Oregon Rehearses Whole Bag of Football Tricks. Harvard Uses Passes. Coach Fisher's Final Scrimmage Gives Indication Aerial Attack Will Be Big Crisp Feature.

HARVARD USES PASSES

Coach Fisher's Final Scrimmage Gives Indication Aerial Attack Will Be Big Crisp Feature.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 30.—(Special.)—Harvard and the University of Oregon went through their final training sessions at Tournament park this afternoon. The most significant feature will take place on the morrow, the coaches announcing tonight that only signal practice is to be held on the eve of the big intersection clash.

Bob Fisher's foxy footballers exhibited themselves before a small party of newspaper men, commencing at 4:15 P. M. The most significant feature will take place on the morrow, the coaches announcing tonight that only signal practice is to be held on the eve of the big intersection clash.

Pass Planned Well. It is a pass over the center of the line, calculated to be a successful one in fashion which is bound to result in either Eddie Casey or one of the Horwath boys being put in position, so must be relying heavily on it.

When the crimson grid warriors trot on the field Thursday afternoon before a crowd of at least 3,000 persons they will be in pretty fair condition, although quite a few of the fellows in which the lemon-yellow rests at this time. Coach Shy Hurst certainly hummed a ten-minute drill when he landed his team here several days in advance of the Massachusetts boys. Coach Bob Fisher of Harvard is very optimistic as to the chances of his men. He holds the opinion that his team are in good enough shape to triumph over the westerners. There is no doubt that Harvard is taking the game very seriously. The crimson is not enjoying its jorjole as did the Brown university club of 1918 and the Pennsylvania crew of '16.

Fisher to Use Receivers. What Coach Fisher is relying on more than any other is his receivers. It is mighty hard to see any difference between his "A" and "B" teams when they are lined up for scrimmage. Harvard brought 22 players here, and every one of them can be classed as regular. Fisher makes no bones about saying that he will keep his attack refreshed at all times and will not hesitate to pull Eddie Casey and one else should he become fagged out.

The veteran member pulled one from the clouds today, Coach Shy Hurst, that Arnold Horwath, brother of Paulback Ralph, will be started at left halfback. Arnold Horwath has been playing center for a number of weeks, but neither Humphrey nor Freddie Church will be in the lineup at the kickoff.

It was officially announced tonight that the teams would line up as follows:

Table with columns: Name, Pos., Wt., No. for both Oregon and Harvard teams.

It will be noticed that numbers are duplicated. Owing to a mixup here that is the way they will appear on the official line-up sheet.

Although the entire Harvard squad was not frolicking about on the turf field of Tournament park until 4:15 P. M., the kickers came in for a lot of work early in the afternoon before the Oregon team practiced.

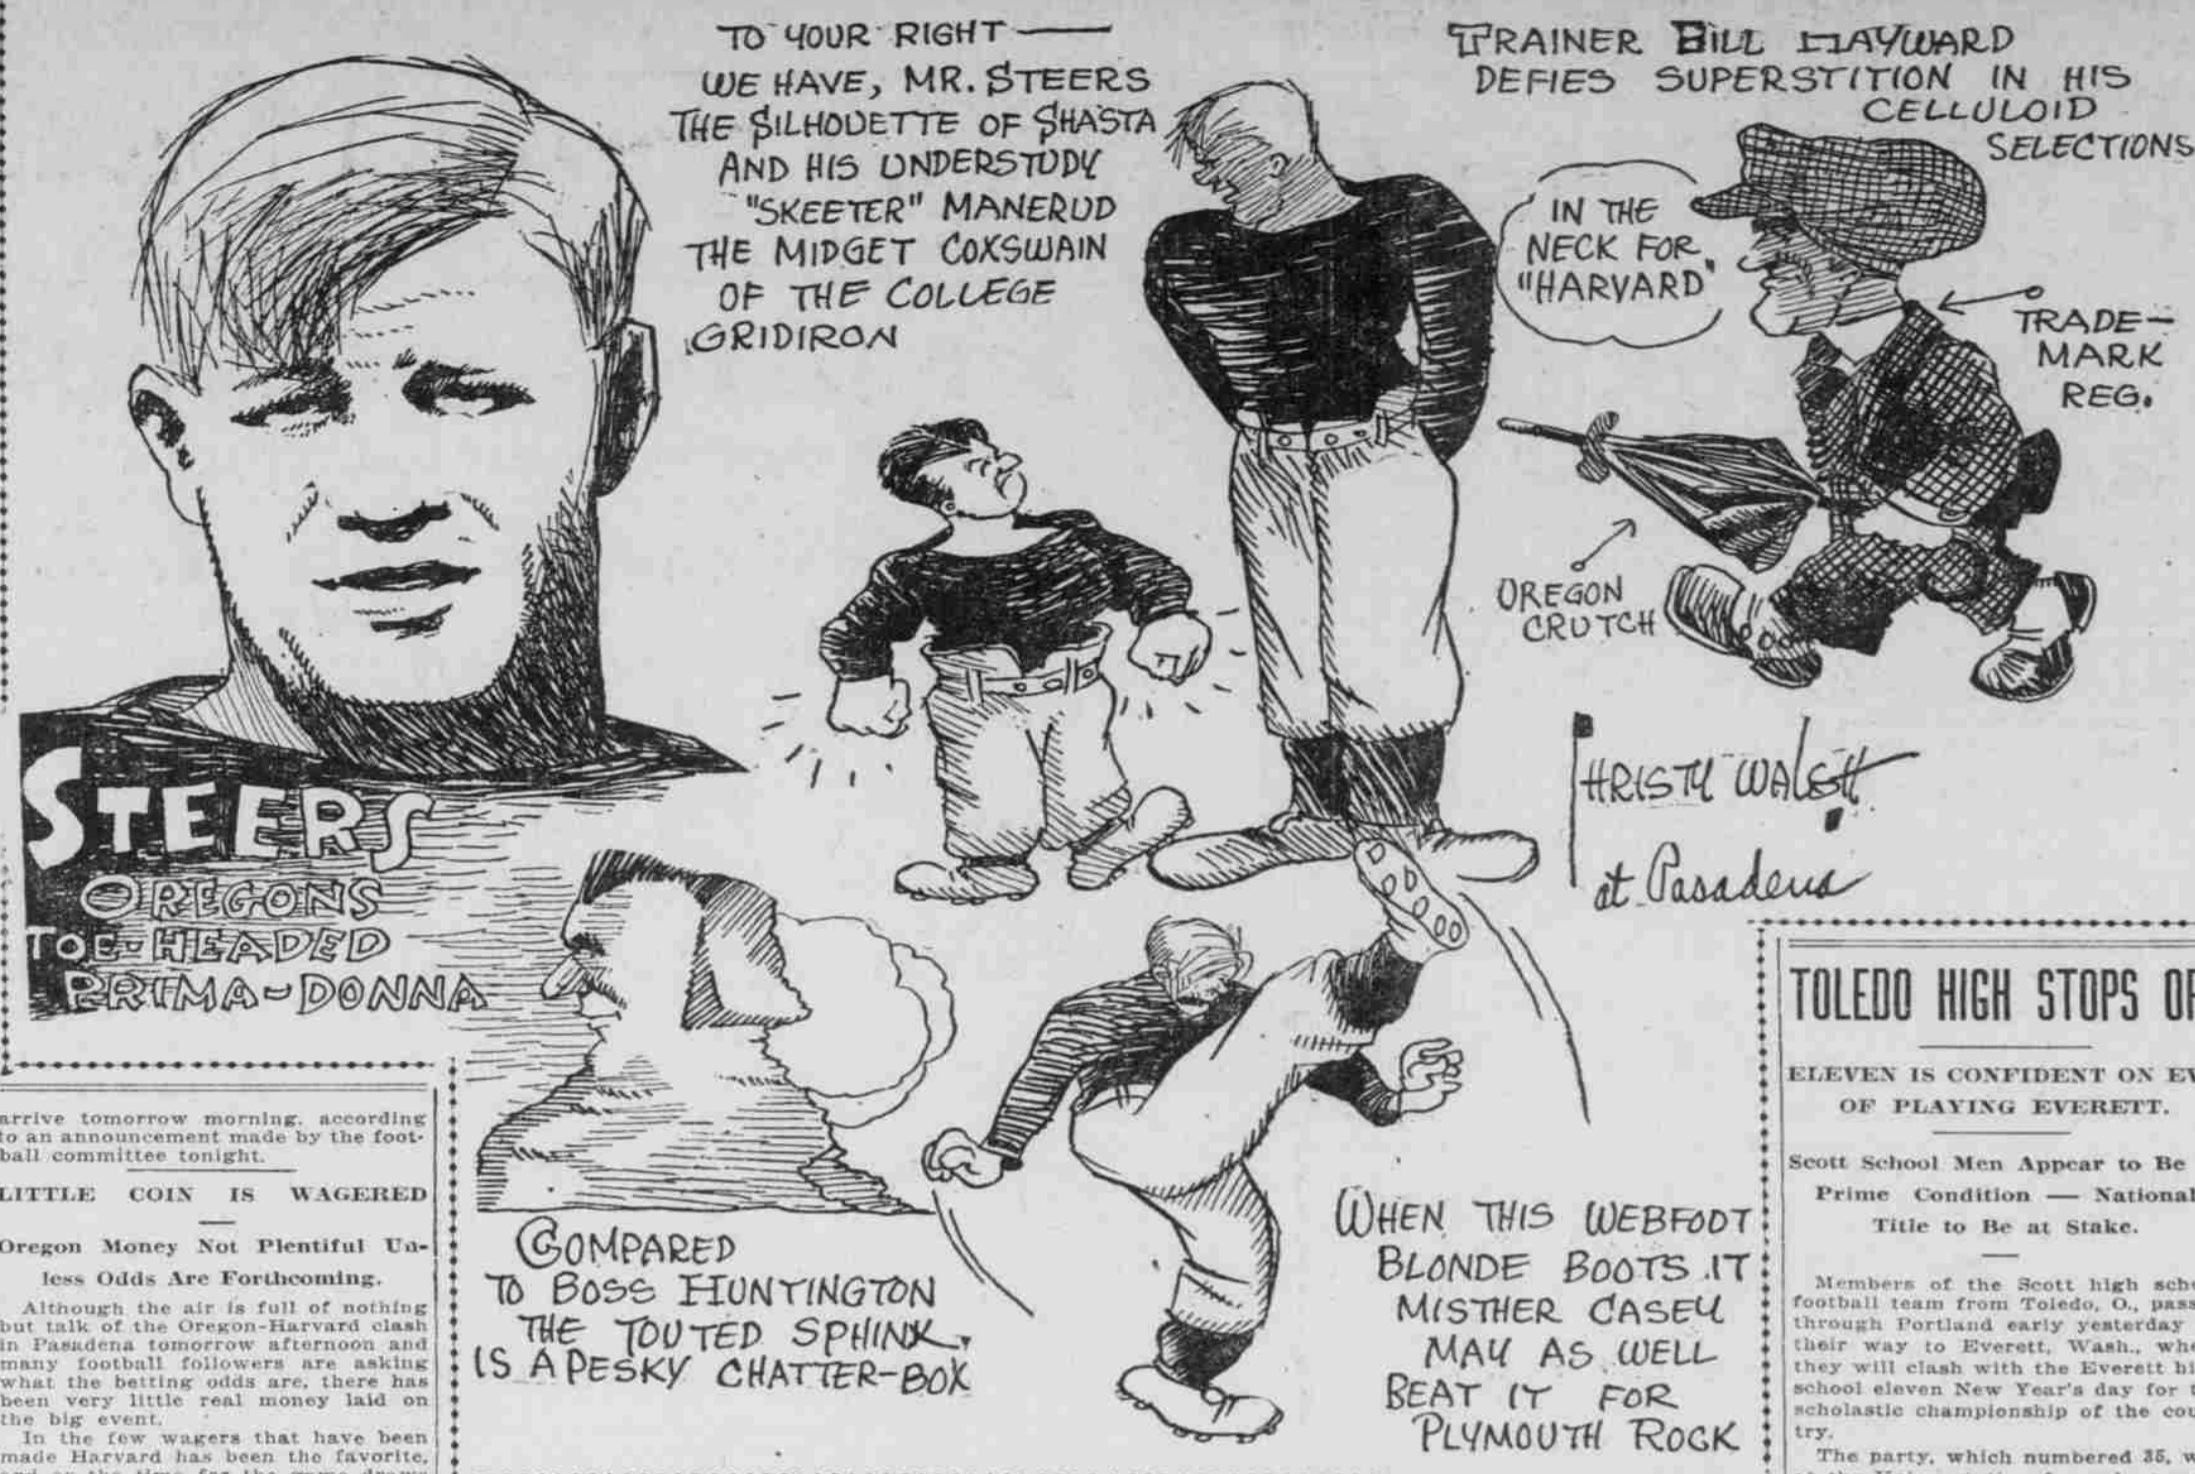

General Bob Fisher and his strategy staff are worried over the kicking ability of Bill Steers and "Skeeter" Manerud. Fisher is taking no chances. Fisher intends to tempt the lemon-yellow on their own grounds. In other words, every effort is being made to overcome the edge Oregon has in the punting department.

Fisher Aware of "Shy's" Kicks. Coach Fisher also fears the drop-kicks manipulated by Steers and Manerud. Ralph Horwath, Captain Billy Murray, Dick Humphrey and Babe Felton are the young gentlemen who will boot the ball with the easterners. Harvard has been without a good punter all season. Ralph Horwath and Eddie Casey are kicking against both Princeton and Yale and neither measure up to the big three standard by a goodly number of yards.

Eddie Mahan, one of the greatest kickers ever developed, is coaching the Harvard hoopers. Trainer Bill Hayward of Oregon is working largely to develop wind, as the men are well finished on technical points of the game. As was the case yesterday the Eugene boys took a long walk this morning, covering about seven miles in the process. Hayward is a great believer in walking as a method of exercise which will bring the requisite exertion without any danger of staleness.

Eastern Writers Busy Lot. As the date of the contest approaches the output of words from the Harvard newspaper party has increased to crescendo. Each of the men from the five Boston newspapers have been writing for the past few days a day since his arrival. The representative of the N.W. York Times is filing 2,000 words daily, while Los Angeles newspaper men filing for 50 or more eastern papers are keeping the wires hot. Among the many Portlanders who arrived today were George Bertz, a sporting writer, Jim Seavey and Frank M. and J. Blaine Troob. The latter trio were members of a trap-shooting party which will compete at a shoot on the coast of Oregon to come to Pasadena for the football game, however. The trapshooters called on Ralph Horwath, who is conversing along nicely, at a similar operation made necessary by a prolonged attack of rheumatism. Captain Roscoe Fawcett, formerly sporting editor of The Oregonian, will

Possibility of Game Turning to Test of Skill by Horwath and Steers is Forecast.

That well-known super-footballer kick in Steers, but the eleven will be decided by the lowly human hoof.

There is a possibility that the game will resolve itself into a punting and drop-kicking duel between Bill Steers and Ralph Horwath.

One thing is certain, Oregon will not be outclassed in the booting line. Let Harvard name the brand of booting which it prefers—punts, place-kicks or drops—and it will meet its equal in Oregon. In fact, it is not improbable that the crimson will be overhauled in this respect.

Under proper direction and with good generalship the foot power of each manager is requested to turn in a bunch for the lemon-yellow.

Regardless of the style of battle there are certain to be some electrifying moments in this contest. If Harvard has any kickers of the caliber of Oregon, the game will indeed be a superb one in this respect. It would not be surprising to see the sensational punting of 1916 repeated.

Each team will be allowed to carry 12 players throughout the season and each manager is requested to turn in his list three days before the league starts on January 12.

A large blackboard has been rigged up in the gymnasium upon which each play will be worked out as it comes over a special wire.

In addition to the football feature of the entertainment each department of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club will hold open house tomorrow for club members and as many friends as they care to bring.

The committee under the direction of Paul Dickson will be the returns, each team meeting the others once in the first section and repeating the schedule again for the second half of the circuit.

PLANS ARE OUTLINED Spring Athletics Soon to Be in Progress. MATERIAL IS AVAILABLE

James J. Richardson, Manager of Student Events, to Open Season in California.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Dec. 30.—(Special.)—With the reopening of school but a few days in the offing, spring athletics appear to be the main topic of conversation on the Aggie campus.

Coach Hargis ordered a cessation of hostilities in basketball practice during the holidays, but will send his basketballers into action with the reopening of school next Monday.

Richardson probably will open the basketball season by touring California, and Hargis expects to have a fairly formidable aggregation of hoopers by the time the season starts. The Multnomah Amateur Athletic club contest has been received by Richardson, but on account of the heavy schedule already arranged it is doubtful if any additional games will be listed.

Baseball Plans Made. While busy with affairs connected with various student activities on the campus Richardson found time to map out his baseball plans for the coming season. The Aggies, coached by William Miller, expect to open the season with a game at Berkeley, Calif., on Monday, Jan. 13.

Richardson again expects to find time to coach the baseball nine. Roy "Spec" Keene, who was elected captain of this year's team, will be one of the Aggie's hurlers. Last season Keene found it impossible to get into pitching condition and was used as an outfielder. This year Keene sought the services of a home specialist and his throwing arm is said to be in excellent form.
