AMERICA'S NEW TENOR. CONCERT, PUBLIC AUDITORIUM MONDAY EVE.

When Jack Climbed the Bean Stalk

He set a permanent record for long-distance agility, while all agricultural records forever and a day were eclipsed by the prodigious growth of that most remarkable vine. But there are folk today who do assert that the fairy bean stalk is a mere sprout in comparison with the dynamic upward trend of living costs during the past several years.

To secure accurate information on increased costs of living, as they have affected individual families during the six-year period, 1914 to 1919, inclusive, The Sunday Oregonian offers two cash awards each week for the best letters upon the subject:

"THE HIGH COST OF LIVING IN OUR HOME" Offering Weekly Prizes FIRST, $10; SECOND, $5

The following general rules will apply to the contest: 1-In terms of cash give lump sums expended during the six-year period, by individual years, or by direct comparison of 1914 with 1919, for the following items: Food, rent, fuel, shoes, clothing. 2-Percentages of increase should not be employed. Give as nearly as possible exact annual expenditures for the individual items, showing by comparison the increased cash outlay for actual

3-Limit manuscripts to 759 words or less. Value of data given will be considered above mere literary merit. 4—Give full name and address, for information of the contest editor, though same will be withheld from publication if requested. 5-State number in family for each comparative year, rating as

6-Write plainly in ink or typewriter on one side of the sheet only, and address all letters to "Contest Editor, The Oregonian, Portland, Or." Right is reserved by the contest editor to use all
