

DEPORTATION CASES OF TWO REUS HEARD

Communist Affiliation Is Admitted by Both.

OTHERS ARE INVESTIGATED

Canadian Who Was Smuggled Into Country, Convicts and State Hospital Inmates Quizzed.

Deportation hearings for Herman Schuler and W. G. Kieveel, radical aliens and members of the labor communist party, were conducted yesterday by R. P. Bonham, chief immigration inspector of the Portland district.

Both aliens were caught in the federal dragnet on the night of the recent "red" raids by department of justice operatives and deputy United States marshals. Schuler admitted having been an organizer for the radical party, although Kieveel asserted his activities were confined solely to membership in the organization.

The hearings were private and neither man was represented by an attorney, although they could have procured counsel had they so desired. As fast as the hearings are concluded, the records will be forwarded to Washington, D. C., where final disposition will be made. Other alien radicals who were identified with the labor communist party will receive hearings during the week.

Canadian Gets Hearing

Immigration officials also conducted a hearing on the lawless case against Wilfred Bergeron, a Canadian subject who is held for deportation. Bergeron was smuggled into this country after having been denied admission and was caught at Washougal, Wash., shortly after his arrival across the border.

Mr. Bonham has just returned from Salem where he conducted hearings to determine whether or not the inmates of the state penitentiary and two inmates of the state hospital shall be deported. Of the convicted cases, that against Wilgot Johnson is said to be the most serious. He is a radical Swede who was convicted of criminal syndicalism in the courts of eastern Oregon and is serving a ten-year sentence. He told Mr. Bonham he has been an organizer in the I. W. W. and believes that the workers should overthrow the United States government by armed force. It is considered certain he will be deported back.

Other Convicts Get Hearings. William F. Currier, an ex-convict man from Canada, is another undesirable whom immigration officials are seeking to deport. He is serving time for burglary. Julius Frenkel, a Pole serving time for burglary, and Ilija Bulovich, an Austrian convicted of highway robbery, and other convicts who were given deportation hearings.

Yoso Oranic and Mrs. Ellen Anderson are the two asylum inmates against whom deportation charges were filed. The former is a native of Austria, while Mrs. Anderson is a Canadian subject. Mr. Bonham announced that other radicals whose names have been under surveillance for the past several months, are either under arrest now or will be arrested, under a hold for deportation warrants. The list of "reds" affiliated with the labor communist party will have hearings in advance of the others, and as soon as these cases are out of the way the less flagrant cases will receive immediate attention.

Representative Gallagher Is Fined for Brother

Violation of Federal Law Governing Shipment of Beaver Hides Costs $25.

WHEN the strong arm of the United States government catches out and clamps the unwary within its grip, brotherly love will assert itself.

Pat Gallagher is a representative from Malheur county in the state legislature. He is the brother of Dan Gallagher, a well-to-do farmer of the Malheur country.

Mrs. Dan Gallagher wanted a beaver coat, so her thoughtful husband proceeded to collect the needed number of beaver hides and shipped them out to be made up into a warm coat which would withstand the rigors of an eastern Oregon winter.

But Dan's thoughts were so bent upon pleasing his wife that he forgot to remember a few federal laws which make it unlawful to have such packages properly labeled and marked.

Hence, Uncle Sam, in the person of the United States attorney, filed a complaint against Dan, charging him with a violation of the federal law governing such shipments.

Dan is busy out on his eastern Oregon ranch, so brother Pat, who arrived in Portland Monday from Salem, where he was very much a part of the late lamented extraordinary session of the legislature, appeared yesterday in federal court and entered a plea of guilty for brother Dan.

"Twenty-five dollars fine," pronounced Judge Wolverton.

Pat dug into his vest pocket and brought forth a state warrant which he had received for attending the session. He turned it over to the clerk in payment of brother Dan's fine.

Mrs. Dan Gallagher will get her beaver coat, while brother-in-law Pat will be himself back to Ontario at once to collect from brother Dan.

MERCIER MAKES PLEA FOR WORKMEN HED IN PRISON

"Hindered From Fulfilling Their Religious Duties and Deprived of Spiritual Consolation," Cardinal Writes Von Falkenhause.

CARDINAL MERCIER'S STORY
Including his correspondence with the German authorities in Belgium during the war, 1914 to 1918, edited by Professor Fernand Meyence of Louvain University and translated by the Benedictine monks of Augustine's, Ramsgate, England.

As a specimen of adroit diplomacy which would not point either sincerely or of courtesy, the cardinal's written observation on the death of Baron von Bisping is a gem. "I shall pray to the Lord in all sincerity," announced the prelate to Von der Lancken, "for the repose of his sinners, and especially in need of prayers."

Cardinal Mercier had enjoyed particular opportunities for studying the governor-general's character. It is doubtful, however, whether the private mercier would have been so fully realized at the time the depths of Von Bisping's hypocrisy. The governor-general's basic intentions were completely unmasked after his death, when his 6000-word memorial, published in Das Grossere Deutschland, the agency of his personal friend, W. Baumeister. In this illuminating production, smug pretense is thrown alike to the winds.

"We shall have to observe in Belgium," writes Von Bisping under his present signature, "during many years, the present system of dictature. We should abstain from any moderation or alleviation of our policy. The pretence that we will choose to live outside the country will have to be extinguished. It is by force that we shall have to obtain the result that a population now still hostile regards the German rule and submits to it."

And here are some more choice extracts from the Von Bisping tract, advanced in favor of the German annexation of Belgium:

"Belgium becomes free again, she will join the enemies of Germany.

"Belgium—Belgium must offer to the German armies an open passage in the direction of France.

"Belgium—Belgium must be a barrier protecting the German industrial interests.

"Belgium—She will supply materials and a market for German industry.

"Belgium—The loss of Belgium would be a serious blow to the prestige of German arms and of the German leaders.

of the Political Department, Government-General, Brussels.

"Dear Baron: My vicar-general has had the honor to give you a provisional answer to the letter which you were good enough to write me on the 10th of October. Nevertheless, I must revert to the subject matter of your correspondence because I attach great importance to it and, thanks to your gracious intervention, do not despair of ultimately obtaining redress.

"You are kind enough to inform me that, from a religious point of view, an improvement has been effected in the prison regime. Though I must confess I do not exactly perceive what this mitigation consists, yet I am glad the lot of the prisoners has been softened and thank you for the efforts you have made to bring it about.

"You appeal to pressure of work. Really, if instead of opening the gates of the arsenal at 7 A. M., you were to open them at 9 A. M., do you think work would suffer seriously? It is not already enough that our poor workmen are forced to exhaust their strength every day of the week in the service of their enemies?

"I said, Baron, that you have been misled by the people commissioned to inform you about the incident after his brought to my notice yesterday supply an additional proof? I have not expressed to anybody my intention of going to St. Gudule's on the 1st of this month. I decided, on the contrary, several weeks ago, to sing the Te Deum in my cathedral, and I have informed the metropolitan chapter of my decision. The author of the report which attacked you has fore-invented his story in every detail and it is upon reports of this nature that the German headquarters are disturbed, threaten, fix their decisions, etc.

"Can you not put an end to this irritating procedure?"

"Again, on the 15th instant, after the funeral of the late lamented M. Schollaert at St. Gudule's, I luncheoned in the strictest privacy with a friend. Just as I was taking my seat again in my carriage, I was amazed to see a group of about 50 people of the lower classes prowling about just outside the house. Their presence was accounted for by two armed sentries who were lying in wait for my exit and spying on my movements. I saw these two sentries with my own eyes, and hearing arms, too!

"Is this meant for a joke? But, if some day the joke becomes a tragedy, who is to be made answerable for it?"

(Signed)

HOUSEWIVES' AID ASKED

OFFICIAL REQUESTS REPORTS ON EXCESSIVE CHARGES.

United States Attorney States Sugar Price Is Beyond Local Control.

Jams Pat Under Ban.

An earnest appeal for co-operation from the housewife in reporting cases of excessive charges on merchandise made yesterday by United States Attorney Humphreys at the meeting of the housewives' council. He explained the uselessness of attempts to fix prices on goods on account of the difference in style, material, grade and quality, but pointed out that staples are a wiser purchase, as they bring the dealer a smaller margin of profit, whereas novelties vary from exceedingly high prices at the beginning of the season to low prices at the end of it.

The district attorney said he is now tracing lot numbers of high-priced goods shipped here and will have officials in whose territory they were produced investigated. In the past two weeks merchants have been flooding his office with requests for information regarding unreasonable wholesale prices. Clothing and shoe complaints in all of the cities, whereas there are numerous and statistics are startling.

"You do not realize it," he said, "but some of the goods are coming money on some of their purchases. We had a complaint from a woman who had seen a $24 suit later marked down to $22. Four of this sort the man had paid $68 for the garment he was trying to dispose of at little over half that amount."

Concerning 18-cent sugar, Mr. Humphreys says nothing can be done locally to remedy the price, as San Francisco or even places beyond that are the source of the trouble. Before the war, he said, grocers were satisfied with half a cent margin, whereas they are being allowed four times that much at present.

Flght Over Washub Causes Fine. CHEHALIS, Wash., Jan. 20—(Special.)—Grace Peachy of Okanogan was fined $7.50 by Justice W. A. Westover. Mrs. Peachy's offense originated in a fight over a wash tub, her victim being a neighbor, Lois Cooper. The latter alleged that the Peachy woman struck her in the face during the altercation.
