

WASHINGTON MINERS NOT YET CONVINCED

Men in Two Districts Refuse to Resume Work.

SETTLEMENT IS DOUBTED

Workers, Largely Foreigners, Decline to Credit Reports That National Strike Has Ended.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 18.—(Special.)—Coal production in Washington reached 50 per cent of normal today, according to reports received at the Seattle offices of the various mining companies.

Except in the Cumberland field, in which there are no important mines, all western Washington collieries are working nearly full crews of miners. In eastern Washington the strike is still unbroken, the miners of the Roslyn-Cle Elum field, the only one in that part of the state, having refused up to this afternoon to return to work, though state officers of the United Mine Workers of America are in the field urging such action.

Production Still Curtailed.
The Roslyn-Cle Elum mines produce a little more than half of the customary coal output of Washington, but since most of their output is taken for railroad use coal operators today said the production of commercial coal for other than railroad use was seriously below normal.

Neither officers of the Washington coal operators' association nor officers of the state district of the United Mine Workers had heard directly from the Roslyn-Cle Elum field today, but positive information was received by L. C. Gilman, district director of the railroad administration, that the strike there continued unbroken.

Railway Owns Large Mines.
The Northern Pacific Railway company is the owner of large mines in the Roslyn field and the information received by Mr. Gilman came through that channel. His report was that a strong radical sentiment among the miners was blocking a return to work.

Regarding the Cumberland field, Robert H. Harlin said it was quite possible the miners there would balk at a return to work for several days more, the delegates to the Cumberland having opposed a return to work in the recent Seattle convention of officers of the mine workers' local. The Cumberland field has been the scene of much I. W. W. activity in recent months.

ELLENSBURG, Wash., Dec. 18.—Coal miners in the Cle Elum and Roslyn districts, at a conference with district officials of the United Mine Workers at Roslyn today, refused to credit reports that the national strike of coal miners has been ended and that miners in other fields of the United States have returned to work. They expressed a desire to continue the strike until they had direct information from locals in western Washington that the strike is ended.

Assurances of Sam Caddy, member of the national executive board of the United Mine Workers, and Ben Farmond, vice-president of district No. 18, who came to Seattle in an effort to settle the strike, that national officials of the union had ordered the miners back to work were rejected by the miners.

Miners Largely Foreigners.
Representatives of miners' unions at both Cle Elum and Roslyn conferred with the district officials at Roslyn this forenoon, and another conference was called later to continue efforts to persuade them that the strike was really ended. Both the Cle Elum and the Roslyn unions are said to have a large membership of foreigners.

The United States Rubber Company

Announces a Grainless Rubber Compound For Solid Truck Tires

The United States Rubber Company has now perfected a method of compounding rubber by means of which the grain is entirely eliminated. For years rubber manufacturers have been experimenting to develop such a compound.

It is this "grain" in rubber—similar to the grain in lumber—that is largely responsible for the splitting and cracking of solid tires.

Rubber with a grain naturally splits or pulls apart along the lines of the grain when subjected to heavy load strain and road impact.

The new rubber compound without grain eliminates entirely any tendency to split, because it does away with the points where splitting starts. It has no weak spots.

A solid tire made of grainless rubber compound has none of the tread defects of the ordinary solid truck tire.

This new method of producing a grainless rubber compound, and this company's new process of vulcanizing the rubber to the steel base, together have produced a solid truck tire the exceptional quality of which has already been proven by performance.

This quality is backed by the good faith of the United States Rubber Company, the oldest and largest rubber manufacturing company in the world.

How to Make a Real Wrinkle Remover

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" and "rejuvenators" it is hard for a woman to believe she can make a simple home remedy for the removal of wrinkles which will do her much more good than the average made preparation. There's nothing in the world so effective for erasing or preventing wrinkles, age marks, bagginess of cheeks and chin, as a simple and harmless solution made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered excelsite in a half pint of witch hazel. These ingredients of course can be had at any drug store. Use the mixture daily for a while as a refreshing wash lotion. The quick results will surprise you. Even the first application produces very marked improvement. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a firm, "solid," comfortable feeling. Soon you will look considerably less than your age.—Adv.
