

EXCITE MEXICANS HONOR AMERICANS

Perilous Escape Made at Time of Vera Cruz Fight.

FLAG DESECRATION TOLD

Nogales Physician Says There Has Been No Safety for Countrymen in Mexico Since 1910.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 19.—After describing one outrage after another for which he said he had witnessed, Dr. John Hunter, an American physician of Nogales, told the senate subcommittee investigating the Mexican situation today he never had known of a Mexican being killed in the killing an American in Mexico. "There has been no safety for American life or property in Mexico since 1910," he said. "I have known a lot of Mexicans in that time, and I do not know one—and I know Carranza—whose death I would not regret."

Dr. Hunter was at Guadalajara when the Americans occupied Vera Cruz. His account of the witness of the Americans from there was accepted as additional evidence of the higher regard held by Mexican soldiers and German representatives. It was the British consul who afforded protection to the Americans at Guadalajara and a German clerk at another town who effected the release of Americans held by Mexican soldiers by declaring himself a German consular officer.

Farmer Shoots Three.
J. D. Ward, now a farmer in Texas, gave the first instance in the committee's record of an American coming on a fruit ranch with his wife in 1915, he testified. One night he was visited by soldiers and by one identified as a non-commissioned officer in Carranza's army. They had been there before and tried to extort money. That night, Ward said, he and his wife were alone, but not enough to satisfy him and he and his wife tried to force their way through the door.

"I had told my wife to get under the bed," he testified. "I had made up my mind I would have to fight. At the leader came in I fired and he fell. The others began firing and continued their efforts to enter. I had estimated there were not more than eight or ten in the background when the controversy began. Pretty soon another came in sight and I let him have it too, and a moment later I managed to make out the outlines of another man and I got him."

Another Family Attacked.
The attacking party withdrew and the remainder of the night was spent by Mr. and Mrs. Ward in hiding under the barn.

It developed next day, he said, that Mexicans on their way to his house had raided that of an American negro, brutally attacking the man's wife. A Cherokee, who had been a member of the Blacklock colony, testified he had been held 19 days and ordered shot by Mexican soldiers. He was who insisted he was a Yaqui Indian and a spy of Villa. Jacks is from Pine Bluff, Ark. His escape was an indirect result of his enforced practice of medicine.

He said he had a quantity of medicine and the Mexicans insisted that he must know their uses, compelled him to treat them. His supply ran low and he was given permission to go to Tampico for more. There, through assistance of the American consul, he returned to America.

When the family which Mr. Hunter and other American refugees was on its way from Guadalajara to Manzanillo the occupants were captured, he declared, to be taken to the Mexicans at stations through which they passed. The Mexicans were convinced by manufactured "news" being printed, that their country and the United States were at war, and that they were being taken to the Mexicans in triumph.

This "news" so excited the Mexicans, the witness said, that they were shouting advice to each other to kill every American in Mexico. The Americans in Guadalajara went to the British consulate while the American consulate was being sacked.

Escape from Guadalajara to Manzanillo was graphically described. Forced at the head of the column, the crowds at every station, the fugitives were forced to witness at one place the desecration of the American flag. Men and boys brought it to the side of the train and, after sweeping it over the ground, threw it into a fire. These they burned and threw the ashes through the car windows.

The escape from Manzanillo was made on a German ship. Mexican mobs had raided the American consulate there also.

Dr. Hunter said that "big black horns" had been painted on a picture of Wilson.

Numerous instances of raids, murders and outrages were given by Dr. Hunter.
