

IRRIGATION CONGRESS TO FIGHT RADICALS

Oregon Farmers to Open 3-Day Session Here Today.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT NOTED

J. H. Upton, President, Asserts Deposition of Reds Not Enough; Extermination Is Desired.

Extermination of the "reds," deposition of enemy aliens who seek the overthrow of the United States government and adequate means of eradicating "so-called citizens of America who carry the red flag of murder and anarchy" is demanded by the farmers of Oregon, declared J. H. Upton of Prineville, president of the Oregon Irrigation congress, which will open its three-day session here at the Chamber of Commerce this morning at 10 o'clock.

"The farmers of Oregon are going to demand the extermination of the 'reds,'" said Mr. Upton. "It is not enough to deport the alien. So-called citizens of America who carry the red flag of murder and anarchy must be met with the mailed fist of organized society."

Homes Must Be Protected. The definition of treason should be enlarged. It is more serious, because more cruel, to die from freezing and starvation through strikes of violence and sabotage than it is to be shot by an armed enemy, and as these anarchists advocate death and destruction of property by violence, give them their own medicine, meted out to them soberly but surely, through the lawful voice of organized society.

Friendly Spirit Observed. "As indicated by the fact that we are holding this meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, I may say that the feeling in eastern and central Oregon toward Portland and its organizations of business men is most friendly now," commented Mr. Upton. "Time was when it was not so, but the hearty support given to measures necessary to the development of the whole state have brought about a new feeling among our people."

Session Opens Today. Fred N. Wallace of Tualuma, secretary of the congress, reached the city yesterday and is at the Imperial. Prominent delegates to arrive include C. C. Clark of Arlington, president of the John Day district project, involving 400,000 acres; James K. E. the chairman, George Russell of Prineville and Denton G. Burdick and Guy E. Dohson of Redmond.

1:30 P. M.—The Irrigation and Drainage District Guarantee Amendment From a Legal Standpoint, George M. Brown, attorney-general. P. M.—The Work of the United States Reclamation Service in Oregon, C. Henry, consulting engineer, United States Reclamation commission.

MEINE RAPPED FOR VIEWS ON RADICALS

"Missionary of Bolshevism," W. F. Woodward Avers.

MAYOR ALSO IS WRATHY

Executive Repudiates Idea of Calling "Bunch of Reds" Together to Get Pointers on Duties.

That Dr. Edward T. Devine, for 14 years a member of the staff of Columbia university, former New York welfare worker, widely known author of books on social problems and an associate editor of the Survey magazine, is a "missionary of bolshevism," is the statement made yesterday by William F. Woodward, prominent Portland business man.

George L. Baker, mayor of Portland, while not employing such scathing words, last night said, in answer to a query that he does not agree with Dr. Devine on the subject of handling radicals, as expressed by him as the speaker of the evening at the annual banquet of the Oregon Social Hygiene society, held at the Benson hotel, Tuesday night, and at which A. F. Fiegel presided.

Another declaration made by Dr. Devine was that he would like to see the governors of states and the mayors of large cities call into meetings all of the restless, discontented elements and discuss with them their grievances, saying that, in this manner, if careful heed were taken, officials might learn something as to how better to conduct public affairs.

"I certainly cannot agree with Dr. Devine on his ideas of handling radicals and radicalism," said Mayor Baker last night. "I frankly told him so at the close of the meeting. Had he been addressing another and more public meeting, I should have challenged his statements on this subject right at the time. On the subject of social hygiene, upon which I engaged his statements on this subject, his remarks were all right, but when he wandered off onto the subject of the radicals, I quite disagree with his views as there expressed."

Conference Plan Rapped. "I do not agree with him at all that our governors and mayors call into mass meetings of radicals and with them discuss how this government may be run in a better manner; I do not agree with him when he says the deporting of one radical will develop two or three others and I think it is a shame that we have the privilege of going about plotting them."

President Kerr welcomed the 315 entering students to the institution, and spoke on the work of the coming term. Special musical numbers were given by Carl Gjesse, a Portland violinist, and Mrs. Gjesse, a vocalist.

LOGGERS MUST BE PAID

I. W. W. NO LONGER GET JOBS IN LUMBER CAMPS.

Proof of Good Citizenship Is Required Before Places Will Be Given Men in Woods.

Proof of good Americanism is one of the prime requisites nowadays before jobs are given applicants in the lumbering camps of the Pacific northwest, according to advices received by the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen at its headquarters in this city. The day of the "wobbly" is ended, and none save loyalists need apply to harvest the lumber crop.

The change in policy among logging operators, it is said, follows the resumption of work after the enforced shut-down of a few weeks ago because of storm conditions. Employers have determined that hereafter only loyal Americans who have not been identified with the I. W. W. or other radical organizations will get first choice of employment.

Logging camps thus far opened in the Columbia river district, after the storm suspension, are the Sitton Creek Logging company, Noyes-Holland Logging company, Palmer Owen company, Columbus Logging company, Kerry Timber company, Nehalem camp and the camp of the Silver Falls Lumber company at Silverton.

State Has 44 Fires in December.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 7.—(Special)—There were 44 fires in Oregon, exclusive of Portland during the month of December, according to a report prepared today by A. S. Barber, state insurance commissioner. Klamath Falls suffered heaviest of any town in the state, the aggregate fire losses there for December amounted to $40,000.

MRS. E. H. HANNAN GAINED 20 POUNDS

Seattle Woman Could Hardly Eat—Feels Fine Since Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac has not only restored me to perfect health, but I have gained 20 pounds in weight," said Mrs. E. H. Hannan, 5035 Thirty-fifth avenue, South Seattle, Wash., recently. Continuing, she said: "For years and years I have suffered with indigestion and my appetite was so poor I had to force down every mouthful I ate, and even when I ate I managed to eat in this way would almost kill me. After every meal I had intense cramping pains in my stomach and gas would press against my lungs so I could scarcely get my breath. I had the headache nearly all the time and at times became so dizzy I would nearly fall. My nerves were in such bad condition it was almost impossible for me to get a good night's sleep, as I was so restless I would roll and toss all night long. I had lost weight until I had become so weak it was with the greatest difficulty I could do my housework, for I could hardly get about at all, and I just felt tired and worn out all the time."

"Although I had tried many different medicines, I had not been helped, and was becoming very much discouraged. I had heard so much praise of Tanlac, and thought that a number of my friends advised me to take Tanlac I decided to try it and it was only a short while after I began taking it that I began to get better and my appetite improved so I could eat these hearty meals a day and everything I ate agreed with me perfectly. I continued taking it and now I am completely rid of all my troubles. I have gained 20 pounds, my pains after eating and there is never a sign of gas. The headaches and pains have been entirely gone, and my nerves are in such good condition I can sleep all night long as peacefully as a child, and my strength so I can get about as well as I ever could and am so full of energy and feel so good all the time my housework is a pleasure to me."

"My husband has also been taking Tanlac for indigestion and is now entirely over his troubles. I think Tanlac is a grand medicine and I am always glad to say a good word for it."

Tanlac is sold in Portland by the Owl Drug company.—Adv.

CASTLE ROCK, Wash., Jan. 7.

(Special)—William L. Tanell, 44, county commissioner for Coville county, died this morning.

Obituary.

CASTLE ROCK, Wash., Jan. 7.—(Special)—William L. Tanell, 44, county commissioner for Coville county, died this morning. He was stricken with paralysis in Vancouver some six weeks ago. The funeral will be held Friday at 2 o'clock under the auspices of the Methodist church.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 7.—(Special)—Irina King, 12, who was severely burned several months ago while employed in a logberry field a short distance from Salem, died here Monday night. Death was due to dilation of the heart. The child is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. King, and by two brothers and three sisters.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Jan. 7.—(Special)—L. J. Wynans, probably the oldest man in Walla Walla or southeastern Washington, passed away at his home here today, almost 88 years old. Mr. Wynans was born in Newburgh, Orange county, New York, on February 3, 1822. He moved to Nebraska in 1855 and from there to Walla Walla, where he had since resided, in 1906. He is survived by a widow, two sons, Frank and H. L. Wynans, and a daughter, Miss Kate Wynans, all of this city.

J. M. Wright, familiarly known as "Jim" Wright, an old resident of Portland, died yesterday at 263 Cherry street.

Mr. Wright was born in Janesville, Ohio, in 1861, coming to Portland 30 years ago to enter the employ of Wright & Easton, wholesale commission merchants, on Front street. He entered the employ of the B. & O. C. Co. in 1892 as a baggage man, which position he held for 18 years, afterwards going into the jewelry and pawn broker business at 40 1/2 Sixth street. The first firm name was Wright & Clark, then Wright & Barr until the death of Mr. Barr several years ago. Mr. Wright was associated with Fred T. Merrill in the Rose City Athletic club.

Besides his widow, Mr. Wright leaves a father, mother and two brothers in California and one sister in Chicago. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 P. M. from Holman's undertaking parlors and burial will take place at River View cemetery.
