

MISS 1920 TO HAVE ROUSING RECEPTION

Toasts Minus Wine to Usher in Infant Newcomer.

THEATERS WILL BE GAY

Hotels Plan for Throng of Merry-Makers—Celebration on Streets Also Part of Festivities.

Along about midnight—or at the stroke of 12, to be exact—Fisher Time will announce the arrival of another youngster.

Although the debut of little Miss Nineteen Twenty will not be so spectacular as was the initial advent into world society of her several hundred little brothers and sisters, Portland folk have made extensive plans to give the little stranger a rousing and whole-hearted reception.

Toasts will be drunk to the newborn year as of yore, but there will be an absence of sparkling wines. Whistles will shriek their clarion welcome, and bells will ring out as the dying year gives way to the new. The downtown streets will be packed with a laughing, care-free flow of humanity, giving way to a spirit of charity as with bells and whistles around and horns and happily shouted "Happy New Years" they give noisy greeting to the newest of years.

A varied list of new year's entertainments has been booked by theaters, hotels and numerous organizations, including many churches, and so complete is the roll of new year festivities that there will be no year for any Portland resident being deprived of the opportunity of being present at the eventful demise of 1919 and the arrival of 1920.

Theaters Give Matinees.

Midnight matinees will be held in practically all of the Portland theaters, including the Hippodrome, the Hilling the New Year's matinee is being staged by the Portland post of the American Legion and the funds will be used in assisting needy service men and their families. A complete programme by both professional and amateur artists has been arranged. The matinee will start at 11:30 o'clock and continue until the new year has been properly introduced to all.

At the Baker, Pantages, Alcazar and Lyric theaters the midnight matinee will all start at 11:30 o'clock, while the New Year's show at the Hippodrome will get under way shortly after 10 o'clock and continue until after midnight.

Hundreds of persons are planning to attend the municipal New Year's party at the auditorium which will be staged under the direction of Hal M. White, manager. Mr. White has arranged an elaborate programme of music and community singing, and because of the success of former New Year's entertainments provided by the city during Mr. White's regime, an auditorium manager, it is expected that the hall will be comfortably filled for the party on the evening of January 1. The programme will start at 10 o'clock.

Diners Swoon on Hotels.

Table reservations for a New Year's banquet supper at the Hotel Multnomah hotel tonight are at a premium and the management announced yesterday that the restaurant in the main dining room and assembly hall will be filled with merry-makers.

Supper-dances have also been arranged at the Oregon grill and Portland hotel. At the latter hotel special vocal music will be featured during the evening by Mrs. Jennie C. Nelson. The New Year's supper at the Portland will start at 10 o'clock and continue until the midnight festivities at the Oregon will start at 9 o'clock and continue until all patrons have properly bid adieu to the old year's midnight curfew law for grown-ups.

And right here it might not be amiss to detail instructions which Chief of Police Johnson issued yesterday to the officers and men of the police department. The police will permit the usual spirit of hilarity on the downtown streets if it is kept within proper bounds. Throwing of confetti will be taboo, but the noise-making devices will be permitted until everybody has had ample opportunity to greet the incoming year. Special New Year's service on all street cars in the city was announced yesterday by the chief of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company. This special service will maintain until 12 M. in order to take care of all persons attending the many New Year's functions in the theaters, hotels and other places in the downtown district.

Y. M. C. A. IS OPEN TOMORROW

Special Entertainment Promised by Local Organization.

The Portland Y. M. C. A. will keep open house tomorrow when visitors will be welcomed by the members of the secretarial staff. They will be shown through the building and may inspect all of the departments, including the gymnasium, swimming pool, educational rooms, etc. A stringed orchestra will furnish music throughout the afternoon and there will be special singing and a general good time. The entertainment is provided by the association service department, of which A. M. Griley, executive secretary, is the directing head. Soldiers and sailors are especially invited. The musical was given by Mrs. Susie Fennell Pipes and David Beasley Campbell. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sawyer are receiving much social attention, as they will leave New Year's day for France to make the home for a few years. One of the larger things that has been done for Mrs. Sawyer was the tea on Monday afternoon for which Mrs. Kenneth Robertson and Mrs. Preston Smith were hostesses at the residence of Mrs. Smith on Portland Heights.

The affair had all the charm of a Christmas party. The tea table was presided over by Mrs. Lloyd Smith, Mrs. William Morton and Mrs. Paul Giesy. They were assisted by Miss Susie Smith, Miss Fay Nichols and Miss Louise Small.

A very pretty wedding took place in McMinnville Monday evening at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. J. Hall Nelson, when Miss Grace Stoll of Seattle became the bride of Burnice R. Nelson. The house was a bower of palms, ivy, poinsettias and Christmas greens, with cathedral candles, which made a perfect setting for the bride and her attendants.

The bride was lovely in an ivory satin and old lace, with a full-length veil, held in place with a coronet of lace and carrying an old-fashioned bouquet of roses and orchids. Miss Wanda Nelson, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and carried the chignon and carried the opelia roses. The ring service was used, which was read by Judge George H. Burnett, a great-uncle of the bridegroom.

Leslie Scherwing of Eugene acted as best man, the wedding march being played by Mrs. George E. Stott. The bride was given in marriage by her father, O. F. Stoll.

The ceremony, which followed at the residence of Mrs. Stoll and Dr. and Mrs. Nelson, the parents of the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. George E. Stott, was presided over by Roy H. Nelson of Portland received with the bride party.

After a wedding trip to the sound of the young couple will make their home in this city. The friends of Clive M. Saiz will be interested to hear that he is leaving this evening for an extended stay in California. He will visit his father while south and also attend San Francisco Theological seminary as a special student.

The Rev. and Mrs. Oswald W. Taylor will hold a reception and watch party New Year's eve at 8 o'clock at the members and friends of the Grace Memorial church in the parlors of the parish house. Many of the church are arranging the programme and a good time is anticipated.

The table decorations were artistic in the center of which was a miniature tree handily decorated with small electric lights and all that makes a Christmas tree attractive. Souvenirs were attached to the tree by long red ribbons which extended to each place and with each gift was a rhyme composed by the hostess which added much merriment to the occasion. Later in the evening bridge was played. The guests were: Mrs. R. H. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gase, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Delahunt, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Two Exceptional Coat Values for Today's Buyers

A shipment of smart coats has just been unpacked and will be shown on our coat floor tomorrow for the first time. They are marked at clearance prices for quick sale.

We were not greatly in need of more coats at this time, but our New York representative chanced to see them at a most exceptionally low price and could not resist the temptation of so much in the way of value.
