chastel, a nifty-working little bantam from Tacoma, popped Frank Pantley square in the chops in the first round of their encounter. The local lad took a few minutes but Pantley surprised the boys who were predicting a knockout by coming back and outboxing the hard-hitting visitor for the rest of the distance.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—(Special)—Gunboat Smith and Carl Morris put up a wretched four-round fight tonight at the Oakland auditorium and at the end of the contest the referee's decision, which was a draw, was a surprise to all there was a draw.

The Jerry O'Keefe-Lee Johnson fight, won by O'Keefe in the second on a technical knockout, furnished the most excitement.

Jack Davis knocked out Eddie Denney in the second round.

Teddy O'Hare and Johnny Arrousey boxed a four-round draw.

Rex Morris knocked out Kid Carter in the first. Several weeks ago this same pair was thrown out of the ring for stalling.

Jimmy Thornton knocked out Doc Roberts in the second.

Injury to Center Candidate Gives Squad Big Setback.

ALBANY, Or., Dec. 3.—(Special)—When "Pet" Miller, the big captain of the Albany high school football team, suffered a broken ankle in the Thanksgiving day game at Corvallis, the injury not only placed a big part in the Corvallis lads overcoming a 12 to 9 lead and pulling out a 13 to 12 victory, but it has weakened the school's basketball prospects for the coming season.

ALBANY, Or., Dec. 3.—(Special)—The 1919 football season was a profitable one, according to figures recently issued by Manager Meisner, and some $14,000 has been added to the coffers of the university.

ALBANY, Or., Dec. 3.—(Special)—Donald G. Littlepage, giving his address as Portland, was taken off a southbound train last night on telegraphic information from Multnomah county officers and held for investigation.

ALBANY, Or., Dec. 3.—(Special)—According to advices from Portland received here by the sheriff's office, Littlepage is alleged to have eloped with Mrs. Dorris L. Evans, but she was not with him when the arrest was made.

ALBANY, Or., Dec. 3.—(Special)—It was also stated that the couple probably would present a marriage certificate giving the names of Mr. and Mrs. A. Christensen, but the document was not in evidence. The only thing of an incriminating nature found upon Littlepage was a deputy sheriff's star.

Littlepage was arrested on a warrant charging him with non-support. His wife, in obtaining the warrant, informed Deputy Sheriff Beckman
