

WALLA WALLA GETS GUNS USED IN WAR

Long-Range Rifles Used by 140th Located.

RECORD PAINTED ON EACH

National Guard Company Is First to Obtain Heavy Weapons, Valued at $200,000.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU. Washington, Feb. 5.—Four famous guns which were operated against the enemy in France by the valiant boys of the 146th field artillery, recruited mainly from Washington, Oregon and Idaho, will soon be on the way to Walla Walla, Wash.

Representative Summers of Washington has been seeking weeks to obtain these guns for battery A of Walla Walla, a new motorized company of the Washington national guard commanded by sergeant Bruce Whitney, who was at the front with the 146th in France.

Advices from the war department today said that the guns had finally been located at the arsenal at Aberdeen, Maryland, and that they will be shipped west just as soon as word comes that adequate shelter for them has been provided.

Guns Are Worth $200,000.

These will be valuable accessories to the new Walla Walla company and probably somewhat of a curiosity at this time in any part of the United States. Their entire equipment has a value of $200,000, because each gun is mounted on a huge tractor.

No valuable are they that the war department will dispatch a representative with them to see that none of the brass parts are removed by junk dealers or relic seekers. The big weapons are of French make, being known as French 155s, and according to regimental citations they had much to do with winning the war.

These citations say that the 146th, together with the 18th, fired more ammunition at the enemy than any other American artillery of a similar type in France, which means these guns were kept busy for some time.

Each Rifle Bears Name.

Sentimental names were given to the guns by the boys of the regiment while overseas, which were "Blanche," "Jennie," "Cleopatra" and "Lily." The antecedent of the name "Blanche" is known, this gun being named after Mrs. Jennie McInroe of Walla Walla, mother of sergeant James McInroe, who commanded it in France.

The distinction obtained by the Walla Walla battery in this case is unusual one, these guns being the first of such caliber to be furnished to any national guard company in the United States, besides the fact that this is the first company to obtain for training the identical guns which were manned by many of its members in the American expeditionary forces.

DEMOCRATIC IRE IS UP

democratic doctrine that the government is most effective when it governs the least. This precept of democratic faith in the recent past has been grievously and widely abused against whom, in the name of democracy, there was imposed upon 100,000,000 free people, without asking their direct consent, a restriction on their personal liberty which Russia in her palmy days ever dreamed of.

Sims' Name Is Hissed.

The name of Admiral Sims was introduced by Senator Riehe, the toastmaster, after Secretary Daniels' address. The secretary had dwelt upon the great service performed by the North sea mine barrage in putting an end to the German submarine menace, and incidentally credited President Wilson with being the high American official to conceive the idea. Mr. Riehe, before calling upon Governor Edwards as the next speaker, said:

"Secretary Daniels spoke of the great barrage laid across the North sea. I have just received a memorandum which shows that the only American officer who opposed the laying of that barrage was Admiral Sims."

The mention of the admiral's name was the signal for considerable hissing and booing.

Among the democrats at the speaker's table were: Charles B. Alexander, vice-president of the National Democratic club; Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, and the following national committee men: Norman E. Mack, New York; E. P. Riehe, New Jersey; Frederic B. Lynch, Minnesota; Patrick H. Quinn, Rhode Island; John W. Coughlin, Massachusetts.

Tribute Paid to Wilson.

President Wilson was given credit for having seen the necessity of shutting German submarines off the seas as the only effective method of winning the war, for you can never end the submarine peril if you let them out and then have to devote yourselves to chasing them all over the ocean.

"The barrage finally built across the North sea," Mr. Daniels said, "was the American navy's answer to the president's counsel. It was proposed by Admiral Earle (chief of ordnance) in April, 1917, approved by Admiral Benson and Admiral Mayo, by the general board, the secretary of the navy and by the president. It was the greatest constructive naval measure of effectiveness in the whole war. It was a factor both in destroying the morale of the German navy and in its deadly destruction of submarines.

Convoy Idea Wilson's.

President Wilson had also pointed out before naval staffs had reached the conclusion, Mr. Daniels said, that the only way to "most surely safeguard merchant ships was to send them in convoys protected by armed ships."

The secretary attacked the record of congress since 1915 when "dishonest appeal to hypocritical politics enabled the republicans to elect a majority of this congress," and declared the people had "already found the way to a gold brick." That record, he characterized as certain to defeat the republican party next November, "is it certain that the democrats will have the wisdom to go forward and nominate a great leader who is himself a platform of constructive legislation."

Mr. Daniels said he believed that a league of nations such as that proposed in the treaty would enable the world to maintain peace without com-

DOLLARS BIG ISSUE IN NEWBERRY TRIAL

Testimony Deals Almost Wholly With Expenditures.

BANK OFFICIALS ON STAND

More Than $200,000 Shown to Have Been Spent in Campaign, According to Prosecution.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 5.—Dollars formed the main topic of the Newberry election conspiracy trial today. Beginning with the testimony of Allan K. Moore, a defendant, who pleaded "no contest," and continued up to adjournment, the testimony related to money expended or received, deposited and checked against and cash kept in deposit vaults in Detroit or handed out in the Grand Rapids office from which the western Michigan campaign was directed.

Bank officials from Detroit and this city were on the stand to identify reading of long lists of deposits and vouchers checks, and guardians of the master key of a Detroit safety deposit vault told of visits to that institution by certain of the defendants.

At one stage of the proceedings Federal Judge Sessions interrupted a reading of long lists of deposits and withdrawals with the remark that the jury "could not possibly carry all those figures in their heads," and with the consent of the defense attorneys he ordered the accounts, "considered as read."

More Than $200,000 Spent.

The prosecution reckoned tonight that it has shown thus far that more than $200,000 had been handed in the campaign. This was compared with the $750 which Judge Sessions has ruled was the limit of campaign expenses allowed by law for the 1918 senatorial campaign. The defense has indicated that it will combat this point on the ground that the statutes refer solely to a candidate's personal contributions or expenditures.

Moore testified that he had received and handled approximately $200,000 in cash as a field agent in the campaign. The testimony of a Grand Rapids banker, the cashier gave the total deposits in the account of Charles F. Floyd, in charge of Grand Rapids headquarters, at $11,280. Detroit bankers testified that $98,778 had been deposited in the account of Paul H. King, "chairman," and that the account of "the Truman H. Newberry senatorial committee" showed total deposits of $178,857.20. These two accounts were in the Commonwealth Federal Savings bank of Detroit.

Bank Handles Big Sum.

In addition it was brought out that Frank W. Blair, president of the Union Trust company of Detroit and treasurer of the Newberry campaign, had received through his own bank $178,857.20 through his own bank. The institution's records show that all this money had been checked against in favor of the Truman H. Newberry senatorial committee account in the other bank, and Blair's attorney, A. H. Smith, by cross-examination of a preceding witness, established Blair had personally seen to make a deposit personally in the Commonwealth Federal Savings bank.

RULE OF SOCIALISTS BY ALIENS CHARGED

New York Assembly Trial Witness Raps Party.

FOREIGNERS PAY DUES

Knights of Columbus Worker Declares at Least 70 Per Cent Are Not Americans.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Peter W. Collins of Boston, a Knights of Columbus worker, was recalled to the stand at today's session of the trial of the five suspended socialist assemblymen to support a claim by the prosecution that the socialist party was dominated by aliens. This claim was the basis of a charge that socialist public officials were controlled by dues-paying aliens through resignations filed with their party organization after they had been nominated.

When adjournment was taken until Tuesday the prosecution had virtually closed its case.

Mr. Collins was today's only witness. In cross-examination the defense sought to show Collins was employed by the business of the Knights of Columbus, that he was prejudiced in favor of trade unionism as opposed to socialism and that he lacked knowledge of socialism and the socialist party.

70 Per Cent Held Aliens.

Having made the "conservative" estimate that at least 70 per cent of socialist party members were aliens, Collins said that through the resignation clause in the party constitution "the socialist party is actually a government of a large flag from the geography of Tower avenue, the location of the structures from which the rain of bullets swept the parade grounds of the I. W. O. rifle men are alleged to have picked their targets on the holiday of the party's anniversary. He proposed no objection to this proposal, and intimates that it will not.

In compliance with the law, the adjournment of the trial to Centralia on the evidential survey will mean that the 11 defendants will revisit the grounds of the trial on the 12th of the tower avenue, the location of the structures from which the rain of bullets swept the parade grounds of the I. W. O. rifle men are alleged to have picked their targets on the holiday of the party's anniversary. He proposed no objection to this proposal, and intimates that it will not.

Surveys of Scene Is Next.

It is understood that the state will ask permission to convey the jury to Centralia for the evidential survey. The alleged murder of Warren O. Grimm occurred, and for fixing clearly the point on the ground that the statutes refer solely to a candidate's personal contributions or expenditures.

RATE CLAUSE PROTESTED

Washington Commission Objects to Proposed Rail Legislation.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 5.—(Special.)—The Washington public service commission today wired Senator Cummings to urge that the members of the congressional delegation from this state a vigorous protest against insertion in the pending railroad legislation of a provision submitted by the committee of railroad executives conferring on the interstate commerce commission authority to suspend intrastate rates upon an informal showing by the carrier and to substitute rates ordered by the interstate commerce commission before any formal hearing is allowed.

Delegation of power to the federal commission to arbitrarily substitute its own rates in lieu of state rates where the intrastate rates are alleged to be discriminatory as against interstate rates without a full hearing will have the effect of destroying the power of state commissions to regulate state rates, the Washington commission declares.
