

TRAINING OF OREGON FOOTBALL STARTS TODAY

Hayward Orders Two Hard Sessions Daily. PLAYERS ATTEND CHURCH

Huntington Objects to Eastern Referees; Tournament Committee to Choose if Coaches Disagree.

BY HARRY M. GRAYSON. PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21.—(Special.)—The University of Oregon football team passed today...

Training Will Start Today. Real training starts tomorrow morning. Two sessions will be held daily for the first week...

Coach Huntington announced tonight that he will hold out for either W. S. Kleinholz of Pasadena, George M. Yarnell of Spokane or San Dean of Corvallis for referee...

Football is the main topic of discussion in Pasadena, Los Angeles and southern California tonight. Daily papers are devoting front page streamers to the coming struggle...

Large Ticket Sale Pressaged. Although tickets will not go on sale to the general public in Los Angeles until Friday, the thousands of requests already on hand indicate that the 25,000 seats will be sold...

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner...

Perry Through With Baseball. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack...

U. O. MEN STAND TRIP WELL. Short Sprints at Stations on Way Help Keep Team in Condition.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 21.—(Special.)—Clad in northern woollens and mighty chain mail, the Oregon football men reached their destination, 35 husky University of Oregon football men reached here yesterday...

ident of downing Harvard. They are not overconfident, they have simply gritted their teeth and made up their minds to fight. Coach Huntington, the quiet, unassuming chap who took command of the Lane county organization two years ago, himself announced his probable lineup to start against Bob Fisher's heavier chargers from Cambridge. Here it is:

Stan Anderson and Matt Howard, ends; Ken Elliott and Spike Leslie, tackles; Al Harding and Carl Maatz, guards; Brick Leslie or Prink Callison, center; Captain Everett Brandenburg and Vince Jacobberger, halfbacks; Bill Steers, quarterback; Holly Huntington, fullback. There is a possibility of Baz Williams starting at guard or tackle in the place of either Harding or Leslie, but otherwise the western prides will saunter on Tournament park gridiron as named. Other pastimers who have good chances of breaking into the lineup before taps is sounded are Skeeter Manerud, quarter, and Nish Chapman, halfback.

CRIMSON STOPS IN CHICAGO. Members of Team Appear to Be Tired by Trip. CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—The Harvard football team which left Boston yesterday on its transcontinental trip to meet the Oregon eleven at Pasadena on New Year's day, arrived in Chicago an hour and 40 minutes late today. The members were a bit tired from the journey and went to the University club for a plunge and dinner.

WOLFORD IN TENNIS LIST. OREGON MAN 51ST AMONG PLAYER SOF COUNTRY. Phil Neer Is Placed 115th by United States Lawn Tennis Association for 1919 Play.

Ranked fifty-first among over 5000 tennis players whose records for 1919 were considered will be found the name of Catlin Wolford of Portland, Or. The United States Lawn Tennis association completed its ranking process Saturday, and the first ten in which national interest is centered were announced.

YANKS PLAN OWN FIELD. REQUEST FOR LONG LEASE IS DENIED BY GIANTS. As Result, Polo Grounds Will Not Be Shared by Two Teams After 1920 Season.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The season of 1919 will be the last that the New York American League Baseball club will share the Polo grounds with the Giants. This is absolutely definite. There is no ill feeling between the owners of the two local major league clubs. Nor have the Giants in any way sought to turn the Yankees out.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

GUARD AND DALLAS QUINTETS TO MEET. Basketball Game Is Scheduled for December 27.

LOCAL LINEUP STRONGER. Organization of Interstate League Will Be Perfected at Meeting Tomorrow Night.

D. M. Simonsen, manager of the Multnomah Guard basketball team, will take his fast quintet to Dallas for a game with the Dallas five on December 27. With such veteran players as Billy Lewis, Kenneth Irie and "Spud" Darling in the lineup, and with several younger basket shooters on the available list, including Kenneth Hill, Irve Cole, Dave Wright, Tuma, Edlund, Gilman and Pearnley, the Guards have an array of basketball talent that will be hard to beat and one that is expected to give any interstate league a hard contest.

THREE-7 MEET HEAD UP. PRESIDENT WAITS FOR MORE CLUBS TO COME IN. Head of Circuit Puzzles Over Membership for League for Season of 1920.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Dec. 21.—President A. R. Tearney of the Three-7 league notified a number of the magnates that he had delayed calling the annual meeting until he had received a greater number of applications for membership in the circuit of 1920. He suggested that the following players will include Hannibal, Alton and Quincy as new cities from the south-western territory. Evansville, Terre Haute and Indianapolis from the eastern, while a third would be Waterloo, Rock Island, Davenport, Waterloo, Rock Island and Davenport to the north and west.

YANKS PLAN OWN FIELD. REQUEST FOR LONG LEASE IS DENIED BY GIANTS. As Result, Polo Grounds Will Not Be Shared by Two Teams After 1920 Season.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The season of 1919 will be the last that the New York American League Baseball club will share the Polo grounds with the Giants. This is absolutely definite. There is no ill feeling between the owners of the two local major league clubs. Nor have the Giants in any way sought to turn the Yankees out.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

JEALOUSY CAUSE OF LEWIS-MOORE BREAK. Presence of Burman in Same Stable Responsible. RELATIONS ARE FRIENDLY. Fans Now Are Looking Forward to Meeting of Men Whose Reputations Are Involved.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—It takes a bit of prying about at times to learn why certain things happen in the pugilistic world. Frinstance, the sporting columns of a few days ago carried brief stories to the effect that Pal Moore, the Memphis bantamweight who gained an international reputation through his battles with Jimmy Wilde, the champ of Great Britain, had cut the string which had bound him to perform under the management of Nate Lewis and T. Walsh. Said severing of relations took effect last Wednesday, when the contract which carries the signature of the scraper and the managers expired. Bill Haack of Memphis, a boxing promoter, will look after the interests of Moore.

THREE-7 MEET HEAD UP. PRESIDENT WAITS FOR MORE CLUBS TO COME IN. Head of Circuit Puzzles Over Membership for League for Season of 1920.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Dec. 21.—President A. R. Tearney of the Three-7 league notified a number of the magnates that he had delayed calling the annual meeting until he had received a greater number of applications for membership in the circuit of 1920. He suggested that the following players will include Hannibal, Alton and Quincy as new cities from the south-western territory. Evansville, Terre Haute and Indianapolis from the eastern, while a third would be Waterloo, Rock Island, Davenport, Waterloo, Rock Island and Davenport to the north and west.

YANKS PLAN OWN FIELD. REQUEST FOR LONG LEASE IS DENIED BY GIANTS. As Result, Polo Grounds Will Not Be Shared by Two Teams After 1920 Season.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The season of 1919 will be the last that the New York American League Baseball club will share the Polo grounds with the Giants. This is absolutely definite. There is no ill feeling between the owners of the two local major league clubs. Nor have the Giants in any way sought to turn the Yankees out.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

JEALOUSY CAUSE OF LEWIS-MOORE BREAK. Presence of Burman in Same Stable Responsible. RELATIONS ARE FRIENDLY. Fans Now Are Looking Forward to Meeting of Men Whose Reputations Are Involved.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—It takes a bit of prying about at times to learn why certain things happen in the pugilistic world. Frinstance, the sporting columns of a few days ago carried brief stories to the effect that Pal Moore, the Memphis bantamweight who gained an international reputation through his battles with Jimmy Wilde, the champ of Great Britain, had cut the string which had bound him to perform under the management of Nate Lewis and T. Walsh. Said severing of relations took effect last Wednesday, when the contract which carries the signature of the scraper and the managers expired. Bill Haack of Memphis, a boxing promoter, will look after the interests of Moore.

THREE-7 MEET HEAD UP. PRESIDENT WAITS FOR MORE CLUBS TO COME IN. Head of Circuit Puzzles Over Membership for League for Season of 1920.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Dec. 21.—President A. R. Tearney of the Three-7 league notified a number of the magnates that he had delayed calling the annual meeting until he had received a greater number of applications for membership in the circuit of 1920. He suggested that the following players will include Hannibal, Alton and Quincy as new cities from the south-western territory. Evansville, Terre Haute and Indianapolis from the eastern, while a third would be Waterloo, Rock Island, Davenport, Waterloo, Rock Island and Davenport to the north and west.

YANKS PLAN OWN FIELD. REQUEST FOR LONG LEASE IS DENIED BY GIANTS. As Result, Polo Grounds Will Not Be Shared by Two Teams After 1920 Season.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The season of 1919 will be the last that the New York American League Baseball club will share the Polo grounds with the Giants. This is absolutely definite. There is no ill feeling between the owners of the two local major league clubs. Nor have the Giants in any way sought to turn the Yankees out.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

5c a package before the war 5c a package during the war and 5c a package NOW THE FLAVOR LASTS SO DOES THE PRICE!

Advertisement for Wrigley's Doublemint Gum. Includes images of gum packs and a coupon for a free pack. Text: '5c a package before the war 5c a package during the war and 5c a package NOW THE FLAVOR LASTS SO DOES THE PRICE!'

PAT MORAN IS IDOLIZED. MANAGER PUTS PEP IN HIM. PLAYERS, SAYS KOPF. Redd Would Have Lost Pennant if Mathewson Had Been Boss, Star Infielder Thinks.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Christy Mathewson evidently did not make much of a hit as a manager with Billy Kopf, who since Pat Moran succeeded Matty as leader of the Cincinnati Reds, has developed into one of the game's star infielders. Kopf in a recent interview intimated that his brief "retirement" from the game just prior to the opening of the 1919 season was occasioned by unwillingness to play another season under Moran's direction. Moran, who was named as Matty's successor Kopf let it be known that he was ready to remain with the Reds that he refused to be sent to Brooklyn in the deal which took Jake Daubert to Redland.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

Bits of Shrapnel. THE predicted end of the world Wednesday didn't worry a lot of folks. For them the world ended on July 1. After lamping the stipend Dempsey and Carpenter are to get for their international fox trot some time in 1920, we wonder that a lot of husky young fellows insist on going to college.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

French dames who claim Carpenter is a low-life slacker for not hopping into the wedding harness. Having lamped the yet-to-be-wedded groom for not seeking the esteemed Mr. Beckett on his muchly-heralded horn, the French dames are vehement in their exclamations of "N'est ce pas? Tout sweet, tout sweet!"

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Scott Perry, who had his brief fling at fame as a pitcher for Connie Mack, has opened a tailor shop in Franklin, Pa., with Harry O'Donnell, also formerly of the Athletics, as a partner. No more professional ball for him, says Perry, but he will continue to pitch for the Franklin independent team for $100 per game or thereabouts.

Advertisement for Holiday Eggnog. Text: 'Holiday Eggnog. This season of the year is dedicated to Good Fellowship. No more appropriate way can be found of expressing Good Fellowship than round a punch bowl of Eggnog. With a large bottle of our Eggnog Syrup and three quarts of sweet milk you can make a gallon of Eggnog rivaling in aroma and taste one made in other days. Both wholesome and delicious, this drink is superlative, and no gathering, whether holiday or everyday, is complete without it. Eggnog Syrup can be obtained at leading department stores and grocers in large bottles for $1.25, or full pint flasks for 75c. Blumauer & Hoch Wholesale Distributors for Oregon.'